'Ottawa Ready To Fight Back'

Union Nationale Gets Warning

Times News Services

RIMOUSKI, Que. — If Quebec's Union Nationale government is spoiling for a fight the federal government is set to fight back, Regional Economic Expansion Minister Jean Marchand warned Sunday.

The Ottawa policy of turning the other cheek when attacked by Quebec is a thing of the past, he said. And if any Quebec government not elected by a popular majority ever attempts to create an independent state, he said, Ottawa will take immediate action.

"If they simply want battles for their own sake they'll get them," he told a meeting of 100 Liberals from eastern Quebec federal ridings Sunday.

"There are real quarrels and . . . there are those that are artifically provoked and really useless battles."

Ottawa poured more than $1 billion into Quebec each year through shared-cost programs "but the people don't know about it" because the provincial government claimed all the political credit.

Earlier, Marchand, who represents the Quebec City riding of Langelier, said in a television session recorded for future airing that if a Quebec government elected on less than a 50 per cent popular vote moved towards independence, the federal government would intervene to protect the rights of the majority.

If Quebec independence came about following a majority vote, "there would be no problems."

"However, in my opinion, the independence option presents many dangers, but perhaps that is not the feeling of the whole population," he said.

'Same Old Campaign Tricks'

The Union Nationale, Marchand said during the Liberal meeting, was again resorting to its favorite campaign trick, dating back to the Duplessis era, of "fighting an election by blaming the federal government." A provincial general election has been called for April 29.

Despite Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand's pledge not to wage the current campaign on this basis, the next day his ministers began to attack Ottawa, Marchand said.

"If they want to play that game, we'll play it too. For too long, the federal government hasn't fought back.

"Things are going to change, and they're going to change radically."

The first step would be to "tell Quebecers what we are doing with their money in Quebec.".

Any province refusing to accept clauses stating exactly how Ottawa's contribution to any future share-cost program would be recognized and publicized "won't get a damned cent," Marchand said.

He said many provincial regimes were acting "childishly." They had inaugurated vocational technical high schools, for which Ottawa had paid 75 per cent of the cost,

TOT SURVIVES MISHAP BUT DIES IN HOSPITAL

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — A week-old baby died in hospital today, bringing the death toll to four following the sinking Sunday night of a 34-foot fishing boat off the northern British Columbia coast.

RCMP said the baby was the child of Harold and Kathy Barton, who were among the five survivors, all from Port Simpson, 15 miles northwest of here.

The baby was picked up alive from the debris of the vessel, identified as the PE-50, after a rescue boat responded to a distress signal reporting the boat's engines were stalled and that it was taking on water.

Bible Translation Draws Wide Praise

LONDON (AP) — The New English Bible went on sale today amid debate on its style and publishers' predictions of sales in the millions.

The new Bible is not a revision of previous versions but a new translation from Greek and Hebrew texts. Its publishers, the University Presses of Oxford and Cambridge claim it is "as truthful as human skill could make it and carried out by the best scholars and translators that the churches possessed.

The translation was sponsored by all the major Christian churches in Britain except the Roman Catholic. The work took 12 years.

Dr. Cecil Northcott, churches correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, said:

"It will rank among the great biblical achievements. Never was the English-speaking world better provided for in contemporary translations of the Bible than today, and the New English Bible is the crowning venture."

'IT COMMUNICATES'

John Redfern, churches correspondent of The Daily Express, predicted "many arguments about the translation, but I believe that it fulfils its task — which was to communicate — at all points."

However, Jesuit scholar Peter Levi commented in The Sunday Observer:

"The new Bible is written in a deadly and churchy mandarin . . . "

A Sunday Times critic said: "Too often its English lacks both dignity and authority. The substantial changes in sense are notable, and more than enough to have had men burnt at the stake for."

Crux Loses Last Appeal

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP) — The Bahamas Court of Appeal dismissed today an appeal by lawyer-financier A. G. Duncan Crux of Vancouver against the refusal by the Supreme Court to issue him a writ of habeas corpus.

Crux, 63, former head of the Commonwealth group of companies in British Columbia, was ordered by a magistrate's court last December to be extradited to Canada to face 11 charges of fraud and theft. The charges arose from the collapse of the Commonwealth group in November, 1968.

Crux has been in Fox Hill Prison near here since Dec. 7, apart from three weeks in hospital for a series of medical tests.

Teachers Threaten Strike

Mass resignations or a teachers' strike are possibilities in the wake of the provincial government's refusal to increase teachers' pensions, a member of the B.C. Teachers Federation pensions committee said today.

Don Jorgenson of Vancouver, said pensions are first on the agenda for the Federation's annual meeting opening March 30 in Vancouver.

A member of a BCTF delegation — one of about 19 teachers who will be lobbying MLAs today and Tuesday — was officially told today by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black that pensions increases are not planned this year, Jorgenson. said.

DRASTIC ACTION

There was a very good chance that drastic action might result. "Teachers feel they have nothing to lose and possibly something to gain by action that will make the government and the public aware of their feelings."

Jorgenson said that next fall or winter would be "logical" times to undertake drastic action.

But he stressed that the Federation's pension committee is not empowered to make such decisions. They would have to come from the Federation membership as a whole.

He said the first indication that no pension increases were planned came indirectly some weeks ago in a letter from a Social Credit MLA to a constituent who was a Federation member.

Jorgenson said Black, in speaking to a delegation member from his own con-

Cambodian Talks Open As New Protests Flare

PHOM PENH (CP) — Demonstrators staged a big anti-Viet Cong protest outside the Cambodian legislature today as the neutralist government announced the opening of talks with the Viet Cong and North Vietnam.

An estimated 30,000 youths paraded in front of the National Assembly waving anti-Viet Cong banners and shouting slogans calling for the departure of Viet Cong forces from Cambodia.

A government communique today announcing the start of the three-way talks came after a North Vietnamese news agency report, monitored in Hong Kong, said Cambodia, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong had agreed to hold a meeting in the Cambodian capital to discuss their problems.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodian head of state, is in Moscow seeking Soviet help in persuading the Viet Cong to leave his country.

After a final round of talks with Kremlin officials, he is expected to leave for Peking to make the same plea.

On Friday, after demonstrators here had sacked the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong embassies, Cambodia asked both parties to withdraw their forces by Sunday.

The deadline passed without any sign of compliance, and North Vietnamese and Cambodian troops were reported to have exchanged fire for

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko arrived here today on an official six-day visit for talks with Czechoslovak leaders about a new friendship pact.

Spy Plane Crashes

DA NANG (CP) — Twenty-two Americans were killed when a huge U.S. Navy electronic spy plane capable of jamming missile radar crashed at Da Nang Air Base today. Nine men survived, a U.S. military spokesman said in Saigon.

Hippie Patrol

JEMEZ, N.M. (UPI) — The U.S. Forest Service said today its rangers have started "hippie patrols" to cut down on nude bathing in New Mexico national forests. Fred R. Swetnam, district ranger for the Santa Fe National Forest, said the idea behind the patrols was to avoid confrontations with hippies violating forest regulations by bathing nude in streams.

Problem Worsens

MONTREAL (CP) — Montrea's troubled mail delivery ran into another snag today when key mail truck drivers walked off the job at the main post office after filling their trucks with mail and then locking them. A post office spokesman said the only mail that probably would be delivered today would be that left over in sub-stations from Friday and Saturday.

Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Nixon today signed a bill creating a commission on population growth to deal with what he described as one of the most highly explosive problems of the next 30 years.

77 Indians Held After New Invasion

SEATTLE (CP) — Seventy-seven Indians, including 22 from Canada, were detained by military police Sunday following a second invasion of Fort Lawton, a U.S. army post they claim under an 1865 treaty.

Sixteen of them, including one Canadian, were ordered to appear before a U.S. Commissioner today at 1:30 p.m. and Indian leaders vowed the U.S. Court House in this city would be the target of a major demonstration.

The 16, with the exception of the lone Canadian, took part in a similar invasion of Fort Lawton and nearby Fort Lewis, March 8, that led to the arrest of 85 persons.

Those ordered to appear today are charged with entering a U.S. military installation illegally, based on violation of letters of expulsion given those arrested a week ago.

All 77 persons arrested Sunday were released after spending 8½ hours in custody. A spokesman for the Canadians, Fred Favel of Vancouver, said those picked up were herded into two 12-man cells in the Fort Lawton army brig. They ranged in age from eight to 46.

The "invasion" of Fort Lawton began shortly before dawn Sunday when 77 Indian men, women and children scaled a steep bluff. They were discovered shortly thereafter clustered on the top of the bluff on army property by a military police patrol.

'Battle Shapes Over Natural Resources'

VANCOUVER (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national New Democratic Party leader, said Saturday that one of the greatest international battles ever over natural resources will be shaping up in the next few months between Canada and the United States.

Speaking at Vancouver City College, Mr. Douglas said President Nixon recently restricted imports of oil from Canada so that the U.S. would be in a better position to deal with Canadians on other resources.

The NDP leader said the U.S. wants water from Canada, as well as uranium, gas and ready access to the Northwest Passage "and the only way they could dicker with us with a better hand was to restrict our oil exports across the line."

Dogfight Over Egypt

From Reuters-AP

Israeli and Egyptian jets engaged in a dogfight over Egypt today and each side said it shot down one plane.

The Israeli military command said its planes, while on a reconnaissance mission over Egypt, shot down a Russian-built MiG-21, bringing to 76 the number of Egyptian warplanes claimed by Israel since the 1967 war.

This action followed announcement of deep military penetration of Syrian territory Sunday by Israeli airborne troops, who shelled an army camp and blew up a power line 21 miles beyond Damascus.

Planned Power Line Labelled 'Tragedy'

By ROGER STONEBANKS

The planned high-voltage transmission line in Saanich and Victoria was called "an environmental tragedy" this morning by city Ald. Peter Pollen.

He made the comment during a meeting of Saanich and Victoria officials with four representatives of B.C. Hydro at Saanich municipal hall.

Pollen said he recognized Hydro's financial problems but standards had to be set in urban areas.

"Costs or no costs we have got to be extremely firm," he said. "This is commercial exploitation of our environment."

Hydro plans to put the 132,000-volt line on 75-foot-high steel poles along just over four miles, from Interubran Road at Alan to Burnside at Douglas.

The line is needed to put extra power into the area to meet growing demands.

Saanich Ald. William Noel said an overhead line is a retrograde step and "a monstrous thing" and people would prefer to pay a little extra in their rates not to have such lines overhead.

DEAD LOSS

"The opinion of local government is that it is no longer acceptable to inflict this overhead transmission line on the environment," said Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis.

When the economics of underground versus overhead were considered, he pointed out, that the effect of over-

Mutineers Hijack U.S. Arms Ship

Times News Services

SATTAHIP, Thailand — The crew of the hijacked merchant ship Columbia Eagle told rescuers the 10,636-ton freighter loaded with bombs for Thailand was taken over by two "pill popping and marijuana blowing" hippies, seamen aboard the rescue ship Rappahannock said Today.

The Columbia Eagle was seized this weekend through a ruse that caused 24 crewmen to abandon ship in belief there was a time bomb aboard. The 24 men were picked up by the Rappahannock while the mutineers sailed the vessel to the Cambodian port of Sihanoukville.

The U.S. defence department said it has received fragmentary information indicating the Cambodian government has removed two mutineers from the Columbian Eagle anchored in Cambodian waters.

The department said it understands that 13 other crew members including the skipper remained aboard the vessel.

The ship may be moved into port — perhaps Sihanoukville — and the crew may possibly be taken ashore in Cambodia, the announcement said.

Defence department spokesman Jerry Friedheim said: "We don't know if the civilian skipper of the Columbia Eagle is now in charge of the vessel."

Richard Joyce of San Francisco, a merchant seaman aboard the Rappahannock, talked with the 24 Columbia Eagle crewmen.

"They said they believed that the hijacking was done by a couple of hippies who had signed on in the United States," Joyce said. "They said these guys were popping pills and blowing marijuana all the way over and talking about how they were anti-Vietnam."

Joyce said the Columbia Eagle men were picked up from two lifeboats Saturday night about 7 hours after they were ordered to abandon ship. They were in good condition.

The survivors told their rescuers that an order to abandon ship was announced over the Columbia Eagle public address system by the third mate. He said he was acting on orders from the ship captain.

"They were under the impression that the reason they were abandoning the ship was because a bomb had been put on board to detonate with a timing device," said James Debay of San Francisco, a seaman from the Rappahannock.

"But after the 24 crewmen took to the life boats and cleared the ship, Columbia Eagle got underway. The ship with 15 members remaining aboard circled around the lifeboat and steamed off apparently at full speed."

Debay said the men in the lifeboat soon realized that the report of a live bomb being aboard the ship was a ruse. They realized that no radio message had been sent to other ships in the area, and also became suspicious because the captain himself did not appear above decks when the ship was being abandoned.

"They finally got to thinking that probably the two hippie guys may have put a gun to the captain's head," Joyce said.

LANGUAGE FRESH, AUTHORITATIVE, MODERN

New Bible Required 23 Years of Work

By HILARY BUTLER

Most Bible-readers have become familiar with the "New English Bible" translation of the New Testament. First published in 1961, it is now frequently read at public worship. This week the Joint Committee on the New Translation of the Bible completes its 23 years of work with the publication of the Old Testament and Apocrypha.

The joint committee represents seven denominations, two national councils of churches, the British and Foreign Bible Society and the National Bible Society of Scotland. In recent years it has been joined by observers from the Roman Catholic Church.

A triumphant success, this work will undoubtedly put the Old Testament back into circulation. Suddenly it has been turned into fascinating reading, no longer archaic and recondite, but modern and lucid, propelling the reader forward in anticipation instead of constantly tripping him with abrupt and difficult phrases.

Apocrypha Too

A wise decision was to include between the Old and New Testaments the books of the Apocrypha that have for centuries usually been omitted from non-Roman Catholic editions of the Bible—though they have been an accepted part of the Scriptures in the early church. As they derive from the period between 300 BC and AD 100 they present a useful picture of Jewish thinking in that little-known era before the birth of Christ.

There is a great deal in the Apocrypha that deserves notice. Who could read this translation of "Daniel and Susanna," the world's first who-dun-it, without a sort of holy thrill? And who could read without awe this description of Holy Wisdom:

"Like a fine mist she rises from the power of God, a pure effluence from the glory of the Almighty; so nothing defiled can enter into her by stealth. She is the brightness that streams from everlasting light, the flawless mirror of the active power of God and the image of His goodness."

The history of thetrans lation of Scripture into English can be traced from Anglo-Saxon days, before English proper existed. The followers of John Wycliffe in the 14th century had a translation (forbidden by the church), but the 16th-century Reformation began the task of publishing official translations of the whole Bible, the most notable being those of Tyndale and Coverdale. These formed the basis of the version published in 1611 by authority of King James I. The "King James" or "Authorized" version (AV) monopolized the English market for 270 years, till the "Revised Version" was published in the 1880s. That version, however, was no more than a scholarly revision of AV and retained the Elizabethan English style.

Many Tried

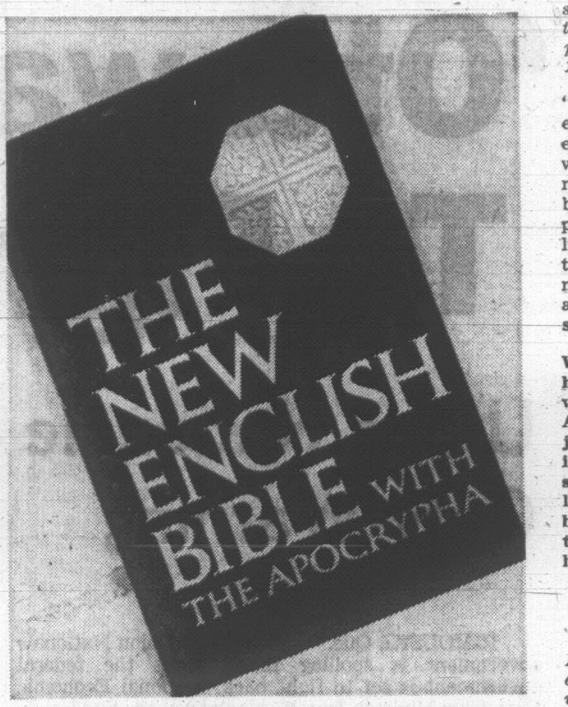
Since then many attempts have been made to render parts or the whole of the Bible into contemporary English. Weymouth, Moffatt, Goodspeed and Smith and J. B. Phillips have all achieved some popularity. The American Revised Standard Version (RSV) appeared after the Second World War, and more recently still we have had the Roman Catholic-approved "Jerusalem Bible."

The completed New English Bible (NEB) surely excels them all in its combination of modern literary fluency with accurate scholarship. Sometimes it is less pithy, but not infrequently it scintillates where earlier versions fumble.

The dust jacket describes it as "a fresh and authoritative translation of the Bible into modern English." In a preface the Archbishop of York says that the idea was set in motion by a member of a Scottish presbytery in 1946. The joint committee that was eventually set up appointed three panels of competent biblical scholars to translate from the original tongues. The committee discussed each sentence until they reached a common mind, or where they were divided a footnote provides the alternative reading. When the scholars had established the meaning their draft was submitted to a panel of "trusted literary advisers," who scrutinized it verse by verse taking pains to secure "the tone and level of language appropriate to the different kinds of writing to be found in the Bible."

Prose is set out in normal paragraphs, not broken into verses. Verse numbers are given in the margin. Passages that are poetry in the original, such as the Psalms and much of the Prophets, are laid out as unrhyming poetry on the printed page. This makes the whole book much more varied and readable.

An appendix gives tables of comparative weights and measures where you can work out that Isaiah's "bath" was about 71 pints and the equivalent of an ephah in dry measures. If that helps!



ADVANCE SALES of The New English Bible in Canada are more than double those of the New Testament, which was published in 1961. More than a million copies of the new volume are in print world-wide.

Comparisons

A few comparisons, from the Old Testament, illustrate the transition from the Elizabethan to the modern idiom:

Now the serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field which the Lord God had made. (Gen. III, 1)

Now the serpent was more subtle than any other wild creature that the Lord God had made.

The serpent was more crafty than any wild creature that the Lord God had made.

I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. (Ex. XX, 2)

I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

I am the Lord your God who brought you out of Egypt, out of the land of slavery.

I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord . . . (Ps. CXXI, 1 and 2a)

I lift up my eyes to the hills. From whence does my help come? My help comes from the Lord . . .

If I lift up my eyes to the hills, where shall I find help? Help comes only from the Lord . . .

Whom shall he teach knowledge? and whom shall he make to understand doctrine? them that are weaned from the milk, and drawn from the breasts. For precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little: for with stammering lips and another tongue will he speak to this people. (Is. XXVIII, 9 and 10)

"Whom will he teach knowledge, and to whom will he explain the message? Those who are weaned from the milk, those taken from the breast? For it is precept upon precept, precept upon precept, line upon line, here a little, there a little." Nay, but by men of strange lips and with an alien tongue the Lord will speak to this people . . .

Who is it that the prophet hopes to teach, to whom will what they hear make sense? Are they babes newly weaned, just taken from the breast? It is all harsh cries and raucous shouts, "A little more here, a little there!" So it will be with barbarous speech and strange tongue that this people will hear God speaking . . .

'Four Faces'

And every one had four faces, and every one had four wings. And their feet were straight feet; and the sole of their feet was like the sole of a calf's foot: and they sparkled like the colour of burnished brass. (Ez. I, 6 and 7) but each had four faces, and each of them had four wings. Their legs were straight, and the soles of their feet were like the sole of a calf's foot; and they sparkled like burnished bronze.

Each had four faces and each four wings; their legs were straight, and their hooves were like the hooves of a calf, glittering like a disc of bronze.

And the king commanded, and they brought those men which had accused Daniel, and they cast them into the den of lions, them, their children, and their wives; and the lions had the mastery of them, and brake all their bones in pieces or ever they came at the bottom of the den. (Dan. VI, 24)

And the king commanded, and those men who had accused Daniel were brought and cast into the den of lions — they, their children, and their wives; and before they reached the bottom of the den the lions overpowered them and broke all their bones in pieces.

By order of the king Daniel's accusers were brought and thrown into the lions' pit with their wives and children, and before they reached the floor of the pit the lions were upon them and crunched them up, bones and all.

I drew them with cords of a man, with bands of love: and I was to them as they that take off the yoke on their jaws, and I laid meat unto them. (Hos. XI, 4)

I led them with cords of compassion, with the bands of love, and I became to them as one who eases the yoke on their jaws, and I bent down to them and fed them.

(They did not know that) I harnessed them in leading-strings and led them with bonds of love — that I had lifted them like a little child to my cheek, that I had bent down to feed them.

The Bible is a large book. The Standard Edition of the New English Bible has been kept from being too bulky by the use of thin, but opaque paper, and its covers are hard and strong. The clear dark type, well set out on the page, makes it easy to the reader's eye. The Oxford University Press, The Macmillan Company of Canada Limited (for Cambridge University Press) are to be congratulated on a really good job of book production. Presumably in time luxury editions will be on the market. At $10.95 the price is very reasonable compared with new books of comparable size.

The complete New English Bible is available from today in three editions:

Popular Edition, $5.95; with Apocrypha, $6.95.

Standard Edition, $9.95; with Apocrypha, $10.95.

Library Edition (in three volumes :

Old Testament, $9.95.

New Testament, $6.95.

Apocrypha, $5.50.

Vatican To Reform Seminaries

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In the first major reform of education norms for Roman Catholic priests since 1556, the Vatican decreed today that seminaries put more stress on teaching about sex, Christian unity and atheism.

A 10,000-word Latin document signed by France's Jean Cardinal Garrone, head of the Congregation for Catholic Institutions, insists that seminaries:

—Cultivate a sense of social justice in their students.

—Give students a say in policy-making with their rector.

—Orient seminarians to approach pastoral problems in a down-to-earth way.

The document, written with the help of bishops around the world, asserts a continuing need for "minor" seminaries, where boys enter at age 14.

SEX STUDIES NEEDED

A "good sex education is required" for seminarians, the decree states, "in order that the choice of celibacy may be truly free." It orders that candidates for the priesthood be taught to esteem "the benefits of the married state."

Among traditional seminary practices reaffirmed by the document are: periods of silence, daily mass and prayer, preparation for the vows of poverty and chastity, and the classical curriculum stressing Latin, Greek, history, obedience, literature, philosophy and theology.

Seminary theological studies, the document says, should provide a special place for ecumenism "so that the good and true in other religions may be acknowledged, the error refuted and the full light of truth be communicated to those not possessing it."

The various aspects of atheism must also be taught, it continues, so future priests will know how to deal with problem raised by goodlissness.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

The disturbance which moved inland late Sunday now lies over the eastern interior. Cloudy skies and rain are associated with it this morning but skies will clear as it moves eastward across the Rockies by noon. Clearing occurred in many coastal areas during the night but the cloud will fill back in since the air is moist and cool. However a ridge of high pressure will build over the coast later today with clearing expected in most areas of the province. Clouds will spread into the Charlottes Tuesday ahead of a new Pacific storm with rain likely there late in the day.

The Weather and You

By CARL RIBLET JR.

I have to look into the sun late in the afternoon when I want to see if Jeff, the old retired Wyoming cowboy, is working in his corral. Yesterday I could see him, a couple of hundred yards to the west, with the newest addition to the neighborhood—an Arabian colt. I went over to see him and Jeff told me a tall tale about wind.

"One time on the Flying U Bar near Cody," he said, "there wasn't any wind for nearly a month. It scared us, I can tell you. Wyoming without wind is a fairy tale. The grass grew straight, the saplings quit bending to the wind and the horses stood any which way, tails or noses in any direction. Then one day the wind started up again.

"The horses at first didn't back into the wind as they usually did when grazing, and you could tell they were uncomfortable. Then a little old colt trotted out from under his mother and stood with his tail to the wind. All of the horses in the string then turned tail, too, and everything got back to normal. The idea is, of course, that to stay warmer in a wind, turn your tail to it."

Junior and his mother were looking through the family album and came to the picture of a handsome young man with a moustache.

"Who's that?" asked Junior.

"Why, that's your father, replied mother proudly.

"Yeah?" said Junior, "then who's the baldheaded guy who lives with us?"

Oakalla Guards Vote Strike Action

VANCOUVER (CP) — Oakalla prison guards and other staff, members of the British Columbia Government Employees' Union, Sunday voted to go on strike if their 1970 wage increase isn't acceptable.

The possible strike action, still subject to approval of the union's provincial executive, was approved by a vote of 298 to 11 at two meetings of the BCGEU's Oakalla Branch Sunday.

"The vote is an indication that branch members mean business in their bid for wage parity this year with guards at the B.C. Penitentiary," branch president Jack Douglas said Sunday night.

He said the 430-member branch has set up a strike committee to ensure that prison security is maintained and that Oakalla's 750 inmates are looked after in the event of a strike.

"We have no intention of abandoning our responsibilities to the people of B.C. and to the inmates," Mr. Douglas said.

Victoria BCGEU spokesman Jim Pickford said today threatened strike action is confined to the Oakalla branch, and strike votes are not anticipated anywhere else in the province.

The B.C. Jail Service staff at Oakalla and several other prisons in the province are seeking a pay boost of from 10 to 18 per cent for the 1,000 guards, tradesmen and kitchen staff in the service. Base rate now is $444 to $537 monthly.

Mr. Douglas said a tentative date cannot be set for the strike because the union doesn't know when the government will announce the wage increases this year for jail staff and other government employees.

The Oakalla group and the union's 54 other branches will be holding wage ratification meetings soon after the government's wage announcement, usually in April.

B.C. labor law makes it illegal for any provincial government employee to go on strike.

"Illegal it may be," said John L. Fryer, general secretary of the 14,000-member union. "But the dilemma facing our union members is that strike action is the only effective action open to them if they are being treated unjustly."

"The law provides no recourse to conciliation or arbitration when there is a dispute over wages or other working conditions," said Fryer.

He said the government has refused to discuss the union's bid for collective bargaining rights, including access to conciliation and arbitration procedures.

head on property values is an economic effect.

And Saanich engineer Neville Life, contrasting the costs of overhead against property values on a frontage basis, said if the overhead line reduced property values by only 4 or 5 per cent "it's a dead economic loss."

Curtis worried that an overhead line in the Burnside area would tend to condemn it to substandard redevelopment. Life pointed to tremendous costs in relocating the steel poles for road widening in 15 or 20 years, or the cost of a new road.

During the meeting, it was disclosed by one Hydro official that consideration is being given to a 12,000-volt distribution line running down Harriet Street (on the city Saanich boundary) and across the Gorge at Selkirk Water.

APPALLING'

City engineer James Garnett described this as "appalling."

He also wanted to know the difference in the cost per kilowatt hour of underground versus overhead for the major line—was it a difference of 10 cents or .001 of a cent.

"If this is going to break B.C. Hydro and put up the rates vastly, that is one thing, and I suspect it is not going to do that," he said.

B.C. Hydro transmission design engineer W. D. Gill of Vancouver said: 'This is one job. But if this goes underground we will be faced with the same in similar areas in other parts of the province."

COST HIGH

Hydro said underground lines would cost $303,000 a mile compared with $80,000 a mile for steel poles and $25,000 for conventional wooden poles.

Meanwhile, petitions opposed to the planned line are being circulated among residents along the route and one of the organizers, Mrs. Maria Brown, said 10 or 12 petition circulators are receiving a "great response."

The move follows last Thursday's public meeting where 75 persons made clear their opposition to the overhead lines. One of the chief objections was unsightliness.

without inviting any federal representatives to the ceremonies.

"This damn nonsense is going to stop."

If the public did not have a clear idea where its tax money went and exactly what each level of government was doing with its mandate, it would not be able properly to judge performance.

"This is not electioneering," the federal minister stressed. "It's necessary for the stability of Confederation. . . ."

RAPS MASSE

In his attack, Marchand singled out Marcel Masse, Quebec's intergovernmental affairs minister.

Masse was guilty of "serious unscrupulousness" for violating an official confidence for personal political gain, he said.

Marchand had, following consultation with the provinces, been on the verge of announcing in the Commons a country wide list of special zones that would be eligible for certain development grants.

But Masse had called a press conference in Sept-Iles, Que., the centre of one of these zones, and announced the federal initiative prematurely in a bid to take the credit, Marchand said.

DENOUNCES TRACT

The federal minister also denounced a 40-page anti-federal tract, released by Masse last Wednesday, the day before his party called an election, that charged federal authorities with "invading Quebec" by seeking to make the full extent of Ottawa's presence in the province generally known.

He would personally see to it that Masse would "swallow his words right down to his heels."

"He simply won't get any federal funds."

stituency today, confirmed the negative decision.

Jorgenson said teachers don't oppose the idea of investing their pension funds in government-sponsored bonds and particularly in B.C. Hydro bonds but they do feel the government isn't investing funds to "the best of its ability."

NOT ENOUGH

But regardless of the interest earned by pension funds, he said, the teachers want the government to increase its share of pension contributions to bring pensions into line with those in other provinces.

Jorgenson said that a teacher earning $12,600 in Vancouver after 35 years service gets a pension of $346 compared with $651 in New Brunswick, $637 in Nova Scotia and Quebec, $620 in the federal civil service and $566 in the B.C. civil service, $533 in Ontario, $500 in Saskatchewan, $490 for B.C. Hydro and $358 for Alberta.

four hours just before the deadline.

The reported clash was the first of any size ever reported between Cambodian troops and the thousands of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong who for years have maintained bases just across the Cambodian-South Vietnamese border to escape American and South Vietnamese attack.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported from South Vietnamese military headquarters in the Mekong Delta that the fighting occurred around Nui O, a 1,500-foot mountain about three miles from the Cambodian-Vietnamese border and 125 miles west of Saigon. It is the rear base of the North Vietnamese 1st Division.

Military sources told Arnett "a considerable amount" of small-arms fire was exchanged by two battalions until the shooting stopped about daylight.

There were no reports of casualties.

Tentative Agreement In Bay Area Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Negotiators reached a tentative agreement today for ending a strike of 7,000 city employees. The walkout was in its fourth day.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto and strike leader John Jeffrey announced the tentative agreement after an all-night bargaining session.

Jeffrey said he will recommend acceptance of settlement terms but announced pickets will remain at their posts today.

It came as strike leaders were prepared to picket the waterfront and airport access roads for the first time and some labor union leaders were talking of a general strike.

Police and firemen were not affected by the pay dispute which involved members of the California Nurses Association and five unions representing janitors, social workers, hospital and institutional employees and others.

BACKED BY DRIVERS

From the start, the strike had the backing of municipal Railway bus drivers and the teachers' union.

None of the 1,000 buses and streetcars—or the 35 cablecars operated after midnight Thursday night except to complete runs they were then on. That left more than 4000,00 daily riders to drive, hitch-hike or walk.

Nearly 90,000 public school pupils, sent home early Friday, were told to report to classes today, picketing or not. School authorities wanted to keep the children off the streets and to avoid loss of $80,000 a day in state aid.

Libraries, the zoo, city museums, the opera house, and civic auditorium were closed by the walkout.

Before the strike, city supervisors approved a $4,800,000 wage increase package for the 7,000 employees involved.

Monthly pay scales before the strike included: $759-919 for nurses, $500-607 for hospital orderlies, $525-638 for janitors, $670-803 for accountants, $525-638 for clerk-stenographers, and $525-638 for social workers.

Okanagan Cowboy Wins $2,555

An Okanagan Falls cowboy was awarded $2,555 prize money Sunday after being named All-Around Cowboy at the 1970 Phoenix Rodeo of Rodeos in Arizona.

Kenny McLean, 28, was the top money winner of the five day rodeo. He is a former three-time all-around world cowboy champion and world champion steer wrestler.

McLean during the week won $1,430 in steer wrestling competition and another $1,125 in saddle bronc riding.

Men Beaten

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police were holding a 43-year-old man Saturday in connection with the weekend beating of three men in Vancouver's skid road area. In fair condition after being beaten with an iron bar was Roger Cote, about 54, and in poor condition was Roger Duchamp, about 50. A third man was treated in hospital and released.

Apartment Robbed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A color television and a valuable antique silver set were among items stolen from the Vancouver apartment of former British Columbia lieutenant-governor Frank Ross Saturday. Thieves missed an envelope containing a large amount of money.

School Damaged

LANGLEY (CP) — Fire Sunday damaged office space at the Aldergrove Secondary School here and classes have been suspended until Tuesday so workmen can set up temporary offices in classrooms.

Double Issue

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Diplomas issued by the new University of Lethbridge will be issued in English and French, the general faculty council has decided.

A Case of Excessive Zeal

IN depriving the news staff of Radio Station C-FAX of the normal access to police files on the day-to-day activities of the Victoria force, Chief Gregory has misused his authority to control publication of information which is customarily available to the public. It is the prerogative of the Chief to deny access, but that is a right derived from the possibility that occasionally the nature of an item might call, at least temporarily, for a downhold on publicity. And such a requirement would apply to all news media.

In the present instance, whereby C-FAX has been barred for 30 days from contact with police files or spokesmen, Chief Gregory has used his power as a weapon with which to punish the radio station. In reality what he has done is to attempt to deprive the radio station's public of police news for a punitive period, or to injure the station by driving listeners from it to other media to get their police news. That far exceeds the responsibilities of a police chief or the needs of the situation.

Two complaints were lodged against the radio station by the Chief, with no opportunity to answer them before punishment was imposed. One was that erroneous information had been broadcast regarding an incident involving a member of the Attorney-General's department, the other was that there had been "comments deemed derogatory" to members of the police department.

Regardless of the guilt or innocence of the broadcaster in the present instance, the usual procedure would be to call for a correction or an apology, or if the circumstances appeared to warrant it, a formal charge of wrong-doing. But the background of the incident appears to have stampeded Chief Gregory into over-reacting and imposing a personal censorship which constitutes a serious infringement of the freedom of the press.

The Chief should reconsider his precipitate action and the Police Commission should make plain for possible future occasions what is acceptable procedure in such circumstances. At the moment, a most disturbing precedent has been established whereby criticism of the police force may result in the critic and his public, without an opportunity for defence, being barred from rightful access to news of an important facet of the public's business.

Still Room for Improvement

PREMIER Bennett has wisely had second thoughts regarding taxation of bequests of art works to galleries and museums within the province. Under his original amendment, such bequests are to be taxable under the provincial succession duties act for 90 per cent of their full value. Now the value of a work of art left to a gallery or museum in British Columbia will be set at a nominal $1.

The threat of taxation on large collections could have resulted in institutions within this province losing hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of fine pictures and other objects of art which they now stand to receive in the future. These treasures would probably instead have been sold at auction or removed from the province prior to death of the owner, thus depriving such potential beneficiaries as the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria of otherwise unobtainable treasures.

Since the provincial government showed no intention of providing alternative funds whereby such art works could be purchased by British Columbia institutions, the likely losses to the people of this province were obvious. Mr. Bennett is to be commended for correcting this aspect of the bill now before the Legislature. But the provision should be written into the legislation, not left merely as a verbal concession.

There are other features of the legislation which also are welcome. The exemptions on homes, insurance policies, pensions and direct property inheritances by a spouse may total as much as $160,000 or even more, and the great majority of estates within this province will thus be exempt.

But there are other features of Mr. Bennett's bill which are far from acceptable. Provision for a mere 10 per cent exemption on bequests to charitable, educational or religious beneficiaries, and this only if the funds are to stay within the province, will tend to discourage allocations to deserving charities from large estates. The point is rightly raised that bequeathing money to such institutions and organizations should be encouraged, not deterred.

Endowments are badly needed in British Columbia by universities, charitable foundations, and other worthy endeavors. Unless the provincial government is ready to make up a loss of such support, it should not deter wealthy citizens from returning their wealth to the public. And it is a niggardly attitude to restrict even the limited exemption to grants within the province. As speakers in the Legislature have pointed out, a bequest to fight disease, for instance, should be directed to the recipient best able to utilize it to advantage—and this would frequently be an institution in some other part of Canada or of the world.

But one of the most iniquitous features of Mr. Bennett's bill is the fact that it renders the finance minister's wide power of decision on estates free from resort to the courts by claimants, and this applies retroactively. Obviously, such a provision would not be included unless the government meant to use it. It puts cash before governmental principle and it is not good law-making.

Loopholes in the Salmon Treaty

A MEMBER of the Alaskan legislature has made some serious allegations that point up the need for a new all-inclusive treaty governing salmon fishing in the North Pacific. Speaking in Seattle, State Representative Joseph McGill claimed that Japan has sold South Korea several fishing vessels and that the Japanese have agreed to take the Koreans' salmon catches in Alaska's Bristol Bay as payment.

South Korea is not a member of the North Pacific Fisheries Treaty which strives to conserve the area's salmon resources. Under the terms of the treaty, Japan may not fish for North American salmon east of 175 degrees west longitude. But if Mr. McGill's accusations are correct the conservation intent of the treaty would be evaded. As Canadian Fisheries Minister Jack Davis pointed out in a recent speech, "treaties limited to nations fishing in the Pacific Northwest will help, but a much broader international understanding is needed." When the next law-of-the-sea conference, sponsored by the United Nations, is held Mr. Davis hopes that raiding and overfishing will be eliminated.

If the present treaty is being circumvented in the manner described by Mr. McGill then there is little time to waste. If it is to be effective, any new fishing treaty will have to involve all the fishing nations likely to be concerned, and thus seal off loopholes like the one feared by the Alaska legislator.

By JAMES RESTON

Adept Footwork Around the Boobytraps

Reston

WATCHING the Nixon Administration in action these days is a little like watching a good defensive football team. Nixon isn't very exciting, but he keeps the opposition off balance and he has mastered the art of tactical retreat. Two actions in recent days illustrate the point. When Secretary of the Treasury Kennedy was charged with approving a ruling that would have meant a million-dollar bonanza for a shipping company formerly headed by a White House aide, the President didn't wait more than a few hours before seeing that the ruling was suspended.

He waited longer before acting to spike the criticism that he was fighting a concealed war in Laos, but he did come out with two statements giving the precise number of men fighting there and defining the extent and the limits of their military activities.

These protective moves to correct wrong decisions or dangerous situations don't always satisfy his critics — as they have not in either of the above cases — but they limit the damage and keep the infection (or the truth, according to your view) from spreading.

This, in fact, is almost becoming the trade mark of this administration. Occasionally, it will grab the ball and throw the long bomb, as in its imaginative forward move on the welfare front, but usually it is on the defensive, backing into the future, watching its flanks and staving off disaster.

More Flexible

Nixon is not like Lyndon Johnson, who tended to get stubborn when he was challenged, and gave up nothing until he had to give up everything, including the White House. Nixon avoids sharp confrontations when he is vulnerable and retreats to more tenable ground, where he proclaims he has just made a spectacular advance.

This is what he did, under pressure, when he began pulling out of Vietnam, cutting the defence budget, limiting the antiballistic missile program, reducing U.S. commitments overseas, cutting the liberal majority on the Supreme Court, and lowering his voice.

It is a policy of nibble and slide. He is a master at identifying and exploiting the popular grievances and conservative tendencies of the day, and he is edging the country to the right, but he seldom lurches or leaps enough to startle the people.

Most everything is a little less war, a little slower inflation, a little less employment, a little less integration, all presented with elaborate sincerity as a great deal of progress.

For admirers of the political art, who are numerous in the capital of the United States, this is gamesmanship of a very high order. His timing and his moves are so professional that he not only gets credit for generosity and compromise, but almost for inventing the idea of peace in Vietnam, friendship with the Russians and clean water, clean air and clean living at home.

Gamesmanship

If it works, Nixon will be recognized as one of the most skillful politicians of the age. He is engaged in two extremely important and delicate operations: to cut America's losses in Vietnam and its commitments elsewhere in the world without stumbling into another era of isolation; and to fight the inflation at home without stumbling into another economic depression.

To control these two critical movements abroad and at home, with an opposition Congress, a divided Republican Party, a militant minority of students and blacks on the left, and a disgruntled minority of radicals on the right will take all the skill he has and can muster.

What he has done so far is to avoid the worst of the booby-traps by adept footwork. His defensive tactics have kept him on his feet, which is quite an achievement, but the main things are not that he has cut back a little in Vietnam, and slowed down the rate of inflation a little at home, and disclosed some of the facts in Laos, and rescued President Pompidou at the Waldorf, but that he is still trapped in Vietnam and Laos, caught with both rising inflation and unemployment, and facing a mounting crisis with the spread of Soviet power in the Middle East.

Everybody is saying that Nixon is doing better than they expected, which proves the success of past failures, but tactical retreats have their limitations. At some point he is going to have to take the ball and act like Johnny Unitas.

Bread and Butter Issues

Purser

IN Quebec's National Assembly, the voice of the province's English-speaking community is not heard as often as its numbers justify. The electoral map gives few districts an English-speaking majority, and some of the few anglophone members of the assembly may be diffident about being in such a minority, or about speaking French. Some simply don't show up.

One who does show up, who speaks French capably and isn't diffident about anything, and who says what he thinks, is William Tetley, Liberal MNA for the heavily English-speaking west-end of Montreal riding of Notre Dame de Grace. He had a few pertinent things to say about Quebec's situation when he spoke in support of Opposition Leader Robert Bourassa's ritual motion of non-confidence in the UN government.

Mr. Tetley bluntly blasted the sterility of the government's election-oriented fight with Ottawa and its confused harping on constitutional issues, with different government ministers saying different things. With eight per cent unemployment, he said, Quebec's true problem is economic—the unemployed are unconcerned with the constitution, the articles of the BNA act, or the nuances of provincial rights.

Questionaire

He read out the preliminary results of a questionnaire he had sent to the 24,000 families in his riding, which asked what each respondent thought was Quebec's top problem. Claiming a response with 95 percent of the replies signed, he said 80 per cent claimed the economy to be problem number one. This choice was followed closely by the related ones of cost of living and unemployment, then by education and pollution.

But only two per cent chose the constitution as top problem, even though it is the one Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand appears to have chosen for his election appeal. This strategy, Mr. Tetley believes, represents a flight from reality.

No respondent, incidentally, chose separatism as the top problem.

Mr. Tetley attacked the government for its exhorbitant expenses and its Duplessis-style fight with Ottawa in which the people are not interested.

The 1969 provincial budget was 12.1 per cent above that of 1968, and four supplementary budgets sent it up another 4.5 per cent, while Ontario managed to hold its budget rise to 7.5 per cent and the federal government to 9.5 per cent, Quebec's budget is about the same as Ontario's despite 1.5 million fewer inhabitants here and a provincial gross product nearly one third lower.

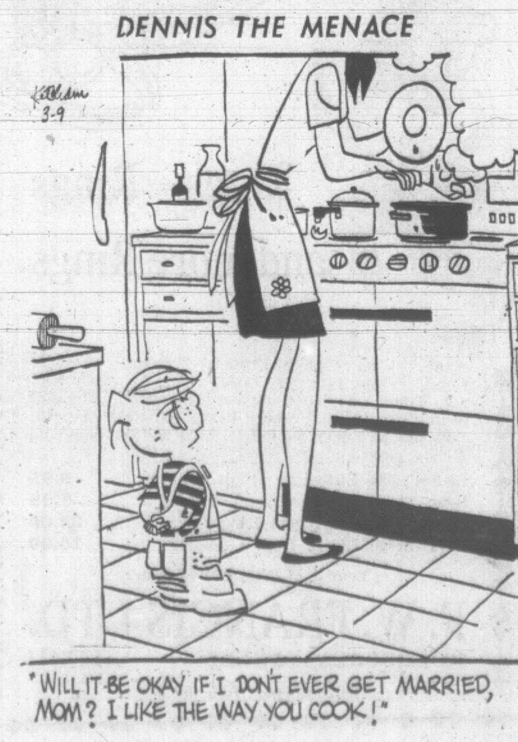
No Plans

Unlike the situation in Ontario, whose treasurer requires each ministry to prepare a five-year fiscal plan, no Quebec ministry appears to have had a plan for even one or two years. Instead of getting down to some sensible planning, the minister of industry and commerce tries to turn the economic question into a constitutional one by complaining that Quebec doesn't have in its hands all the means necessary to elaborate an economic policy.

This to Mr. Tetley, and presumably to his constituents (who are 25 per cent French-speaking), is simply another example of the government's "red herring" election policy. Just as Mr. Bertrand, in his speech opening the session, challenged Mr. Bourassa with three constitutional questions, Mr. Tetley challenged the above-mentioned minister, Jean-Paul Beaudry, with three questions relating to a recent speech of his which expressed the hope for new industry and investment in Quebec:

Did he think that Finance Minister Mario Beaulieu's recent declaration that Quebec might separate in 1974 would encourage outside capital? How, in view of the statement, could outsiders be sure of their investments in Quebec? And is Mr. Beaudry prepared to denounce the Beaulieu declaration?

Fortunately, not only English voices are asking these questions.



"WILL IT BE OKAY IF I DON'T EVER GET MARRIED, MOM? I LIKE THE WAY YOU COOK!"

Looking Back

From the Times of March 16, 1910.

One of the most spectacular fights in the history of the Commons over a private bill began last night. Nominally the principle at stake is the question of the conservation of water power privileges of the St. Lawrence in the interests of the people as represented by the Ontario government's power policy. Practically, it is a fight between industrial interests and the Ontario government.

Letter

Vox Populi

When I read the newspapers, listen to the open-line radio programs and hear people berating the increases in hydro, transit, car insurance, etc. and the lack of hospital beds and care of our chronically ill I wonder why there should be any surprise as only in August we, the people, re-elected Mr. Bennett and the Social Credit Party back to power with an increased majority. We have a free democracy here in B.C. and so we, the people, are responsible for the state of affairs and as Mr. Berger said, "This is what the people want let them have it."

When I saw such good men go down to defeat and the election of some very mediocre candidates I realized then that apathy and selfishness had triumphed. Regardless of one's political color I feel that it is a tragdy that we should be represented by such a colorless membership. To add insult to injury these same very mediocre men have the nerve to proceed to increase their salaries from $8,000 to $10,000 which we, the people, of course will have to pay. I wonder how many of our representatives could earn even $5,000 per annum in the open market.

The rich get richer especially the professional classes and the trade unionists and the poor find their struggle for a mere existence harder than ever. At present there are some 3000 people waiting to enter our two major hospitals here in Victoria while our Premier sits on a big fat surplus. The same neglect applies to our schools and universities. This is obviously what the people want and who am I to question the Premier's divine leadership? — M. P. B. Wrixon, 1254 Rockland.

Old Justification

It is disappointing to see that old excuse still being trotted out to justify the imprisoning of wildlife. "They are better off in captivity."

There surely is a simple reply to that: How many of us would choose the security of prison over the hazards of freedom?

Certainly all creatures, human or otherwise, have their problems but anyone who has watched a herd of killer whales frolicking through the Straits should know what their choice would be if given one.

It is true, of course, that whales attack other creatures for food. Well, don't most of us eat meat, fish, chicken? No one has suggested we should be imprisoned for doing so. — A. F. Davies, 4611 Vantreight.

Pill and Divorce

To the already lengthy list of pill side effects I submit one more — divorce.

The possible physical changes induced by this powerful drug are well known but it is the effect on the psyche of the individual that is the most disturbing.

When emotional instability is intensified, the resultant young woman becomes another person. She becomes despondent (to the point of suicide in some cases) indecisive and inconsistent to a baffling degree, and extremely irritable.

When a happy, healthy young bride turns into a sad, unpredictable, impossible wife after having used the pill for a few months, then both she and her husband, despairing of compatibility, throw up their hands and hasten to the divorce court.

The difficult contract of marriage instead of being preserved by the prevention of pregnancy, is then all the more hastily severed by this diabolical creation of the drug companies.—Thelma E. Macht, 3322 Doncaster.

Quiet in the Park

We have a couple of new faces on the Esquimalt council but it's obviously as hush, hush, about public business as it has been for the past few years.

What is Mayor Young's excuse for not discussing, in open council, the Crown Assets offer of 17.3 acres at Macauley Point for $170,000? Or didn't he have an excuse for keeping it under wraps?

When I voted "yes" to join the Regional Parks Board for acquisition of parklands, I hoped to retain places like Macauley Point for public use. I didn't expect it would be cheap. What land is, or anything else these days?

If the original offer last November of $10,000 an acre had been made public, the taxpayers of Esquimalt could have deluged Ottawa with letters demanding better treatment, but it's quite obvious the Esquimalt council doesn't give a hoot for public opinion or wish its help. — Pat Dunlop, 877 Ellery St.

Quebec Protest

Quebec Justice Minister Remi Paul said that if Mr. Walter Redel (the B.C. government official) had acted as he was legally obliged to do, the beating incident would never have occurred.

Mr. Paul himself must be trying to mentally mug the public, because his statements must surely be the most incredible ever uttered by a minister of justice anywhere.

He should be reminded that just as citizens have legal obligations, they also have legal rights, and one of those rights is "the right of self-defence."

In the same circumstance faced by Mr. Redel, any citizen with average intelligence would conclude that when being approached by two men attired in turtle-neck sweaters (as was claimed) and who had alighted from an unmarked car, he was about to be mugged by thugs.

And how was Mr. Redel to produce his identification card, as requested, without reaching into his pocket — an action which prompted the pistol whipping by the constable, on the ground that Mr. Redel was reaching for a gun?—H. W. Mason, 72 Crescent North, Lucerne, Que.

Tale of U.S. Tangle in Laos More Like Fiction Than Fact

SOUVANNA PHOUMA

By STANLEY KARNOW

> "And we are here as on a darkling plain
> Swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight,
> Where ignorant armies clash by night."
>
> —Matthew Arnold.

HONG KONG — Historians striving to understand America centuries hence may well be baffled by a nation that was able to land men on the moon with pinpoint precision yet could stumble myopically into a situation as obscure and disheveled as the latest crisis in Laos.

If nothing more, this contrast serves to dramatize the degree to which U.S. foreign policy and practice often functions as haphazardly today as it did, say, when President McKinley blundered into the Pacific under the guise of fulfilling America's "manifest destiny".

Stated starkly, the untidy tale of U.S. involvement in Laos over the past 15 years has been a story of illusory objectives and topsy turvy tactics that should really be described in novel form to be rendered believable.

At the origin of this commitment to the "Land of a million elephants and the white parasol", as Laos is quaintly called, was the attempt by the Eisenhower administration to transform a delightfully primitive country into an "anti-Communist bastion."

The purpose of that ambitious effort was to set up a buffer between China and Thailand, the keystone of the U.S. defence system in Southeast Asia. Yet it failed to recognize that Laos, still slumbering in medieval happiness, was unprepared to participate in the cold war.

As a consequence, its pristine society was disrupted. Moreover, with the escalation of the conflict in neighboring Vietnam, Laos became an adjacent battlefield in that struggle — but with one significant difference.

■

The difference was that while the United States was openly engaged in Vietnam — even to the extent of televising the war in American living rooms every evening — successive administrations in Washington strenuously sought to camouflage U.S. military activities in Laos.

The idea behind the perpetuation of this fiction has been to conceal the fact that Americans and their clients have been as guilty as the Communists of violating the 1962 Geneva Agreement, which guaranteed Laotian neutrality.

That Hanoi never withdrew its legions from Laos after signing the Geneva Accord is common knowledge. At present, an estimated 50,000 North Vietnamese troops comprise the main Communist force in the country. In addition, three or four Chinese battalions are deployed in northern Laos to protect contingents of coolies building roads.

And since the Communists adamantly refuse to admit to their presence, the United States has felt compelled to deny that Central Intelligence Agency specialists train, advise and sometimes command Meo guerrillas supplied by unmarked aircraft on charter from Air America and Continental Air Services.

Similarly matching the Communists, the United States has also denied that it equips and finances Thai troops, who handle artillery, communications and other assignments for which Laotian soldiers lack the skill, as well as Philippine and Chinese Nationalist technicians.

Shrouded in secrecy as well for a long time were the U.S. bombings of Communist infiltration routes along the Ho Chi Minh Trail in the Laotian panhandle even though these "armed reconnaissance flights," as they were euphemistically termed, exceeded in intensity the American air raids on North Vietnam that halted in late 1968.

Within recent weeks, a new dimension in dissimulation has been reached in the Nixon administration's insistence in the face of reliable evidence that B-52's are not being employed to support the Meo's fighting unsuccessfully to defend the Plain of Jars north of Vientiane, the Laotian capital.

Though the chances are probably remote that Laos will turn into "another Vietnam", as Senator Fulbright and other administration critics predict, President Nixon is now confronted by two challenges that have arisen out of the Laotian mess.

First, if he determines that Prince Souvanna Phouma's government is threatened by the present communist offensive, the president may feel obliged to undertake some kind of action to preserve the status quo in Laos. His options in this respect appear to be limited, however.

On the one hand, he cannot easily enlist Soviet assistance in persuading Hanoi to exercise restraint, since the North Vietnamese regularly blackmail the Kremlin by leaning towards Peking whenever Russian advice displeases them.

Nor can Nixon strike a menacing pose — as President Kennedy did when he sent U.S. Marines into northern Thailand in early 1961 — without appearing to contradict his own doctrine or adopting a lower silhouette in world affairs.

His best move for the moment, therefore, may be simply to watch and wait and hope that the Communists intend to push no further in their drive than to occupy areas of Laos that they previously held.

One indication that the Communists are not trying to take over the entire country is reflected in the fact that they have refrained from moving against Thakhek, Paksane and Attopeu, southern towns they could capture with ease.

In the domain of domestic American politics, meanwhile, the other problem facing the president is the growing credibility gap that has widened as a result of clumsy administration evasions about the nature of the U.S. involvement in Laos.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's recent explanation that B-52s cannot be used for "close-in" support missions, for example, was especially strange in view of Pentagon publicity that played up that aircraft's tactical role in the seige of Khesanh last year.

Thus the net effect of the administration's deceptive rhetoric has been to arouse the worst suspicions of its critics and, in the process, prompt them to inflate assorted bits of truth and rumor beyond all realistic proportions.

The temptation to believe almost anything about Laos is comprehensible, however, since that little kingdom has remained a fairyland despite external pressures to bring it into the 20th century.

The population of Laos, roughly estimated at about three million, is composed of valley Laotians ethnically akin to the Thais and a crazy quilt of mountain tribes like the Meos, Yaos, Lolos and others. Until a generation ago, when a French official pencilled in its national borders, the country was divided into separate, virtually feudal kingdoms.

■

The art of politics in Laos, therefore, is essentially a matter of deals and accommodations between regional clans and interlocking families, and the notion of ideology is as alien as a railroad train.

The prime minister, Souvanna Phouma, is the half-brother of the Communist Pathet Lao leader, Prince Souphanou Vong, and both are cousins of King Savang Vatthana. The mother of a former prime minister, Prince Somsanith, is Souvanna Phouma's half-sister. Somsanith is also married to another of Souvanna's sisters—this making him his own mother's brother-in-law.

So it was that Somsanith, who served as chief executive some years ago, kept Souphanouvong under house arrest as a dangerous subversive but, true to his family obligations, drove the Communist's children to school every morning.

So it is, too, that any government established in Laos is a collection of brothers, uncles, cousins and relations by marriage, and their primary function is less to govern than to preserve the internal balance of power.

In the late 1940s, rebuffed in their appeals for U.S. help against France, a few nationalist-minded Laotians like Souphanuvong gained the assistance of Ho Chi Minh's Vietminh in organizing the Pathet Lao.

Through their Pathet Lao satellites, the North Vietnamese managed at the 1954 Geneva Conference to acquire effective control "pending a political settlement" of the northernmost Laotian provinces of Phongsaly and Samneua.

Some Laotian leaders, among them Souvanna Phouma, urged a coalition with the Pathet Lao as early as 1954. But this time, however, Dulles had decided to back an anti-Communist regime in Vientiane. Souvanna Phouma and the neutralists were eclipsed, and one of the wierdest examples of a U.S. aid program began.

A firm of Washington management consultants, Howell and Co., had calculated that Laos could not absorb more than $2 million in imports per month. Anxious to generate local currency fast in order to create and finance a 25,000-man Laotian army, Dulles doubled that amount and the economy went wild.

SOUPHANOUVONG

Operating in tandem, Chinese and Indian merchants and Laotian officials started lucrative traffic in import licences. They obtained licences for feather dusters, nail polish and even television sets even though Laos had no TV stations, selling the merchandise in Bangkok or elsewhere.

By the late 1950s, while lavish U.S. expenditures were convulsing the Laotian economy, occult American agencies, often in competition with each other, were churning up the Vientiane political scene.

The general concurrence of the major powers that Laos was the wrong war in the wrong place at the wrong time led to the 1962 Geneva Conference, at which 14 nations including China, North Vietnam, the Soviet Union and the United States agreed to guarantee Laotian neutrality.

Out of that conference emerged an accord to establish a coalition government under Souvanna Phouma. In the opinion of professor Donald Zagoria, the North-Vietnamese hoped that a similar coalition might be set up in Saigon and accordingly scaled down their military operations in South Vietnam.

But, when Hanoi observed that Washington had no intention of using the Laos model in Saigon, Zagoria has written, North Vietnam intensified its activities in South Vietnam. As part of that intensification, the Ho Chi Minh Trail through the Laotian panhandle became a strategic supply and infiltration route into the south.

The escalation of the Vietnam conflict since 1965, then, has been paralleled by a steady enlargement of the sideshow war in Laos.

'Micro-Regions' In Soviet City

By ANTHONY ASTRACHAN

KHARKOV, U.S.S.R. — This Ukrainian factory and university city regards itself as a pacesetter in Soviet urban development.

Its growth in fact illustrates the coexistence of the innovative and the outdated, the developed and the undeveloped — a coexistence which seems more pronounced in the Soviet Union than in the West.

The new growth of Kharkov (population 1.2 million) is going mostly into "microregions." They are actually miniature wards, nominally the equivalent of seven Soviet city blocks, each built for 8,000 to 10,000 people.

Each microregion will be surrounded by its own park and forest belt. Each will have its own shopping centre, schools, parks and other facilities. Each will be composed of prefabricated buildings, mostly from nine to 14 storeys high, arranged in different styles or at least variations on a theme.

It is a logical development from the growth of earlier Kharkov "regions" around factories. Between 60,000 and 100,000 people live near and are served by the schools, hospital and palace of culture associated with the huge Kharkov tractor factory.

●

To foreign correspondents on a group tour organized by the Soviet foreign ministry, it sounds like a good way of controlling the massive sprawl of identical buildings that often disfigures Soviet cities.

Igor Alexandrocich Alfurov, the chief architect of Kharkov, says the city "is pioneering these ideas, but they are considered useful for all Soviet cities." He gives an impression of competence and enthusiasm.

Alfurov mentions past accomplishments, like the way many of Kharkov's factories are set in strips of parkland, so they do not oppress the city streets.

He talks about future goals: the city now has 9.9 square yards of living space per inhabitant (excluding hallways and bathrooms), but is aiming for 14.3 square yards.

He also talks about present efforts. One is to cast the concrete panels used in Soviet prefabrication so they have more color and strength. Both are needed, judging by the gray buildings with cracked walls.

●

Another is to prefabricate the "home of two rooms," installing lock units for apartments in one operation instead of a single panel at a time.

Yet another is to build a central market that can be converted into a sports palace by making vendors' stalls swing up to the ceiling.

Alfurov does not mention a fact visible to anyone who walks or drives around Kharkov: the city has an unusually high percentage of one-and two storey houses for the Soviet Union. They would be one-family houses anywhere else, but here they are sometimes shared, like apartments.

A "village" of such houses just behind the new intourist hotel has neither running water nor sewers.

Alfurov is a bit embarrassed when asked about the village, clearly a rural settlement that was swallowed whole as Kharkov expanded.

In principle, he says, all areas of the city should have sewer systems, but in practice not all one-storey buildings do. In five years, this village will be replaced by nine-storey apartments with sewers.

Anyone for Dominoes?

By RUSSELL BAKER

Suddenly there is Laos out on Page One. It is a place, judging from the news reports, where a young man with no pull at his draft board could get killed unless somebody does something clever quickly, which is always unlikely.

The following pocket guide to Laos is intended to shed the clear light of information on this crucial corner of the world:

1. What is Laos?—Laos is a fertile area of opium surrounded by the CIA. It is famous for the historic Plain of Jars, the stalwart Meo tribesmen and a rainy season which if it were to fall into Communist hands, might well upset the delicate balance of dominoes now prevailing between the Mekong and the Irrawaddy.

★ ★ ★

2. Who is the Irrawaddy?—The Irrawaddy is not a who, but a what; or, to be precise, a river in Burma, a location so remote from Laos that it has absolutely no bearing at all on the Laotian situation, whatever that may be. Use of the phrase "between the Mekong and the Irrawaddy" may, however, make you sound like an old Laos hand in conversation, and is therefore recommended unless there is a genuine old Laos hand in the room, which will be unlikely since there were only three genuine old Laos hands in the world as of last January, and all of them were far gone on opium.

3. What about the old Moulmein Pagoda?—the old Moulmein Pagoda is too far from Laos to have any obvious connection, though what the CIA may be up to there can not, of course, be officially discussed, as the U.S. government never officially discusses CIA activities, even in old pagodas.

4. Where were we?—We were about to learn how to pronounce "Laos." If you can pronounce the French article "la" and the German preposition "aus" you are well on the way to success: Say, very quickly, "la" and "aus," and you have it. If your only language is English, and you can say "louse," you will have it as clearly as most people in the State Department.

5. Having Vietnamized the war in Vietnam, will President Nixon be logically consistent and Laosize the war in Laos? — The president's political advisers object to Laosizing the war. They believe most Americans would think he was talking about louse eyes and would complain that their president ought to have weightier subjects to talk about on television. Nor has professor Henry Kissinger's suggestion that the Administration "de-Laos" the situation been greeted very enthusiastically at the White House.

★ ★ ★

6. What will the United States do if the capital of Laos falls to the enemy? That depends upon who the enemy is, and upon which capital he captures. There are two capitals; they are Luang Prabang and Vientiane. No one is certain yet how many enemies there are. At last count there were Chinese Communists building a road in the north, North Vietnamese extending skirmish lines through the middle, and Pathet Lao (rhymes with "potted cow") digging a ditch in the south.

7. Let's go back to the old Moulmein Pagoda — absolutely not! Now quit whining and pay attention.

8. Where does the CIA come in? Through the good offices of one Van Pau (rhymes with "bang! pow!") the CIA has rallied freedom-loving fierce Meo tribesmen on the Plain of Jars.

★ ★ ★

9. Who is Van Pau? That's not the question. The real question is, who is Souphanouvong? (Rhymes with "you run along.")

10. Who is Souphanouvong? Souphanouvong, leader of the Pathet Lao, is the half brother of Prince Souvanna Phouma (doesn't rhyme with anything), who is the neutralist ruler of Laos and a good guy. Souphanouvong got mad at his half brother a long time ago and went out into the elephant grass beyond the Plain of Jars to form the Pathet Lao.

11. What did he get mad about? No one remembers anymore. Old Thai hands say there are rumors along the klongs (canals) of Bangkok that they had a political argument in 1948, with Souphanouvong supporting Thomas E. Dewey and Souvanna Phouma favoring Harry Truman, but it may have been the other way around.

12. Is this some kind of joke? Not unless you are one of those lucky people who can die laughing.

LONGRIME POSTAL service awards were presented to Hilda McNichol, 65, and William L. Hill, 65, left, in a brief ceremony at Duncan post office. Postmaster Bob Corney, centre, said Mrs. McNichol had served the main branch for more than 28 years and Hill had been postmaster at Koksilan for 23 years. The pair were presented with framed scrolls signed by Postmaster General Eric Kierans and letters of appreciation from Corney and other postal officials. Quipped Hill: "My wife Francis has been unpaid assistant at Koksilah for 20 years. Now she takes over as postmistress and I become the unpaid assistant."

Cowichan Music Festival Ends on Grand Note

DUNCAN — The Cowichan music festival, largest in its history, ended Saturday night with a final concert of highlights performed for a full house in Cowichan senior secondary school auditorium.

The 21st annual event, which drew much praise in the piano, speech arts, choral instrumental and dancing events, was sponsored by Cowichan Parent-Teacher Council and the Parent-Teacher Associations of school districts 65, 66 and 67.

Results of Friday night and Saturday competitions and awards are:

RED CROSS CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY

DUNCAN — The Red Cross campaign for Cowichan region now is under way with teams of canvassers carrying appeals to homes in Duncan, North Cowichan, Lake Cowichan, Crofton, Mill Bay and Maple Bay areas.

Under the direction of George W. Cobbold, the campaign will continue through the remainder of March, officially designated as Red Cross month.

This is the last campaign the Red Cross will make in this area as an individual organization. In the fall it will join with the newly-formed United Appeal fund.

"The funds from this campaign will meet the society's needs for 1970 while the proceeds from the fall campaign of the United Appeal will provide the 1971 operating costs," Cobbold said, explaining the reason for two campaigns in the same year.

Changes Attacked

CALGARY (CP) — Les Hewson of Red Deer, Alberta division president of the Canadian union of Public Employees, said Sunday that all union locals in the province may take joint strike action to demonstrate opposition to proposed amendments to the Alberta Labor Act.

Study Sought on Poor Duncan Housing

DUNCAN COWICHAN
(Duncan Office Ph. 746-6181)

DUNCAN — Mayor Jim Quaife has asked for a full report from the city building inspector and instructed the city administrator to write Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation regarding the poor quality of some of the city's housing.

Quaife made the move after Ald. Tom Kilpatrick raised the question of substandard housing in a council meeting.

Quaife said he was aware that there was a housing problem in Duncan and concerned that certain persons were taking advantage of the shortage by allowing others to live in substandard houses.

WELFARE CASES

However, he blamed the senior governments for the major sources of the problem. The city's application for $1 million in urban renewal funds has been stalled because of cutbacks in federal funds.

Half of that cost would have been borne by the federal government and the balance shared equally by the province and the city.

Also deplored is a practice by the provincial welfare department for allocating certain types of housing to welfare recipients.

Welfare worker N. A. M. Denny said the department was bending over backwards to try to help recipients find decent homes but there was a great Duncan area. lack of low-rent housing in the Car Theft Muffed, Owner Still Miffed

DUNCAN — Ald. Tom Kilpatrick was miffed when he discovered someone had stolen his car from its usual parking spot in front of his launderette business on Trunk Road.

He was miffed too when he remembered he had left his new $350 golf clubs in the back seat, to say nothing of all his important papers dealing with his own business and council committees.

The RCMP found Kilpatrick's elderly, English automobile 12 hours later where it had been abandoned in Goldstream Park.

"I knew they wouldn't get far with it," Kilpatrick said Sunday. "There wasn't much gas in the tank and I figured anyone too cheap to take the bus would be too cheap to put in any gas."

Although Kilpatrick is pleased that whoever "borrowed" the car left the golf clubs and papers inside, he's still miffed.

The police wouldn't let him drive it home until it was inspected for clues and now he's been stuck with a $12 bill for towing charges.

MAKE A FORTUNE IN REAL ESTATE

The Canadian Property Managers Association offers a unique course designed for the man who wants to start with about $1,000. A distinguished group of Canadian real estate specialists, notably a lawyer, a municipal assessor, an accountant, a mortgage financier, a land surveyor and others have been gathered together to show how to appraise, to finance and how to compound small holdings into huge property blocks.

Many papers that come with real estate, such as the Sheriff's Fee Certificate, are explained. Many documents are given out during the course. You will learn how to evaluate properties and the many ways to generate capital.

These courses have run for many years in Ottawa and now you can get a complete transcript and permanent written record of everything said there. Ten-week course includes books, all relevant papers and documents and a twenty-four-ring binder to hold everything. Approved by the Federal Government for tax deduction of entire tuition.

Cold hard facts about soft clean heat

Start with a basic fact. Everyone wants a warm, comfortable home. No cold spots. No uncertainty as to fuel supply. No breakdowns.

Electric Heat gives you all that. Constant, even heat throughout the entire house. Plus individual temperature control. Each room is as warm or as cool as you like it to be.

Then add the advantages of totally clean, completely silent heat. Add the space you gain because no furnace is required, no cumbersome tank. Add the time you save cleaning grimy walls, consider never having to order heating fuel again.

Beginning to make sense? Find out about Electric Heat. Call your B.C. Hydro office.

Without charge or obligation you can have a recommendation of the type and size of electric heating best suited to your home and an honest estimate of what it would cost.

The fact is, more than 24,000 B.C. homeowners now enjoy Electric Heat.

Strom Hits Back On 'Exploitation'

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier Harry Strom said today that reports of sugar beet harvesters being exploited by Southern Alberta farmers are a distortion of the truth.

He was commenting on statements during the weekend by John Ferguson, a representative of the board of basic education in Saskatchewan, that entire families were being forced to work to make ends meet.

Ferguson told a Calgary meeting of the Alberta New Democratic Party the sugar beet industry should be nationalized. Alberta NDP leader Grant Notley said he would ask Premier Strom's Social Credit government for an independent inquiry into the situation.

"The fellow is one of the loosest men with the truth that I know," Strom said of the charges by Ferguson. "The statements that he is making . . . are not according to the facts."

Ferguson, who spent more than a week in Southern Alberta working as a beet tiller, said working conditions were "horrendous, inexcusable and intolerable."

He said that beet pickers are under contract to hoe fields and net $17 an acre for first hoeing—with an acre determined as 23,760 lineal feet of sugar beet rows. They get $9 for the second hoeing.

To maintain contract terms, Ferguson said, families must put all their children to work. Out of the wages a family received it had to pay for food and in some cases rent for housing which "you could throw a stray cat through the walls of."

Hotel Considered

WINNIPEG — CP) — Indians and Metis living in Winnipeg may go into the hotel business.

The proposal was made Sunday at an Indian and Metis conference by Lorne Keeper, a young Metis, and will be discussed at a special meeting next week.

George Munroe, director of the Winnipeg Indian and Metis Friendship Centre, said hotel rooms would be used primarily to accommodate transient Indians and Metis.

Grant Offered

FORT MacLEOD, Alta. (CP) — Northwest Design and Fabrication Ltd., of Winnipeg, has been offered federal incentive grants of more than $187,000 to establish a mobile home and trailer manufacturing plant at Fort MacLeod, agricultural minister H. A. (Bud) Olson announced Saturday.

The announcement said the grants will cover 15 per cent of capital costs and provide $2,000 for each new job created. It indicated construction of the plant would start in July, but a company official said the grant refers to a plant that recently started production.

Wheat Acceptable At Farm Auction

THREE HILLS, Alta. (CP)— — Clayton Wilfred Thomas will accept wheat as payment when he holds an auction on his farm March 23.

Thomas said in an interview Sunday that he will accept wheat for all or part payment of any item valued at more than $500 when he auctions three complete lines of farming machinery and other items ranging from a rocking chair to a coal cooking stove.

He said he made the decision because farmers in the area 50 miles northeast of Calgary have been unable to sell bumper crops harvested over the last three years and have little cash. Thomas will accept grain at a purchase value of $1 a bushel for Nos. 2 or 3 northern wheat, dry and delivered to his farm.

He said agriculture officials have told him this will be the first major farm auction in Canada at which payment can be made with wheat. Several other Prairie farmers had shown interest in the idea.

Thomas said he hopes the auction will gross between $60,000 and $70,000.

ARE YOU DELIVERING TO JUST A PART OF YOUR TOTAL MARKET?

You MAY be and not even know it!

Chances are part of your total market doesn't even know who you are, what you do or how they can benefit by doing business with you.

TELLING your total market who you are, what you do and how they can benefit by doing business with you is what advertising in Victoria's daily newspapers is all about.

One of the great forms of advertising is NEWSPAPER DISPLAY. It's great because it presents your sales message attractively to the largest audience. It's great because it is always placed where it is involved with the news happenings of TODAY . . . so much so, that it takes on the characteristics of news and receives the same reader interest. It's great too because, at minimum cost, the advertiser reaches a maximum reading audience through a medium that's a daily household purchase.

We'd like to talk with you about delivering to your total market. Phone 382-7211 and ask for the Display Advertising Department. A trained representative will call on you without obligation.

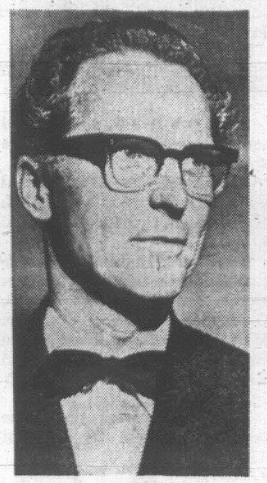
Unique Record Of Indian Culture

Art teacher Robert Aller of Port Alberni knows the Indian child as few white men do.

His teaching of Canadian Indian youngsters over the past eight years has been acclaimed by anthropologists, artists and educators in Toronto, New York and elsewhere.

Aller will discuss his experiences in an illustrated lecture at Greater Victoria Art Gallery, 1040 Moss St., Wednesday at 8:30 p.m.



ALLER
. . . speaks Wednesday

Eight years ago he began giving classes to Port Alberni Indians. So successful was he in gaining the confidence of Indian children that their creative response produced paintings revealing their world and their thoughts.

EXPERIENCES

"Their tribal experiences were depicted with very little overlay of white culture," Aller said. (An exhibition of these works was held at Victoria Art Gallery in 1964.)

One of his techniques is to go unobtrusively into an Indian village and paint near where children are playing.

Soon they gather round him and he offers to share his materials with them. So begins a new class, and the paintings produced may one day be unique. They could be the last genuine work of Indian children still in touch with their tribal cultures.

ELSEWHERE

After his first successes at Port Alberni, Aller repeated his teaching techniques with prairie Indians and later, under sponsorship of the Ontario government, he spent his summers with Ontario bands.

Results of his teaching so impressed anthropologists and museum directors in New York that an exhibition of his students' work was held at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Last year the Royal Ontario Museum staged an exhibition of paintings by Aller's Ontario students.

Teachers May Back Policing

Any move by the B.C. Teachers' Federation to police competence of its own members will probably get support from the Victoria delegation at the annual BCTF general meeting at the end of the month.

Bill Broadley, president of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, said Saturday local teachers will meet March 25 to decide what position they will take on the issue of policing their profession at the Vancouver convention, March 30 April 1.

At present teachers deemed incompetent are subject to dismissal by the district superintendent and the board of school trustees.

At present teachers deemed incompetent are subect to dismissal by the district superintendent and the board of school trustees.

For the teaching profession to have the power to dismiss incompetents would require an amendment to the BCTF constitution.

Scandinavian Dance Workshop

The University of Victoria folk-dancing club is sponsoring a Scandinavian dance workshop this weekend at the university.

Featured instructor of the workshop, to be held Saturday and Sunday, is Gordon Tracie, founder and director of the Skandia Folk-dancing club of Seattle.

The workshop is open to the public and will be highlighted by a party Saturday night which will include both the newly-learned dances and others with a more international flovor.

Heroin Found

NANAIMO — A young Nanaimo couple were remanded until April 21 for sentencing after pleading guilty in court to possession of heroin.

Fred and Alice Shiels, both 21, who gave their address as 541 Kennedy St., are to face Judge Stanley Wardill for sentencing after a presentence report.

The couple was arrested Feb. 1 by Nanaimo RCMP after they left the CPR ferry. A search at the police station revealed that Mrs. Shiels was carrying two packages of heroin hidden in a plastic bag in her underclothing.

Analysis of a powder contained in the bag showed it contained 74.8 per cent heroin.

THOSE GREY lumps of rock may be worth a small fortune, but geology students will get the benefit, not the company that mined them. Part of 1,000 pounds of high grade silver ore given by Boundary Exploration Ltd. to University of B.C. geology department, the sample came from Boundary's Hauser property, near Duncan Lake and assays up to 480 ounces per ton. A complete mineralogical study will be done by the department and laboratory samples will be divided among students. Boundary president John Carson, right, is shown with department chief technician Ed Montgomery.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Trading Tapers Off

Stocks were generally off—more than 5 points at New York—in mid-day trading on the major North American exchanges today.

The front at New York covered a broad range of issues, while at Vancouver and Montreal trading was light. Toronto fell sharply, apparently in response to the budget speech last week, which seeks credit restrictions.

AT NEW YORK prices were sharply and broadly lower in unusually light trading.

Steels, motors, rubber issues, aircrafts, electronics, oils and drugs were generally lower.

Big Board prices included American Telephone, off ½ at 52; Eastman Kodak, off 1 at 76¼; Transamerica, off ⅛ at 20⅜, and General Motors, off ¼ at 70¼.

On the American Stock Exchange, Ecological Science was off 1⅛ at 17.

AT TORONTO losses outnumbered gains by more than two to one as the market fell sharply in light mid-afternoon trading.

Trust and loan issues which paced Friday's losses led Monday's industrial decline.

Investors Group A lost ½ to 8, Royal Trust ½ to 27¼, Canadian Imperial ⅜ to 22¼ and Royal Bank ⅜ to 23⅛.

McIntyre lost 2 to 180 and Falconbridge, in which McIntyre has a 37 per cent interest, 4 to 175. The stocks rose 17 and 4, respectively, last week.

The companies said they knew of no corporate developments that would cause the stock movement.

AT MONTREAL prices were mixed in light trading.

Bank of Montreal was up ⅛ to 16¼ while the Royal was off ¼ to 23¼.

Canadian Pacific Railway gained ⅝ to 64, Rio Algom to 23, Cominco ⅛ to 28¼ and Power Corp. ¼ to 9⅝.

Abitibi Copper, on the Canadian Stock Exchange, fell 32 cents to 1.18.

AT LONDON, the market moved lower, but losses were small.

Among leaders, Rank eased while Dunlp, Unilever, ICI, Glaxo and Courtaulds moved lowers.

Elsewhere, Hudson's Bay continued to ease ahead of results. Dome fell 10 points to 89. Canadian Pacific, Cominco, Hiram Walker, Consolidated Bathurst, Inco, Noranda and Pacific Petroleum eased sharply.

Banks were weak under the lead of Montreal, 9s down at 157s.

AT VANCOUVER prices were generally down in light pre-noon trading.

Captain International traded 8,825 shares and put on .87½ to $6.12½. Key Indsutries slipped .10 to .60. Driver Development slid .20 to .95.

In oils, Giant Reef traded 14,700 and eased .03 to .49. Plains Petroleum was unchanged at .38. United Bata was down .05 at $2.95.

Kopan Developments moved 81,500 and put on .02 to .24. Brenmac added .09 to .73 and Sileurian Chieftain slipped .02 at .52.

Bow Valley

Agreement to acquire all issued and outstanding shares of Western Research and Development Ltd. of Calgary has been reached by Bow Valley Industries Ltd., which plans to operate it as a full subsidiary.

Bow Valley already owns 41.75 per cent of Western Research indirectly, and under the agreement will acquire the remaining 58.25 per cent by cash payment of $285,000, plus 20,000 of its own shares, commencing in 1975.

Western Research is in air and water pollution control, offering technical services. Another firm, Dominion Instruments Ltd., Edmonton, has been bought for $75,000 cash by Bow Valley, to work with Western in design and manufacture of equipment.

Abitibi

A 10 per cent boost in net earnings is reported by Abitibi Paper Co. Ltd. for the year just ended, amounting to 64 cents (60 cents in 1968) on a share basis.

The new net totalled $12.14 million; expenditures were up $8.5 million to $24.7 million, and working capital rose from $61.68 million at the start of 1969 to $64.5 million at year end.

The company expects new sources of revenue from its Thunder Bay mineral property, but president T. J. Bell said he is less optimistic of the future generally than he was a year ago, due to possible cost increases and inflation.

Lornex

Lornex Mining Corp. Ltd. is in negotiation with railways and Vancouver harbor terminal operators for the handling of copper concentrates in a 12-year sales agreement for 162,000 tons a year from its Highland Valley mine.

Shareholders are being asked to approve at the end of this month an agreement with a consortium of Japanese companies which will buy the entire copper output. The mine also will produce 2.5 million pounds of molybdenum concentrate a year and will be Canada's largest non-ferrous producer.

Other agreements and resolutions for which approval is sought include financing, construction, management and control.

Sussman

Toronto-based Sussman Properties Ltd. has taken control by transfer of all outstanding shares in Moroto Investment Co. Ltd., whose principal asset is a coastal parcel of 2,200 acres of land in California.

The Wilder Ranch property is near Santa Cruz, and is a possible large scale housing development area of 17,000 potential population, a development research survey indicates. It adjoins University of California Santa Cruz campus.

Moroto is a wholly owned subsidiary of Sussman Properties.

CREDIT RESTRAINTS put on last year by the federal government to fight inflation have resulted in virtually no increase since 1969 in outstanding loans by chartered banks to business and individuals, according to figures released by the Bank of Canada. Latest figures show general loans at the end of June, 1969, at $14,771,000,000, while total outstanding on March 4, 1970, was $14,885,000,000. (CP Wirephoto.)

SEVERANCE PAY OFFERED TO KEEP RUBBER FIRM OPEN

Local 132 of the United Rubber Workers of America offered Sunday to invest their severance pay in the ailing Dunlop Canada Ltd. plant here in an effort to keep it alive.

Dunlop, which employs 597 union workers here, announced March 6 it would close its Toronto plant "in four to eight weeks" because of "a combination of factors of small market, high material and labor costs and foreign competition."

Local president Philip Japp told a union meeting:

"Several hundred of our members have offered to put their severance pay—which constitutes the bulk of the plant.

"We are asking the federal and provincial governments to assist us in keeping this plant alive until they can prove it is a dead duck."

He Guts Ship of Engines Turning It Into an Eatery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One day Jerry Sutton is in Acapulco, the next maybe San Francisco, walking along the docks, eyeing ships and places to berth them.

Engine capacity of the ships doesn't concern him—if he likes what he sees he'll gut the ship of its engines, boilers and propellers anyway.

Restaurants are his game—floating restaurants—the kind people seem to flock to in southern California.

Sutton, 44, is president of the Princess Louise Corp., which runs the Princess Louise restaurant here and recently purchased two more ships for conversion into eateries.

ENLARGE FLEET

"Our thinking now," he says, "is that the fleet will be enlarged even further as adaptable ships become available and proper port facilities can be developed."

The Princess Louise, docked at Terminal Island in Los Angeles, was stripped in 1966 of her navigational equipment and for $1,500,000 refurbished into a large floating restaurant with a main dining area and six banquet rooms.

Since then an average of 360,000 dinners a year have been served aboard the old 330-foot liner, with estimated gross income over $2,000,000 annually.

IN VANCOUVER

Last January, the company purchased two smaller ships, renaming them the Princess Louise 88 and the Princese III. One will be berthed in Vancouver, the other at a site not yet determined.

Princess Louise I was famed in the 1920s as a passenger liner that plied the Inside Passage between Vancouver and Skagway, Alaska.

Princess Louise II, 225 feet long and five decks high, once carried as many as 1,200 passengers on excursions from Vancouver for the Union Steamship Co. Number three, 301 feet in length, was operated by the Canadian Pacific Steamship Line for 37 years until 1964. It is being remodelled in Seattle, Wash.

Like their older sister, the ships will accommodate not only restaurants but shops, lounges and museum areas.

Broker Firm Closing Down

NEW YORK (AP) — McDonnell and Co., a 65-year-old brokerage house, has announced it is going out of business and will close down all its branch offices in the next few months.

At the same time, the New York Stock Exchange said it had entered into an agreement with the firm for its gradual liquidation. The exchange said after the agreement becomes effective, up to $6,000,000 from a special trust fund could be used to help McDonnell close out its accounts.

Firms Must Pay Heavy Damages

MONTREAL (UPI) — Two companies have been ordered to pay over $1½ million in damages following the collapse in June, 1960, of a newly-built grain elevator at Baie Comeau, Que., 273 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Foundation Company of Canada Ltd., and Davie Shipbuilding Ltd., were ordered to pay $1,537,017 to Cargill Grain Company Ltd., in a decision handed down by Superior Court Justice Paul Lesage.

Wages, Salaries Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Wages and salaries paid in manufacturing averaged $128.47 a week in January, compared with $122.46 in December and $119.47 in January last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Wages and salaries in durable goods manufacturing rose to $138.23 a week in January from $129.81 in December and $128.17 in January last yeqr.

In a broad cross-section of all non-farm industry, the average rose to $122.37 from $117.09 in December and $114.04 in January last year.

The increases mainly represented a return to normal industrial activity in January after shorter hours during the Christmas season in December. The bureau previously reported that manufacturing wages alone averaged $115.35 in January, up from $108.67 in December.

AUSTRALIA

Stock Market Action Booms

CANBERRA (CP) — "Australia 1970 is the greatest floating casino in the seven seas, its lights blazing night and day, offering around-the-clock service for the players of several nations."

These words appeared in the Sydney Morning Herald—but not in the entertainment section. They were signed by Australia's leading financial commentator.

If, as a successful American investor said in the 1920s, it is time to get out of the stock market when the office boy starts buying, those who are wise would steer clear of Australian stocks these days.

But the advice would be ignored by Australians. Avid gamblers, whether on horses, soccer teams or any games, Australians have found in the stock market a new outlet for their chance-taking instincts.

POSEIDON IS SPUR

During a frantic, massive hunt for mineral riches, dozens of new companies are springing up with claims to bits of land. They are finding thousands of people ready to lend their money in the hope of striking it rich.

They all dream of another Poseidon—the company whose shares leaped to $280 from 20 cents after nickel deposits were found in Western Australia.

But for every Poseidon, scores of companies will find nothing but dried-up earth and useless rock.

Expert geologists insist mineral discoveries in Australia are only beginning. There are natural riches galore in this continent, they say. It is just a question of finding them.

But there have been serious allegations of malpractice on the stock exchanges. The Senate Opposition leader, Senator Lionel Murphy, has called for a federal control commission over the stock markets after receiving what he claims is clear evidence of attempts to mislead the investing public.

EXAMPLE CITED

One case quoted by Murphy concerned a group of directors who bought a few shares in their company on the London Stock Exchange. On the strength of this London buying, the price of the shares on the Australian stock exchanges shot up the next day. The directors sold out at a substantial profit.

Sir Cecil Looker, president of the Australian Federation of Stock Exchanges, alarmed at the possibility of government intervention to protect the investing public, flew to London for talks with the chairman of the London Stock Exchange. In two Australian states, Victoria and New South Wales, moves are being made to set up some form of stock exchange watchdog.

Pilot Transfer To Milwaukee Said Approved

NEW YORK (AP) — Milwaukee, which inherited the Braves from Boston in 1953 and lost them to Atlanta four years ago, is about to get another baseball team.

The Associated Press has learned that the financially-troubled Seattle Pilots' American League franchise will be shifted to Milwaukee for the start of the 1970 season.

Sources said the current owners, headed by William R. Daley of Cleveland, have the nine American League votes necessary to assure the transfer and the move will be approved at a league meeting Tuesday in Tampa, Fla.

In Milwaukee, Allan (Bud) Selig, head of Milwaukee Brewers, Inc., the group which will acquire the Pilots, said he would be in Tampa for Tuesday's meeting.

"It has been our policy for six months not to comment until things are formally settled," Selig said.

HEARING THURSDAY

American League president Joe Cronin said in Sarasota, Fla., that the imminent franchise shift is "all news to me."

"I don't have any information. No vote has been taken. You have more information on this than I have."

Any franchise shift undoubtedly would be followed by a court battle. In fact, a show cause hearing is scheduled in Seattle Thursday on a temporary order restraining any actions aimed at moving the Pilots out of town.

BOUGHT TICKETS

The order was granted on a suit by Alfred J. Schweppe, a Seattle attorney. The action also named the Bank of California, where Schweppe said his cheque for two 1970 season tickets was deposited. Schweppe said the suit enjoins the present owners from doing anything to move the franchise before Thursday.

He said the suit does not enjoin the American League from approving the transfer, but does bar action by the owners to carry it out.

SECOND TIME

This will mark the second time Milwaukee has become the home of a transplanted baseball team shortly before a new season. The Braves moved out of Boston four weeks before the start of the 1953 campaign.

Daley, the Pilots' principal owner, and his associates paid the American League $6,000,000 for the franchise, which began play last season. They are reported to have spent an additional $2,000,000 getting the team and facilities ready.

But the Pilots needed an attendance of 850,000 to break even and drew only 677,944 in antiquated Sicks' Stadium, which seats 28,500. Milwaukee's County Stadium holds 47,000.

U.S. Skater Takes Medal

LAKE PLACID (AP) — A U.S. skater and a West German couple took gold medals in the men's singles and the pairs free skating events Saturday in the figure skating championships at the Kennedy International Games.

John Baldwin won the singles event while Brunhilde Bassler and Eberhard Rausch won the pairs.

Second through fifth places in the singles went to Gordon McKellen of the United States, Italy's Stefano Bargauan, Ronald Shaver of Hamilton, Ont., and West Germany's Reinhard Ketterer.

Dick Mann Wins Motorbike Event

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Honda-mounted Dick Mann turned in a record of 102.691 m.p.h. average Sunday to win the annual Daytona 200 motorcycle race.

Mann, an 18-year-old from Richmond, Calif., pocketed $4,500 of the $15,000 purse for his two-hour ride.

Gene Romero of San Luis Obispo, Calif., who set the qualifying record of 157.342 m.p.h. Wednesday, was second on a 750cc Triumph.

British Runner Shatters Record

VIENNA (CP) — Marylin Neuville of Britain broke the womens' indoor world record for 400 metres with a time of 53 seconds at the European indoor track and field championships.

She eclipsed a freshly set mark in beating West Germany's Christel Frese, 53.1, and Olympic champion Colette Besson, 53.6, of France.

Albertan Takes U.S. Alpine Title

WAITSFIELD, Vt. (AP) — "Nobody else knew I had a shot at the combination," smiled Bill McKay of Edmonton, "but I knew."

Not only did nobody—outside of his Canadian team-mates—know McKay had a chance at the U.S. national Alpine combined title, but nobody knew McKay.

Now, he's over-all winner of the national Alpine ski championships that ended Sunday.

"I've been skiing well all year, but just not making it," said McKay, 22, a member of Canada's national B ski team. "My main objective here was to finish all the races."

BEATS TAYLOR

McKay edged Rod Taylor of West Hartford, Conn., by less than three points under the complicated scoring system. Taylor, 26, who was leading in the combined going into Sunday's slalom, admitted he took it easy in the final race.

Among the girls, Rosi Fortna, from nearby Warren, Vt., was the most consistent.

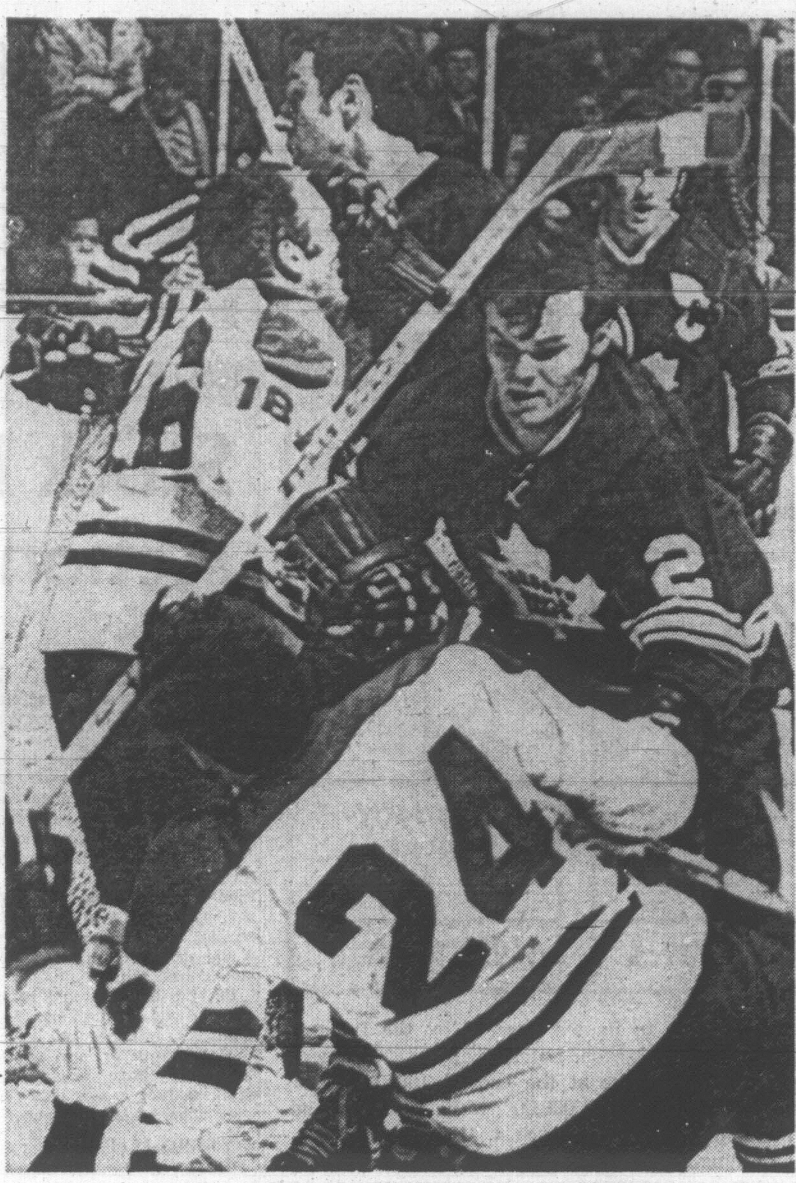
Miss Fortna, 23, a member of the U.S. ski team since 1965, finished second in all three races and easily took the combined title. She tied for second in the giant slalom Sunday with Cheryl Bechdolt of Tahoe City, Calif., both behind winner Susan Corrock of Seattle.

Calonas Collect Volleyball Title

WINNIPEG (CP) — Vancouver Calonas and Hamilton YMCA Saturday won the Canadian volleyball championships.

Calonas won the women's title with an 15-11, 15-5 win over Calgary Cals in the final to emerge unbeaten in 12 matches in the 12-team tournament.

Hamilton downed Ottawa University, 11-15, 15-7, 15-8 in the final of the men's 16-team event. The winners were undefeated in 16 matches.



TAKEOUT SHOTS STING

As in curling, "takeout" is an accepted tactic in hockey. Toronto Maple Leafs show their best takeout shots in this picture. Rick Ley (2) takes Montreal's Mickey Redmond (24) out of play while Canadien teammate Henri Richard (16) winces as he runs into glove of Brian Glennie during scramble around Leafs' goal. Ringsider in background is Toronto's Dave Keon. Action helped Leafs to pull out 3-3 draw with Canadiens in Sunday game at Toronto. See story page 13.

Lotz of Paydays Now For This Obedient Son

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Dick Lotz turned to golf because he was told to, almost quit and wouldn't want to do it all over again.

"Our dad told us to stick to golf and stay away from baseball," the personable, 27-year-old Lotz said Sunday after scoring his biggest victory and winning $30,000 in the $150,000 Monsanto Open Golf Tournament.

Lotz, the son of a former Pacific Coast League pitcher, came on the tour along with brother John in 1964 and didn't make more than $3,000 in his next three seasons.

He won about $15,000 the next year—"just about made expenses"—vaulted to $23,000 the next season, $38,000 last year, including a victory in the $50,000 Alameda County Open, and then came into his own this season.

Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver finished with a 74 for 285. He won $1,809.

Lotz had winnings of $49,000 in his last three starts and No. 1 spot on the money winning list at $54,000.

ENDS NINE UNDER

Lotz, who has been under 70 in 10 of his last 11 competitive rounds, had a final 68 and finished at 275, nine under par and three strokes ahead of Dave Stockton, who took second with a 67.

Lotz started the day in a tie for the top with veteran Bill Collins, took sole control when Collins bogeyed the first hole and was in command the rest of the way.

Floyd finished with a 72 for 280. British Open champ Tony Jacklin, with a 71, and Homero Blancas, with a sparkling 64, tied at 281, followed by John Miller and Bob Charles, 282.

South African Gary Player had a 73 for 283 and Arnold Palmer had a 69 for 284. Collins, troubled with an aching ankle, limped in with a fat 78 and finished well back at 285.

Jayvees Second Behind Windsor

WINDSOR — Windsor AKO Fratmen won the Canadian junior men's basketball championship Sunday for the first time since 1960 by finishing with four straight victories in the five-team, round-robin series for the national crown.

University of Victoria Jayvees, who placed two men on the first all star team, finished second with a 3-1 record. Jayvees were followed by the defending-champion Mount Royal Cougars of Calgary (2-2), University of Manitoba Bisons (1-3) and Holy Cross Crusaders of St. John's, Nfld.

Tiles hopes of the Jayvees were crushed Saturday night after they had staged a hard battle earlier in the day to down the Bisons 81-64 for their second successive victory.

With only eight men on their roster, the Jayvees of coach Gary Taylor were weary from their efforts against the Bisons and didn't have enough reserve strength to handle the hustling Fratmen and they went down to an 89-74 defeat.

CRUSH CRUSADERS

In their final game Sunday, the Jayvees crushed the Crusaders 94-46 but the Windsor club rolled to the championship by collecting two triumphs.

Brent Mullin, with 30 points, and Chris Hall, with 20, sparked the Jayvees Sunday and both were later named to the tourney's all-star club.

Fratmen clinched the title with a 103-84 victory over Mount Royal Sunday afternoon.

Fred Logan, named outstanding player in the tournament, paced the Fratmen with 22 points.

In the morning, Windsor defeated University of Manitoba Bisons 87-67 behind Logan's 27-point performance.

In Saturday's loss to Windsor, Victoria's Tim Reiger fouled out with only four minutes gone in the second half and guards Mullin and Jack Yamaoka also fouled out before the third quarter ended.

That trimmed the Jayvee ranks to five players and three of them—Hall, Fergie Andison and Mark Pratt—had only one personal foul remaining and were forced to play cautiously in the closing stages.

Hall was Saturday's scoring leader, firing 26 points against Windsor and notching 28 against Manitoba.

Saturday's scoring:

VICTORIA (81) — Rick Roberts, Fergie Andison, Chris Hall 28, Tim Reiger 9, Brent Mullin 14, Jack Yamaoka 4, Mark Pratt 19, Gord Hoshal 7.

MANITOBA (64) — Rory Grant 4, Don Maskiew 12, Murray Grafton 7, Brian Eger 18, Ron Waugh 21, Bob Mitchell 2, Jim Wolfe, Herb Weibe, Charles Shapiro, Ben Rappo.

WINDSOR (89) — Pat Gorgins 4, Laurie Cahill 23, Bruce Norris 10, Sam Sasso 13, Mike Chalaugh 9, Pat McMahon 6, John Smith 11, Fred Logan 13, Mike Patrick, Bill Todd.

VICTORIA (74) — Roberts 4, Andison 5, Hall 26, Reiger 7, Mullin 12, Yamaoka 2, Pratt 7, Hoshal 11.

Pat Smith Tops Cycle Scrambles

Pat Smith emerged from the mire with the overall championship Sunday in the Victoria Motorcycle Club's cross-country scrambles at Blink Bonnie Farm in Saanich.

Harold Perepalkin and Rob Moore were second and third overall out of the 22 riders which competed over a very muddy course.

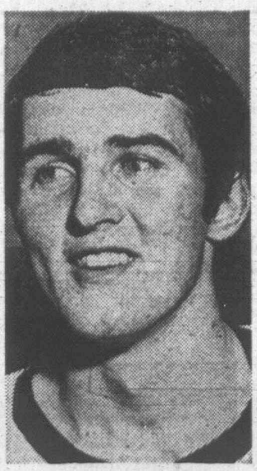
Cougars Rebound On Munro's Goal

Cats Back in Business After 3-2 Overtime Win

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Scotty Munro is back on the firing line, and Victoria Cougars are back in business.

Munro scored two goals, but the one they allowed him to count was the one that mattered Sunday night as the Cougars clipped Vernon Essos 3-2 after 17 minutes and 19 seconds of overtime.



SCOTT MUNRO
. . . hero in overtime

The victory, coming before a playoff throng of 4,004 fans at Memorial Arena, reduced Vernon's lead in the best-of-seven British Columbia Junior Jockey final to 2-1.

The fourth game will be played here tonight (8:30) with a fifth scheduled Wednesday in Vernon. A sixth, if required, will be played in Victoria on Thursday.

Vernon, playing at home, jumped into a 2-0 series lead by edging the Cats 5-4 on Friday and then following it up with a 10-5 romp Saturday.

It was Munro's turn to romp Sunday. In providing the game-ending goal, Scott gained partial revenge for the near-disastrous eye injury he suffered during a game in Vernon earlier in the season.

Benched in Cougars' semi-final series against Kamloops Rockets, Munro returned to the firing line Friday. He managed an assist then, scored two goals on Saturday, and two more on Sunday.

Only one of his two Sabbath offerings counted. A third-period shot appeared to sail right through the south-end net, then tended by Vernon's Gary Osborne.

Goal judge Ed Viggers played hesitation waltz with the red light, then referee Barry Balance ruled the puck had glanced off the top bar. Munro insisted his shot went through the net, and, quietly and between periods, the arena staff mended a hole in the netting.

Vernon Squad Quick on Rebounds

Munro also figured in Victoria's first goal, scored by Randy Bock. Ted Plowe counted Cougars' second goal.

Each time, however, the league-winning Essos bounced back in rapid-fire order. After Bock provided a 1-0 lead in the second period, Gord Osinchuck made it 1-1 within three minutes.

Plowe made it 2-1 midway in the third, then Osinchuck set up Wayne Dye for the goal 29 seconds later that forced overtime. Teams went through a scoreless, 10-minute first overtime period, then moved into sudden-death.

Then Munro got his chance in the eighth minute of play after linemate Murray Kennett did all the work to put his wingman in the clear.

Munro, who also was stymied by a brilliant Osborne save in the first minute of the sudden-death period, made no mistake on his close-in shot.

Game over!

The Cougars had the best of the scoring chances Sunday but worked far harder than the Essos for goals. Both Plowe and Bock connected while the Cougars held a manpower edge, but Essos made it look easier with the help of glaring Victoria defensive mistakes.

Cougar defencemen were slow to jump on the puck, and invariably found themselves beaten to it by Odie Lowe's hustlers from Vernon, particularly in the earlier stages.

Cougars had their greatest troubles in the first two periods. Once they began to skate, and fore-check, the Victorians began to assume command.

Marsh, Quechuk Powered Assault

Saturday night in Vernon, the Cougars opened scoring when Alex Shibicky counted the first of his two goals. Vernon rapped in five straight, and the Cougars never got back into the game.

Jack Marsh scored three goals and set up two. Larry Quechuk counted a pair and set up four as the Essos bombarded Ed Forslund with 48 shots.

John Price, Osinchuck, Bob Craig, Dye and defenceman Gordie Merritt also scored for Essos before 2,432 fans, second largest crowd of the season at Vernon.

SHORT CHIPS: Cougars, at times, skated as if they were being intimidated by Vernon players ... Shibicky, despite two goals on Saturday and two assists on Sunday, marred his performance by refusing to pass ... John Kwasney, who scored his seventh playoff goal on Saturday, Shibicky, Bruce Cowick, Rob Little and Bock all missed on clear-cut runs at Osborne ... Victoria defenceman Laurie Moore and Vernon's Bob Mayer both bounced shots off goal-posts after beating the rival goalies Sunday ... Ballance seemed to have good control of the game ... He dished out 41 minutes in penalties, including three majors and a misconduct ... Dye took the 10-minute rest after objecting too strongly to a tripping penalty handed Bob Craig.

Cowick and Al Whalstrom were tagged with fighting majors moments earlier while Shibicky drew the other major for "butt-ending"... Cougars played intelligently to kill off the three minutes without damage . . . Bob Craig drew a boarding penalty to bring teams on even footing for the final two minutes of Shibicky's sentence ... Sunday's game was Cougars' 10th in 12 days.

Canucks Roll To Easy Win

TOKYO (Reuters — British Columbia's touring rugby team opened an exhibition tour of Japan Sunday by crushing the All-Keio side 57-6.

The heavier Canadians scored almost at will and held a 22-0 lead at half time.

Hochi Shzmbun, one of Japan's leading sports writers, said the big Canadians marched down field like a tank.

Starting the visitors on their way to victory were Chuck Plester's try in the second minute and Doug Shick's 55-yard dash for another try in the seventh minute.

RAYMOND REIGNS

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — Raymond Comets captured the Alberta high school "A" boys' basketball championship for the third time in four years Saturday by defeating Edmonton's Jasper Place 49-44 in Saturday's final.

Classy French Skiers Collect Team Honors

VOSS, Norway (CP) — France ended the World Cup skiing season Sunday by dominating the last race and winning the 1970 championships in two of three major categories.

Patrick Russell won Sunday's special slalom in one minute 21.23 seconds and his team-mates, Jean-Noel Augert, in 1:22.16, and Henri Brechu, in 1:22.39, swept the top three places.

After the race, the French were presented with the Nations' Cup for the top team in this season's competition. They were easy victors with 1,631 points to 889 for second-place Austria. The United States was third with 582 and Canada seventh with 135.

Michele Jacot of France received the trophy as top women skier of the 1970 Alpine World Cup championships.

QUEBECER IS 13TH

The only non-Frenchman to win a major trophy was Karl Schranz of Austria, leading men's skier. He did not start the second run Sunday but he already had clinched the men's Alpine World Cup with a total of 148 points from previous races. Russell was second with 145 and Gustavo Theoni of Italy third with 140. Next came Augert, 120, and Alain Penz of France, 119.

Peter Duncan of Mont Tremblant, Que., was the top Canadian in Sunday's race, 13th after runs of 42.61 and 42.48 for a total time of 1:25.09. He tied for 46th in the World Cup standings with Eric Poulsen and Hank Kashiwa, both of the U.S., with 11 points each.

Keith Shepherd of Lake Louise, Alta., who was disqualified Sunday, was 70th in the World Cup standings with three points.

Russell was declared official winner after an international jury upheld a protest against the first-run time of Andrzej Bachleda of Poland who earlier had been declared official winner.

The decision dropped Bachleda to seventh with a corrected time of 1:22.88.

SWEDES SHADE CZECHS, 5-4

SOVIETS LACE EAST GERMANY

Russians Rolling in High Gear Again

STOCKHOLM (CP) — After a sputtering start, the powerful Russian hockey machine is rolling again and seems destined to smash to an unprecedented eighth consecutive victory in the world hockey championships.

The Russians almost ground to a halt in the opening game when the world champions managed only a 2-1 win over underdog Finland Saturday. But the Russians roared back Sunday and trounced East Germany 12-1 to tie for the lead with Sweden.

Sweden fought off Czechoslovakia 5-4 Sunday after beating East Germany 6-1 the day before. The Swedes trail the Russians on goal spread—11-5 against 14-5.

Sweden's first-string goalie, Leif Holmqvist, who has had offers from the National Hockey League, became afflicted with lumbago shortly before Sunday's game and had to sit it out, replaced by a rookie.

The young Finns are tied with the Czechs for third with two points each after an impressive 9-1 win over Poland Sunday. They showed surprising speed and technique but are still rated underdogs because of lack of experience.

The Czechs downed Poland 6-3 in the opening game Saturday but fell down on defensive work in their loss Sunday.

The Poles, with two losses, are tied for last place with East Germany in the six-country tournament.

Poland was brought in to replace Canada after the Canadians withdrew from the tournament and severed their links with the International Ice Hockey Federation last January when an earlier decision to allow them to use a number of professionals was reversed.

East Germany is replacing the United States which was eliminated from Group A last year.

The tournament resumes Tuesday with Russia playing Poland, East Germany taking on Czechoslovakia and Sweden meeting Finland.

Pilot Transfer To Milwaukee Said Approved

NEW YORK (AP) — Milwaukee, which inherited the Braves from Boston in 1953 and lost them to Atlanta four years ago, is about to get another baseball team.

The Associated Press has learned that the financially-troubled Seattle Pilots' American League franchise will be shifted to Milwaukee for the start of the 1970 season.

Sources said the current owners, headed by William R. Daley of Cleveland, have the nine American League votes necessary to assure the transfer and the move will be approved at a league meeting Tuesday in Tampa, Fla.

In Milwaukee, Allan (Bud) Selig, head of Milwaukee Brewers, Inc., the group which will acquire the Pilots, said he would be in Tampa for Tuesday's meeting.

"It has been our policy for six months not to comment until things are formally settled," Selig said.

HEARING THURSDAY

American League president Joe Cronin said in Sarasota, Fla., that the imminent franchise shift is "all news to me."

"I don't have any information. No vote has been taken. You have more information on this than I have."

Any franchise shift undoubtedly would be followed by a court battle. In fact, a show cause hearing is scheduled in Seattle Thursday on a temporary order restraining any actions aimed at moving the Pilots out of town.

BOUGHT TICKETS

The order was granted on a suit by Alfred J. Schweppe, a Seattle attorney. The action also named the Bank of California, where Schweppe said his cheque for two 1970 season tickets was deposited. Schweppe said the suit enjoins the present owners from doing anything to move the franchise before Thursday.

He said the suit does not enjoin the American League from approving the transfer, but does bar action by the owners to carry it out.

SECOND TIME

This will mark the second time Milwaukee has become the home of a transplanted baseball team shortly before a new season. The Braves moved out of Boston four weeks before the start of the 1953 campaign.

Daley, the Pilots' principal owner, and his associates paid the American League $6,000,000 for the franchise, which began play last season. They are reported to have spent an additional $2,000,000 getting the team and facilities ready.

But the Pilots needed an attendance of 850,000 to break even and drew only 677,944 in antiquated Sicks' Stadium, which seats 28,500. Milwaukee's County Stadium holds 47,000.

U.S. Skater Takes Medal

LAKE PLACID (AP) — A U.S. skater and a West German couple took gold medals in the men's singles and the pairs free skating events Saturday in the figure skating championships at the Kennedy International Games.

John Baldwin won the singles event while Brunhilde Bassler and Eberhard Rausch won the pairs.

Second through fifth places in the singles went to Gordon McKellen of the United States, Italy's Stefano Bargauan, Ronald Shaver of Hamilton, Ont., and West Germany's Reinhard Ketterer.

Dick Mann Wins Motorbike Event

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Honda-mounted Dick Mann turned in a record of 102.691 m.p.h. average Sunday to win the annual Daytona 200 motorcycle race.

Mann, an 18-year-old from Richmond, Calif., pocketed $4,500 of the $15,000 purse for his two-hour ride.

Gene Romero of San Luis Obispo, Calif., who set the qualifying record of 157.342 m.p.h. Wednesday, was second on a 750cc Triumph.

British Runner Shatters Record

VIENNA (CP) — Marylin Neuville of Britain broke the womens' indoor world record for 400 metres with a time of 53 seconds at the European indoor track and field championships.

She eclipsed a freshly set mark in beating West Germany's Christel Frese, 53.1, and Olympic champion Colette Besson, 53.6, of France.

Lotz of Paydays Now For This Obedient Son

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Dick Lotz turned to golf because he was told to, almost quit and wouldn't want to do it all over again.

"Our dad told us to stick to golf and stay away from baseball," the personable, 27-year-old Lotz said Sunday after scoring his biggest victory and winning $30,000 in the $150,000 Monsanto Open Golf Tournament.

Lotz, the son of a former Pacific Coast League pitcher, came on the tour along with brother John in 1964 and didn't make more than $3,000 in his next three seasons.

He won about $15,000 the next year—"just about made expenses"—vaulted to $23,000 the next season, $38,000 last year, including a victory in the $50,000 Alameda County Open, and then came into his own this season.

Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver finished with a 74 for 285. He won $1,809.

Lotz had winnings of $49,000 in his last three starts and No. 1 spot on the money winning list at $54,000.

ENDS NINE UNDER

Lotz, who has been under 70 in 10 of his last 11 competitive rounds, had a final 68 and finished at 275, nine under par and three strokes ahead of Dave Stockton, who took second with a 67.

Lotz started the day in a tie for the top with veteran Bill Collins, took sole control when Collins bogeyed the first hole and was in command the rest of the way.

Floyd finished with a 72 for 280. British Open champ Tony Jacklin, with a 71, and Homero Blancas, with a sparkling 64, tied at 281, followed by John Miller and Bob Charles, 282.

South African Gary Player had a 73 for 283 and Arnold Palmer had a 69 for 284. Collins, troubled with an aching ankle, limped in with a fat 78 and finished well back at 285.

Jayvees Second Behind Windsor

WINDSOR — Windsor AKO Fratmen won the Canadian junior men's basketball championship Sunday for the first time since 1960 by finishing with four straight victories in the five-team, round-robin series for the national crown.

University of Victoria Jayvees, who placed two men on the first all star team, finished second with a 3-1 record. Jayvees were followed by the defending-champion Mount Royal Cougars of Calgary (2-2), University of Manitoba Bisons (1-3) and Holy Cross Crusaders of St. John's, Nfld.

Tiles hopes of the Jayvees were crushed Saturday night after they had staged a hard battle earlier in the day to down the Bisons 81-64 for their second successive victory.

With only eight men on their roster, the Jayvees of coach Gary Taylor were weary from their efforts against the Bisons and didn't have enough reserve strength to handle the hustling Fratmen and they went down to an 89-74 defeat.

CRUSH CRUSADERS

In their final game Sunday, the Jayvees crushed the Crusaders 94-46 but the Windsor club rolled to the championship by collecting two triumphs.

Brent Mullin, with 30 points, and Chris Hall, with 20, sparked the Jayvees Sunday and both were later named to the tourney's all-star club.

Fratmen clinched the title with a 103-84 victory over Mount Royal Sunday afternoon.

Fred Logan, named outstanding player in the tournament, paced the Fratmen with 22 points.

In the morning, Windsor defeated University of Manitoba Bisons 87-67 behind Logan's 27-point performance.

In Saturday's loss to Windsor, Victoria's Tim Reiger fouled out with only four minutes gone in the second half and guards Mullin and Jack Yamaoka also fouled out before the third quarter ended.

That trimmed the Jayvee ranks to five players and three of them—Hall, Fergie Andison and Mark Pratt—had only one personal foul remaining and were forced to play cautiously in the closing stages.

Hall was Saturday's scoring leader, firing 26 points against Windsor and notching 28 against Manitoba.

Saturday's scoring:

VICTORIA (81) — Rick Roberts, Fergie Andison, Chris Hall 28, Tim Reiger 9, Brent Mullin 14, Jack Yamaoka 4, Mark Pratt 19, Gord Hoshal 7.

MANITOBA (64) — Rory Grant 4, Don Maskiew 12, Murray Grafton 7, Brian Eger 18, Ron Waugh 21, Bob Mitchell 2, Jim Wolfe, Herb Weibe, Charles Shapiro, Ben Rappo.

WINDSOR (89) — Pat Gorgins 4, Laurie Cahill 23, Bruce Norris 10, Sam Sasso 13, Mike Chalaugh 9, Pat McMahon 6, John Smith 11, Fred Logan 13, Mike Patrick, Bill Todd.

VICTORIA (74) — Roberts 4, Andison 5, Hall 26, Reiger 7, Mullin 12, Yamaoka 2, Pratt 7, Hoshal 11.

Pat Smith Tops Cycle Scrambles

Pat Smith emerged from the mire with the overall championship Sunday in the Victoria Motorcycle Club's cross-country scrambles at Blink Bonnie Farm in Saanich.

Harold Perepalkin and Rob Moore were second and third overall out of the 22 riders which competed over a very muddy course.

Albertan Takes U.S. Alpine Title

WAITSFIELD, Vt. (AP) — "Nobody else knew I had a shot at the combination," smiled Bill McKay of Edmonton, "but I knew."

Not only did nobody—outside of his Canadian team-mates—know McKay had a chance at the U.S. national Alpine combined title, but nobody knew McKay.

Now, he's over-all winner of the national Alpine ski championships that ended Sunday.

"I've been skiing well all year, but just not making it," said McKay, 22, a member of Canada's national B ski team. "My main objective here was to finish all the races."

BEATS TAYLOR

McKay edged Rod Taylor of West Hartford, Conn., by less than three points under the complicated scoring system. Taylor, 26, who was leading in the combined going into Sunday's slalom, admitted he took it easy in the final race.

Among the girls, Rosi Fortna, from nearby Warren, Vt., was the most consistent.

Miss Fortna, 23, a member of the U.S. ski team since 1965, finished second in all three races and easily took the combined title. She tied for second in the giant slalom Sunday with Cheryl Bechdolt of Tahoe City, Calif., both behind winner Susan Corrock of Seattle.

Calonas Collect Volleyball Title

WINNIPEG (CP) — Vancouver Calonas and Hamilton YMCA Saturday won the Canadian volleyball championships.

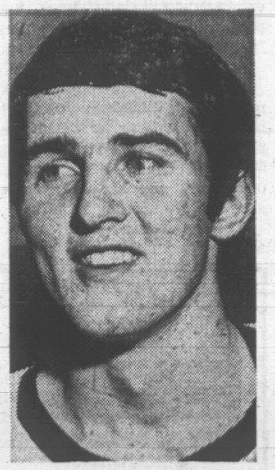
Calonas won the women's title with an 15-11, 15-5 win over Calgary Cals in the final to emerge unbeaten in 12 matches in the 12-team tournament.

Hamilton downed Ottawa University, 11-15, 15-7, 15-8 in the final of the men's 16-team event. The winners were undefeated in 16 matches.

Cougars Rebound On Munro's Goal

Cats Back in Business After 3-2 Overtime Win

By ERNIE FEDORUK



SCOTT MUNRO
. . . hero in overtime

Scotty Munro is back on the firing line, and Victoria Cougars are back in business.

Munro scored two goals, but the one they allowed him to count was the one that mattered Sunday night as the Cougars clipped Vernon Essos 3-2 after 17 minutes and 19 seconds of overtime.

The victory, coming before a playoff throng of 4,004 fans at Memorial Arena, reduced Vernon's lead in the best-of-seven British Columbia Junior Jockey final to 2-1.

The fourth game will be played here tonight (8:30) with a fifth scheduled Wednesday in Vernon. A sixth, if required, will be played in Victoria on Thursday.

Vernon, playing at home, jumped into a 2-0 series lead by edging the Cats 5-4 on Friday and then following it up with a 10-5 romp Saturday.

It was Munro's turn to romp Sunday. In providing the game-ending goal, Scott gained partial revenge for the near-disastrous eye injury he suffered during a game in Vernon earlier in the season.

Benched in Cougars' semi-final series against Kamloops Rockets, Munro returned to the firing line Friday. He managed an assist then, scored two goals on Saturday, and two more on Sunday.

Only one of his two Sabbath offerings counted. A third-period shot appeared to sail right through the south-end net, then tended by Vernon's Gary Osborne.

Goal judge Ed Viggers played hesitation waltz with the red light, then referee Barry Balance ruled the puck had glanced off the top bar. Munro insisted his shot went through the net, and, quietly and between periods, the arena staff mended a hole in the netting.

Vernon Squad Quick on Rebounds

Munro also figured in Victoria's first goal, scored by Randy Bock. Ted Plowe counted Cougars' second goal.

Each time, however, the league-winning Essos bounced back in rapid-fire order. After Bock provided a 1-0 lead in the second period, Gord Osinchuck made it 1-1 within three minutes.

Plowe made it 2-1 midway in the third, then Osinchuck set up Wayne Dye for the goal 29 seconds later that forced overtime. Teams went through a scoreless, 10-minute first overtime period, then moved into sudden-death.

Then Munro got his chance in the eighth minute of play after linemate Murray Kennett did all the work to put his wingman in the clear.

Munro, who also was stymied by a brilliant Osborne save in the first minute of the sudden-death period, made no mistake on his close-in shot.

Game over!

The Cougars had the best of the scoring chances Sunday but worked far harder than the Essos for goals. Both Plowe and Bock connected while the Cougars held a manpower edge, but Essos made it look easier with the help of glaring Victoria defensive mistakes.

Cougar defencemen were slow to jump on the puck, and invariably found themselves beaten to it by Odie Lowe's hustlers from Vernon, particularly in the earlier stages.

Cougars had their greatest troubles in the first two periods. Once they began to skate, and fore-check, the Victorians began to assume command.

Marsh, Quechuk Powered Assault

Saturday night in Vernon, the Cougars opened scoring when Alex Shibicky counted the first of his two goals. Vernon rapped in five straight, and the Cougars never got back into the game.

Jack Marsh scored three goals and set up two. Larry Quechuk counted a pair and set up four as the Essos bombarded Ed Forslund with 48 shots.

John Price, Osinchuck, Bob Craig, Dye and defenceman Gordie Merritt also scored for Essos before 2,432 fans, second largest crowd of the season at Vernon.

SHORT CHIPS: Cougars, at times, skated as if they were being intimidated by Vernon players . . . Shibicky, despite two goals on Saturday and two assists on Sunday, marred his performance by refusing to pass . . . John Kwasney, who scored his seventh playoff goal on Saturday, Shibicky, Bruce Cowick, Rob Little and Bock all missed on clear-cut runs at Osborne . . . Victoria defenceman Laurie Moore and Vernon's Bob Mayer both bounced shots off goal-posts after beating the rival goalies Sunday . . . Balance seemed to have good control of the game . . . He dished out 41 minutes in penalties, including three majors and a misconduct . . . Dye took the 10-minute rest after objecting too strongly to a tripping penalty handed Bob Craig.

Cowick and Al Whalstrom were tagged with fighting majors moments earlier while Shibicky drew the other major for "butt-ending" . . . Cougars played intelligently to kill off the three minutes without damage . . . Bob Craig drew a boarding penalty to bring teams on even footing for the final two minutes of Shibicky's sentence . . . Sunday's game was Cougars' 10th in 12 days.

Canucks Roll To Easy Win

TOKYO (Reuters — British Columbia's touring rugby team opened an exhibition tour of Japan Sunday by crushing the All-Keio side 57-6.

The heavier Canadians scored almost at will and held a 22-0 lead at half time.

Hochi Shzmbun, one of Japan's leading sports writers, said the big Canadians marched down field like a tank.

Starting the visitors on their way to victory were Chuck Plester's try in the second minute and Doug Shick's 55-yard dash for another try in the seventh minute.

RAYMOND REIGNS

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — Raymond Comets captured the Alberta high school "A" boys' basketball championship for the third time in four years Saturday by defeating Edmonton's Jasper Place 49-44 in Saturday's final.

Classy French Skiers Collect Team Honors

VOSS, Norway (CP) — France ended the World Cup skiing season Sunday by dominating the last race and winning the 1970 championships in two of three major categories.

Patrick Russell won Sunday's special slalom in one minute 21.23 seconds and his team-mates, Jean-Noel Augert, in 1:22.16, and Henri Brechu, in 1:22.39, swept the top three places.

After the race, the French were presented with the Nations' Cup for the top team in this season's competition. They were easy victors with 1,631 points to 889 for second-place Austria. The United States was third with 582 and Canada seventh with 135.

Michele Jacot of France received the trophy as top women skier of the 1970 Alpine World Cup championships.

QUEBECER IS 13TH

The only non-Frenchman to win a major trophy was Karl Schranz of Austria, leading men's skier. He did not start the second run Sunday but he already had clinched the men's Alpine World Cup with a total of 148 points from previous races. Russell was second with 145 and Gustavo Theoni of Italy third with 140. Next came Augert, 120, and Alain Penz of France, 119.

Peter Duncan of Mont Tremblant, Que., was the top Canadian in Sunday's race, 13th after runs of 42.61 and 42.48 for a total time of 1:25.09. He tied for 46th in the World Cup standings with Eric Poulsen and Hank Kashiwa, both of the U.S., with 11 points each.

Keith Shepherd of Lake Louise, Alta., who was disqualified Sunday, was 70th in the World Cup standings with three points.

Russell was declared official winner after an international jury upheld a protest against the first-run time of Andrzej Bachleda of Poland who earlier had been declared official winner.

The decision dropped Bachleda to seventh with a corrected time of 1:22.88.

SOVIETS LACE EAST GERMANY

Russians Rolling in High Gear Again

STOCKHOLM (CP) — After a sputtering start, the powerful Russian hockey machine is rolling again and seems destined to smash to an unprecedented eighth consecutive victory in the world hockey championships.

The Russians almost ground to a halt in the opening game when the world champions managed only a 2-1 win over underdog Finland Saturday. But the Russians roared back Sunday and trounced East Germany 12-1 to tie for the lead with Sweden.

Sweden fought off Czechoslovakia 5-4 Sunday after beating East Germany 6-1 the day before. The Swedes trail the Russians on goal spread—11-5 against 14-5.

Sweden's first-string goalie, Leif Holmqvist, who has had offers from the National Hockey League, became afflicted with lumbago shortly before Sunday's game and had to sit it out, replaced by a rookie.

The young Finns are tied with the Czechs for third with two points each after an impressive 9-1 win over Poland Sunday. They showed surprising speed and technique but are still rated underdogs because of lack of experience.

The Czechs downed Poland 6-3 in the opening game Saturday but fell down on defensive work in their loss Sunday.

The Poles, with two losses, are tied for last place with East Germany in the six-country tournament.

Poland was brought in to replace Canada after the Canadians withdrew from the tournament and severed their links with the International Ice Hockey Federation last January when an earlier decision to allow them to use a number of professionals was reversed.

East Germany is replacing the United States which was eliminated from Group A last year.

Lansdowne Clipped By Campbell River

NANAIMO — Campbell River retained the Vancouver Island junior high school girls' basketball championship Saturday with a 34-25 victory over Lansdowne of Victoria in the tournament final.

Campbell River advanced to the final with a 42-28 win over Woodlands of Nanaimo while Lansdowne eliminated Mount Newton 30-16 in the other semi-final.

Woodlands won third place by defeating fifth-place finisher Mount Newton, 32-30, and St. Anne's earned the fourth position with a 33-32 squeaker over host John Barsby.

St. Ann's sidelined Gulf Islands 19-14 and Barsby ousted A. W. Neill of Port Alberni 41-13 in second-round tussles.

DAUGHTER IN LINEUP

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mrs. Bobby Hull, wife of the Chicago Black Hawks' hockey star, gave birth Friday to a daughter. The Hulls also have four sons.

Slumping Rangers Passed by Chicago

By Canadian Press

Bobby Orr may have all but clinched the National Hockey League individual scoring championship but the East Division title is up for grabs.

INJURY suffered by winger John McKenzie on Sunday is expected to sideline veteran Boston winger for few days. He bruised a rib in National Hockey League game at Boston.

The Boton Bruins defenceman scored two goals and two assists in a 5-5 tie with Detroit Red Wings Sunday to put his points-total at 101, 16 ahead of team-mate Phil Esposito, who won the championship last season.

But the tie was all the leading Bruins squad gained during the weekend while fifth-place Montreal Canadiens added three points to further tighten the hot division race.

Chicago Black Hawks were the big gainers, taking over second place from New York Rangers on the strength of a 5-2 win over Los Angeles Kings Sunday and a 7-4 beating of the Rangers Saturday.

SEALS CONNECT

The Rangers were beaten again Sunday, 4-2 by Minnesota North Stars, while Oakland Seals edged Philadelphia Flyers 2-1 and Toronto Maple Leafs gained a 3-3 tie with the Canadiens.

In other Saturday action, Toronto edged Boston 2-1, Montreal whipped St. Louis Blues 6-2, Philadelphia downed Los Angeles 5-3 and Minnesota whipped Pittsburgh Penguins 6-2.

Orr became the first NHL defenceman to break the 100 mark with his 26th and 27th goals and 73rd and 74th assists in the game before 14,835 fans at Boston.

Esposito, Bobby Hull of Chicago and Gordie Howe of Detroit, all forwards, were the first to make 100 points and all made it last season.

Esposito, Johnny McKenzie and Don Marcotte scored the other Boston goals while Frank Mahovlich got two and Alex Delvecchio, Garry Unger and Nick Libett one each for the Wings.

McKENZIE HURT

McKenzie of the Bruins was taken to hospital after the first period with what was thought to be a cracked rib, but x-rays later showed he suffered only a bruise.

Pit Martin scored once and set up two other goals by Jim Pappin and one by Gerry Pinder to spark the Black Hawks in their game at Chicago. Chico Maki got the other goal for the Hawks.

Dick Duff and Ross Lonsberry scored for the Kings, who outshot Chicago 41-33 but were foiled by former team-mate Gerry Desjardins, manning the Hawks nets.

The win moved Chicago, a team picked at the start of the season to finish fifth or sixth, to within three points of the lead-in Bruins.

The Rangers, who led the East Division two weeks ago, ran their winless streak to nine in the game before 17,250 fans at New York.

New York outshot the North Stars 55-34 but were stopped by the superb goaltending of Gump Worsley.

The game was tied 2-2 late in the third period when Ray Cullen scored on a goal-mouth scramble in front of netminder Ed Giacomin.

The Rangers pulled Giacomin for an extra attacker and moments later Dave Balon broke in alone on Worsley who stopped the Ranger shot. Seconds later, Bill Collins scored his second goal of the night into Giacomin's empty net.

Minnesota's win kept it one point ahead of fifth-place Oakland in the battle for the West Division's last playoff position.

The single point gleaned in their tie with the Leafs at Toronto Sunday afternoon kept the Canadiens seven points behind Boston and only one back of fourth-place Detroit.

Right winger Gerry Ehman scored with less than four minutes remaining in the game at Oakland to give the Seals the victory before 4,438 fans.

Mennonite Captures Prep Crown

VANCOUVER (CP) — First-Team all-stars Rudy Siemens and George Bergen led Mennonite Educational Institute of Clearbrook to the 25th annual British Columbia boys high school basketball championship before 6,881 fans at the Pacific Coliseum.

Siemens scored 13 points and Bergen 11 as MEI defeated Abbotsford, 49-47. Werner Spann led the losers with 12 points.

Dave Coutu of North Delta, who scored 96 points in the tournament, was named most valuable player and joined Siemens, Bergen, Jim Ciccone of Prince Rupert, and Doug Kinnear of Winston Churchill on the all-star selections.

Ciccone scored 26 points as Prince Rupert topped North Delta, 77-61, in the playoff for third place. In other games, Vancouver College scored a 62-55 win over Winston Churchill and Delbrook outscored Castlegar, 59-44.

Island-Born Jim Claxton Dead at 77

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — James "Jimmy" Claxton, a legend of the golden era of baseball who was doomed in his career to relative obscurity because he came along some 30 years before professional baseball's "color line" was broken by Jackie Robinson, died here at the age of 77.

Recognition finally caught up with the fabulous left-handed pitcher years after his career had closed. In December, 1969, he was elected to a place in the Tacoma-Pierce County sports hall of fame. He was born in Wellington, on Vancouver Island.

A coal miner's son, he was a youngster in Ravensdale in 1913 when he started playing baseball as a catcher. His flare on the mound emerged soon afterward.

About 1920 when he was in his early 20's, Claxton got his big chance in organized ball with the Oakland Oaks of the Pacific Coast League. This was terminated when it was disclosed that he was Black. He had posed as an Indian.

After that, Jimmy went back to the semi-pro ranks. He pitched for a while with the Tacoma city leagues and ended his life as a longshoreman, a job from which he retired in 1958.

Late Surge Sends Vikings Into Final

University of Victoria Vikings waited until the closing stages of their trip through the semi-final playoffs of the Victoria Rugby Union's first division before lowering the boom.

After appearing to be in danger of suffering an upset defeat, the Vikings erupted to pack all their scoring into the final 15 minutes of play and chalk up a 20-12 triumph over James Bay Athletic Association at Centennial Stadium.

Oad Bay Wanderers picked up the other final berth by trouncing Castaways 21-3 at Windsor Park.

Ted Hardy paced Vikings by converting all four trys, two by Jim Wenman and singles by Ken Wilke and Dave Lennard. Bernie Sinclair, Bruce MacFarlane and Pete Simmons each scored a try and Norm Dixon kicked a penalty goal for JBAA.

Don Burgess paced Wanderers with a try and two converts while other trys were added by Gordie Hawkins, Bob Iverson, Garry Johnson and Dave Valentine. Tom Walton booted another convert for Wanderers.

Dave Clarke supplied all Castaways' points with a penalty goal.

JBAA downed Nanaimo Hornets 6-3 in Nanaimo Saturday to claim a berth in the second-division final.

Saanich Velox won the other semi with a 23-16 victory over Uvic Saxons in Centennial Stadium.

Wayne Coles scored two penalty goals to account for all JBAA points while Bob Peck's try gave Nanaimo a temporary tie after a scoreless first falf.

Lorne Bunyan booted four penalty goals and a convert to lead Velox while Bob Hissink, with two trys, and Paul Burgoyne, with a single try, completed the scoring parade.

Randy Howarth, Bill Walton and Dave Smerl counted trys for Saxons. Gio Musato kicked a penalty goal and convert and Doug Pettman added another convert for the Uvic crew.

In other Saturday rugby action, Claremont clipped Mount Douglas 18-15 in overtime at Macdonald Park to win the invitational seven-a-side high school tournament.

Mount Douglas was unbeaten in preliminary bouts with wins over Claremont, Esquimalt and Victoria. Claremont gained a final berth by compiling a 2-1 record in preliminary action.

Cordova Bay Girls Take Island Crown

Cordova Bay captured the Vancouver Island juvenile girls' basketball crown Saturday by defeating First United Phantoms 42-31 in the championship final at Cordova Bay Community Hall.

Bays defeated Nanaimo 47-34 in the opener of the three-team, round-robin tournament. Phantoms handed Nanaimo its second loss, 42-32.

Laurie Atkinson, named the tourney's most-valuable-player, led Bays with 14 points in the final.

Joining Miss Atkinson on the all-star team were Lorna McHattie and Lynn Duncan of Cordova Bay, Pat Jones of Nanaimo and Val Cruickshank of Phantoms.

Cordova Bay now advances to the provincial championship, scheduled for April 3 and 4 in Salmon Arm.

T-Birds Complete Unbeaten Season

HAMILTON (CP) — University of British Columbia Thunderbirds Saturday trimmed McMaster University Marauders 96-75 to claim the 1970 Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union basketball title.

The victory completed an undefeated season for the Western Canada college champions, who are coached by Canadian national team bench boss Peter Mullins.

In the consolation final, Laurentian University Voyageurs of Sudbury, Ont., edged Montreal's Loyola College Warriors 88-82.

Derek Sankey paced UBC in the championship game with 30 points. Ron Thorsen and Bob Molinski both contributed 19 points and Terry MacKay 13 points for the winners.

Jim Noble led the runner-up Marauders with 25 points. Paul Mazza sank 19 points and John Dignan 14.

HELD EARLY LEAD

McMaster led in the early stages but the Thunderbirds bounced back to lead 45-44 at half time and increased that margin to 69-53 by three-quarter time.

Thorsen, who collected 63 points in three games, was named the tournament's most valuable player and Friday was chosen a member of the 1959-70 all-Canada college basketball team. He was named to he tournament all-star squad long with team-mate Sankey and McMaster's Mazza, Dib Noble and Dignan.

B.C. Mat Squad Helped by Richey

Claremont's George Richey won his match as a B.C. team defeated Alberta 32-19 in a dual interprovincial high school wrestling meeting at Edmonton on Saturday.

Richey was the only Vancouver Island performer on the 13-man B.C. team.

Sure, you can buy a cheaper lawnmower than Lawn-Boy.
In fact, you could buy one every year.

Some power lawn mowers cost about half as much as Lawn-Boy. Which is why a lot of people buy them. But that's also why they have to go on buying them every year or two. And why a lot of people are taking a closer look at Lawn-Boy.

Lawn-Boy has what other power mowers haven't:

Exclusive Finger-Tip start. Exclusive 2-year warranty (even our warranty lasts longer than some mowers). Exclusive grasscatcher, designed so it can't clog. 2-cycle, 3-hp engine. An automatic lubrication system that can't run dry—so the engine can't burn out. Lightweight rust-proof magnesium housing. Double housing around the spring steel blade—for safety's sake. Biggest muffler on any power mower. Front discharge chute slanted down for safety. Anti-accident lock on the adjustable handle. Bushel-sized mildew-proof, zippered bag on Grass-catcher; it snaps on and off, empties in a shake. 3-point height adjustment on 19" and 21" models, for 6 different cutting heights.

Our 10 great new Lawn-Boys for 1970 are at your dealer's now-gas-powered, electric, commercial and self-propelled.

See them.
And remember:
You get what you pay for.
So get Lawn-Boy.
Lawn-Boy Years from now you'll know it was worth it.

Parkinson Trophy — Rick Bassett, Heather Buchan, Brent McBride, Jo-Ann Dunkin.

Consolation — Phil Blake, Petra Waberski, Dale Dickson, Barbara Melvin.

Young legs on the wings rescued the chestnuts for Victoria O'Keefes Saturday as the men of coach Frank Grealy twice came from behind to nip Vancouver Firefighters 3-2 at Royal Athletic Park in a Province Cup soccer match.

Rookie wingers Bob Bolitho and Mark Robb handled all the Victoria scoring chores to bail O'Keefes out of trouble in the rather tame tussle between the two Pacific Coast Soccer League sides, who were clashing for the third time in four weeks.

With centre-half Peter Robarts unable to play because of work commitments and with Jim Menzies and Ray Telford slated only for emergency duty because of illness and injury, O'Keefes were unsettled and uncertain in the opening 20 minutes.

In those early stages, scoring shots by Louis Trischuk and Dan Rosengren twice sent Firefighters ahead by one goal before O'Keefes settled down to gradually take the initiative away from the Mainlanders.

SCORED ON HEADER

Bolitho squared the count at 1-1 after 12 minutes, heading the ball past goalie Mike Gilmour from a neat cross by Robb, and he made it 2-2 just before the intermission as he hustled to tap home the rebound from Peter Wilson's sizzling drive off the crossbar.

With Brian Robinson a stand-out at fullback and Bill Hamilton turning in an excellent effort at centre-half, the Victorians were often dangerous but couldn't get the winning tally until fortune turned their way on a strange play at 78 minutes.

TWISTED INTO NET

Hamilton took a free kick, had the ball punched back to him by Gilmour, and then quickly turned it toward Robb.

Apparently surprised by the move, the rookie winger attempted to lift a cross to the other side. Instead, Robb propelled a spinning lob that twisted over the heads of Vancouver defenders, who were stationed more than 15 feet from the goal-line, and bounced into the net.

In league play at Vancouver Saturday, goalie Peter Greco and his Columbus mates completed a remarkable campaign by blanking New Westminster Blues 5-0.

Sergio Zanatta and John Milner each scored twice in the final regular-season match for Columbus, which collected 12 victories and four draws to finish the schedule without a defeat.

12th SHUTOUT

For Greco, who allowed only four goals in those 16 games, it was his 12th shutout.

UBC Thunderbirds, with Gary Thompson scoring twice, whipped Eintracht 4-0 in Saturday's other game.

On Sunday at Vancouver, Jeff Hastings' first-half goal stood up to give North Shore a 1-0 victory over Paul's.

In other Province Cup action Sunday in Vancouver, Paul's Tailors downed Sons of Erin 2-1 while Logan's blanked St. Alice "A" 3-0 and Avalon beat Coquitlam "B" 4-1. Other matches on Saturday saw Shamrocks down Mount Pleasant 3-2, Martensen's bounce Sechelt 2-0 and Legion 118 defeat PMVA 1-0.

CLANSMEN NAIL DOWN NATIONAL HOOP TITLE

WINNIPEG — Simon Fraser University Clansmen from British Columbia captured the Canadian senior men's basketball championship here Saturday when they nipped Sarnia Drawbridge Knights in an 80-76 thriller.

Wayne Morgan paced the Clansmen on attack in the championship game of the four-team national tournament. Morgan fired 20 points as Bill Robinson of Chemainus added 16 and Brian McKenzie of Victoria contributed 12 points to the SFU total.

Peter Misiowetz earned individual honors in the final game as he collected 22 points for the Ontario team.

Sarnia's Barry Howson was named the tourney's most valuable player and was selected to a guard position on the all-star team along with Robinson. Completing the all-star squad were Morgan and Dave Mills of Winnipeg St. Andrews at the forward berths and centre Orville Fischer of Lethbridge Dougs.

Bloomers Best; Victoria Third

LETHBRIDGE — University of New Brunswick Red Bloomers are the new junior women's basketball champions of Canada.

They wrapped up the title here Saturday when they turned back Lethbridge Chinooks 64-57 in the championship game of the five-team national tournament.

Third place went to the First United girls from Victoria, who earned the third spot for the second successive year as they coasted to a 62-39 triumph over Brandon University in the consolation-round final.

Coach Mike Gallo's Victoria squad outscored Lethbridge 21-9 in the second half after fashioning a 41-30 lead in the opening session.

Pam Harknett (22 points) and Anne McKeachie (18) sparked the Victorians on attack. Trish Hadfield who contributed a 12-point effort to the triumph, was taken to hospital after twisting an ankle with about two minutes remaining, but was released after treatment.

MOST VALUABLE

Karen Lee of the Red Bloomers was voted the tourney's most-valuable player and was named to the first all-star team along with clubmate Joyce Douthwright, who collected 22 points in the final game. Both girls were members of the Canadian national team last year.

Miss McKeachie, Lynette Clarke of Toronto York and Lethbridge ace Minnie Van Dieran were also selected to the all-star team.

VICTORIA (62) — Anne McKeachie 18, Trish Hadfield 13, Pam Harknett 22, Judy Pearson, Lyneete Wren, Margo Morrison, Barb Hallberg, Heather Wood 2, Gerri Redding 1, Linda Grey 5.

Totems Grab Hold of Final Playoff Berth

(Times News Services)

Seattle Totems stepped two points ahead of Phoenix Roadrunners in the run for the Western Hockey League's fourth and final playoff spot by lacing Salt Lake City Golden Eagles 6-1 Saturday.

Bobby Schmautz scored three times as Totems extended Eagles' home-ice winless streak to eight games. Tom McVie added two goals for Seattle.

At Portland, Mel Pearson's two goals in the third period sparked Buckaroos to a 5-3 victory over Denver Spurs. Art Jones scored Portland's first goal and added two assists to increase his season's point total to 110 points, 12 short of the league record. Portland has 10 games left.

Sad Weekend For City Clubs

It was three strikes and three out for minor hockey teams from the Victoria area as title hopes went down the drain in a sad weekend of playoff action.

First, Victoria Cubs bowed 4-2 to Buccaneers in Nanaimo Sunday during the deciding game of the best-of-five series for the Vancouver Island Junior "B" League championship.

Goals by Murray Randall, Richard Kramp, Richard Dutka and Robin Grant beat out the victory for Bucs while George Walton and Tom Adkins replied for Cubs.

Nanaimo, which led by 1-0 and 2-1 period scores, now meets Chilliwack Jets for the Pacific Coast championship in a best-of-three series, starting March 20 in Chilliwack.

PENTICTON WINS

Second, Penticton blanked Esquimalt 5-0 Sunday to take the two-game, total-goal B.C. midget semi-final 11-1 in Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Peter Thompson recorded the shutout behind the scoring Rick Taggart (2) of Dan Ashman, Bruce Affleck and Tim Norman.

Penticton trimmed Esquimalt 6-1 in the opening game Saturday with Bob Nicholson and Norman scoring two goals each for visitors. Pat Kelliher and Ashman each notched one tally in the opening contest.

Steven Bendall scored the lone goal of the series for the outclassed and outweighed Esquimalt club.

Penticton outshot Esquimalt 28-16 on Sunday and 29-19 on Saturday.

And thirdly, Powell River dropped visiting Saanich Braves 5-2 on Sunday to capture the Vancouver Island peewee championship two-game, total-goal series, 7-5.

Saanich won the opening game Saturday, 3-2.

Dan Lucas paced the Powell River victory with three goals while Dan Bourassa, who notched both goals on Saturday, and Donald Simonetta added singles.

Ray Krueger scored one goal Sunday and two Saturday while Jeff O'Neill had one tally each day for Saanich.

Powell River now advances to the B.C. final scheduled for Memorial Arena on March 28 through 30.

On the local scene, Victoria edged Saanich 3-2 Sunday at Memorial Arena to win the first game of the best-of-three peewee pup city championship series.

Automatics Hold Four-Goal Lead In Puck Playoff

Victoria Automatic Transmission took a four-goal lead in the Stuffy McGinnis Hockey Leage semi-final series by blanking Ingraham Buckaroos 4-0 Saturday at Memorial Arena.

Dick Gibbons, Tom Allen, Jack Downing and Rick Hamilton scored for VATs as goalie Ted Kirby kicked aside 17 shots to record the shutout.

First game of the series ended in a 2-2 tie. It was originally scheduled to be a best-of-three series, but league officials tossed out the draw and decided to settle affairs by playing a two-game, total-goal series.

Date of the final game will depend on the progress of the B.C. Junior League playoff between Victoria Cougars and Vernon Essos.

Abbott's Goal Spree Keeps Gorge in Top Soccer Berth

Bill Abbott turned on the scoring heroics at Topaz Park Sunday and Gorge Molsons charged to a 5-3 triumph over cellar-dwelling Tally-Ho to retain their lead in the first division of the Victoria and District Soccer League.

Oak Bay stayed two points back in second spot by tripping Hourigans 2-1 at Central Park.

In the only Saturday match scheduled, Uvic Vikings battled to a 1-1 draw with Victoria West in Heywood Avenue Park.

Abbot pounded in four goals to lead Gorge while Dan Lawson supplied the other Gorge Tally. Dean Stokes, with two, and Garry Goy scored for Tally-Ho, which has only won three games and tied three in 22 starts.

Goals by George Pakos nd Palle Poulsen gave Bays their victory while Stuart Taylor counted or Hourigans.

Joe Milligan scored for Vikings and Glen Robinson answered for Wests.

BULLDOZERS DEADLOCK PUCK SERIES

COQUITLAM — Esquimalt Carson's Bulldozers and Coquitlam must play an extra game in what was originally to be a two-game, total-goal series for the B.C. women's ice hockey championships.

Seeking their fifth straight provincial title, Bulldozers downed Coquitlam 3-1 in the second game Sunday to knot the series 6-6. An extra period of overtime failed to solve the issue and officials then decided to hold a tie-breaking game at a later date.

Coquitlam downed Bulldozers 5-3 in the opening game in Victoria the previous weekend.

Bonnie Peck, Wendy Humphries and Jane Mowat scored for Esquimalt while Katie McGrath averted a shutout for Coquitlam.

Cliff Cracks Event Record In Title Race

SNOHOMISH, Wash. — John Cliff of Victoria overtook fast-starting Pat Weiser of Snohomish about the midway point Sunday in the Pacific Northwest 20-kilometre road-running championship race and went on to post a record-breaking victory.

Cliff completed the distance in 63 minutes, 56.4 seconds to trim almost three minutes off the former record set by Weiser, who finished in second place.

Two of Cliff's clubmates from the Victoria Distance Guild also turned in strong performances. Norm Patenuade was third in the main race and Derek Ellis chopped 56 seconds off the former record for the two-mile veterans' race as he won the event in 11:13.2.

Montreal Mail Delivery Drivers Call Ottawa Pay Offer 'Buy Off'

MONTREAL (CP) — Postmaster-General Eric Kierans denied during the weekend union charges that he is attempting to "buy off" mail delivery drivers with compensation payments totalling $350,000.

Mr. Kierans told a news conference the payments, announced Saturday, were "just an example of our recognition of our moral responsibilities."

Union officials rejected the offer of two weeks' wages for a driver's first year of service with either G. Lapalme Inc., which has the exclusive contract to truck mail in the Montreal area, or Rod Service Ltd., its predecessor, and one week's pay for each additional year of service.

Raymond Parent, secretary general of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, with which the drivers' union is affiliated, said the men "cannot be bought like cattle."

MAY LOSE JOBS

The 450 mail truck drivers have been carrying out a series of rotating strikes since Feb. 3. They are protesting the expected loss of their jobs when the Lapalme contract expires March 31 and five other companies take over the job.

The result has been a disruption of mail service in the Montreal area and a parcel post backlog which Montreal Postmaster Hector Cormier said Sunday may include parcels "as old as 10 days."

KIERANS
. . . denies charge

A national embargo on all parcel mail from or for delivery in Montreal was imposed Saturday night by Mr. Kierans. The embargo, which will enable postal officials here to clear the backlog in parcels, means that no post office in Canada will accept parcels for delivery in Montreal.

Mr. Kierans declines to discuss security arrangements for postal truck drivers still on the job.

"I don't want to mention security arrangements right now," he said. However, "if we have to send out trucks with armed guards, then we'll do it."

Violence connected with the dispute occurred again during the weekend.

WINDOWS, TIRES WRECKED

Windows of a downtown postal station were smashed Saturday, and 26 delivery trucks were found with windows broken and tires slashed.

Damage to the trucks totalled about $5,000, a post office spokesman said.

Police reported several arrests in connection with an incident in which an attempt was made to overturn a Lapalme delivery truck.

Saturday night, a Molotov cocktail was hurled through the window of Phillips Security Agency Ltd., which performs security work for the post office. Little damage was done.

However, Mr. Kierans remained optimistic that "first-class" mail service will be restored to Montreal.

"Let's say that I hope that there would be some improvement in the next few days. But that depends on the attitude of the union.

"I think the government has been most generous."

VANDALS damaged 26 mail delivery trucks in Montreal parking lot Saturday as the dispute between a mail trucking firm and its drivers continue. Windows at a post office were also broken. (CP Wirephoto.)

Brazil Presses Rebel Hunt After Japan Consul Freed

SAO PAULO (AP) — The Brazilian government pressed its hunt for the kidnappers of Japanese Consul-General Nobuo Okuchi with renewed vigor today as the 55-year-old diplomat rested at home from his four-day ordeal.

Meanwhile, the five political prisoners exchanged for him charged in Mexico that they had been tortured in Brazilian jails.

The police hunt had been suspended in compliance with a demand from the leftist terror organization which forced Okuchi from his car last Wednesday. The military-police team went back to work soon after a taxi deposited the consul half a block from his residence Sunday night, tired but unhurt.

As a crowd of about 500 cheered, police hustled Okuchi through the gates and to his waiting wife. Downtown at the consulate, Japanese officials broke into wide smiles, clapped each other on the back and brought out two bottles of Scotch.

SAYS THANK YOU

Later Okuchi appeared behind the Gates and said he is "profoundly grateful to the Brazilian government for the rapid and adequate measures which it took." The Japanese government handed the Brazilian charge d'affaires in Tokyo a note of thanks.

Okuchi was released 10 hours after the five exchanged prisoners arrived safely in Mexico City. They were a Roman Catholic nun accused of helping terrorists, a Japanese-Brazilian accused of belonging to a subversive group, a Brazilian arrested during a raid on a terrorist arms factory, a Brazilian accused of at least three murders including that of a U.S. Army captain in 1968, and the wife of an alleged terrorist killed last month in a gun battle with police.

"The police kicked me, the police hit me on the body," said the nun, Sister Maurine a Borges da Silveria, who was the mother superior of a convent in Sao Paulo state.

She said a number of priests were in prison, but she did not know how many or who they were.

Octavio Angelo, arrested last December in a raid on a clandestine arms factory, said: "I was tortured 20 times a month with electric shocks and hung by my feet for as much as six hours."

N. VIETS WIPED OUT SECRET RADAR BASE

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops annihilated a small U.S. force operating a secret radar installation hidden in a limestone cave atop a mountain in Laos, killing between 12 and 21 U.S. servicemen, The Washington Post reports.

The Americans died March 11, 1968, The Post says, defending the radar, reconnaissance and rescue base. The site contained high sophisticated electronic gear for directing bombing raids along the Ho Chi Minh trail and over North Vietnam, the report adds.

In a Vientiane-dateline dispatch by T. D. Allman, the story says the defeat suffered at the hands of the North Vietnamese was kept a secret.

The defence department made no comment on the report.

Highly sophisticated electronic gear was housed in a limestone cave and used to electronically release bombs and guide planes to targets over North Vietnam, the report added.

The Pathet Lao broadcast in March, 1968, that 21 Americans died on the mountain installation.

STORM BATTERS ROYAL YACHT

CHRISTCHURCH (Reuters) — The Queen and Prince Philip arrived here in drenching rain today after spending an uncomfortable night aboard the storm-battered royal yacht Britannia.

The Queen stepped ashore in the "most English city outside England"—as Christchurch bills itself in tourist brochures—after the Britannia punched its way through a Cook Strait storm in which three sailors on an escort frigate were swept overboard. One of the men was drowned.

The royal couple, in New Zealand on a South Pacific tour, were ferried ashore by royal barge when rough weather forced the Britannia to anchor in the harbor at Lyttelton, the Christchurch port, instead of berthing at a dock.

Cheering crowds greeted them as they landed to join Prince Charles and Princess Anne, who spent the weekend on a vast sheep ranch owned by Sir John Acland, chairman of the New Zealand wool board.

The crowds were unable to see any scars the royal yacht might have received on its trip down the east coast of New Zealand's South Island. It is known, however, that crockery and glassware were broken in the storm.

Caravan Will Tour

British Columbia — past, present and future — will be brought to life when the Centennial '71 Caravan tours the province next year.

Helping to mark the 100th anniversary of B.C.'s entry into Confederation, the three tractor-trailer units of the caravan will visit almost every populated area in the province accessible by highway or road.

Special tours of the caravan will be arranged for students during the school term.

LONDON AIRPORT HIT BY STRIKE

LONDON (CP) — London's huge Heathrow Airport was hit by partial paralysis today as thousands of workers left their jobs to hold a mass meeting in protest against Canadian-based General Aviation Services holding a concession at the terminal.

Scores of flights were cancelled or rerouted as the employees headed for nearby Brentford football field for the meeting.

About 10,000 workers were called to the meeting, though apparently not all responded. The gathering was called for 10 a.m. and could run for up to five hours.

Air Canada was not affected by the temporary walkout. It had scheduled only one incoming and one departure flight today. The arriving flight landed shortly after 8 a.m.—when the airport opened after its nightly shutdown because of a strike of 90 firemen—and headed back in slightly over an hour, well before the 10 a.m. walkout.

The workers idle today are those engaged in various forms of servicing planes.

General Air Services of Montreal has received a concession from the British Airports Authority to solicit this type of business from airlines but so far has been able to negotiate only one small contract because it has been blacklisted by workers fearing layoffs from its operations.

ON THE LIGHTER SIDE . . .

WIMBOURNE, England (UPI) — The cast for the children's pantomime was all assembled for the rehearsal—except for housewife Ruth Parker, cast as the back end of the horse.

The half-horse was at home—stuck in the kitchen sink.

Mrs. Parker had jammed her finger in the overflow hole of her sink while trying to clear a blockage. Firemen worked for an hour with soap and glycerine, then gave up and sawed the water pipe in pieces.

TOTTENHAM, England (UPI) — The four-letter words were nothing unusual for a football team's dressing room, and the only casualty was one player from the home team who was punched in the nose.

But representatives of both the Tottenham and visiting Luton teams have been called to a special disciplinary inquiry. Officials of the South East Ladies' Football League said they thought the players' conduct was unladylike.

★ ★ ★

SALMON, Idaho (AP) — Lots of athletic teams have live cougars, bears, ponies or falcons for mascots—but dig that mascot for the Salmon high school Savages. She's Roseann George, 15, a full-blooded Shoshoni-Bannock Indian. Miss George is a high school sophomore.

TAKAOKA, Japan (AP) — Kiyoyuko Oimatsu will be able to use at Expo '70 at Osaka a ticket he's had 30 years. Oimatsu's father bought it for him so he could go to the 1940 Tokyo World's Fair, which was cancelled because of the Second World War. Expo '70 officials said they would honor it.

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — The animal kingdom moved into San Mateo County Superior Court today to claim the $6 million scraps from the $57 million fortune left by a roaring '20s swinger who loved women, animals, scenery and money.

The animals were represented by nearly 60 protective societies claiming they are entitled to portions of the "residue" from the estate of the late "captain" George M. Whittell Jr., an eccentric millionaire who died last year at the age of 87.

The deceased millionaire, who loved beautiful women, animals, scenery, then money, in that order, bequeathed the bulk of his fortune to relatives and animals. He named most of the benefactors specifically, but he never knew exactly how much he was worth.

Therefore he added a clause to his will that the residue must go to "The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (local or national).

The parenthetical phrase becomes the crux of the action. No national SPCA exists.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Life down on the farm was never like the fun and games depicted in a mail order house catalogue mailed to the swinging set this week.

The book comes from 98-year-old, once-staid Montgomery Ward and Co.

The magazine-type catalogue—for "the younger generation and for those who think young"—is saucily sexy and sprinkled with nudity.

On one page, seven lithesome models pose seductively in bikini panties and nothing else except long, flowing tresses.

Vietnam Movies Have No Market

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why, an editor asks, aren't there any more movies about Vietnam?

A good question. There has been only one major film about the American involvement in Vietnam. That was The Green Berets, directed by and starring John Wayne. It was picketed by anti-war demonstrators and generally panned by the critics, yet managed to generate a healthy profit at the box office.

No other film company has embarked on another movie about the war. Yet in The Second World War, the screens were flooded with movies concerning every aspect of the conflict, from the home front Since You Went Away, Hollywood Canteen to the battlefield Guadalcanal Diary, The Story of GI Joe.

"Those pictures were mostly war posters to support the national effort," remarked an industry observer. "They helped in recruitment, in selling bonds, in keeping up the nation's morale. They found a ready audience, and it didn't matter whether they were good or not.

"It was different with the Korean War. The nation hadn't been attacked, and not every family was affected by the war, as in World War II. A few movies were made about the Korean War, but it's hard to dramatize a war in which national survival is not the issue."

That was even more true of Vietnam. Producers felt the war lacked dramatic values. Then, as opposition to the war mounted, film-makers were afraid to attack such a controversial issue. Except for John Wayne.

There are economic concerns as well.

"Where's the market?" asks a producer. "Most of the American movie audience today is under 25; and you can't sell them a flag-waving.

"You have to figure about 50 per cent of your take on any picture will be foreign. You make a picture about Vietnam and you can kiss off the foreign take. It wouldn't sell."

War films are expensive. A first-rate movie usually requires large numbers of troops, explosions, as well as far-off, lengthy locations.

During the Second World War and until recent times, the U.S. government has provided troops and equipment free or at bargain rates to films that were considered favorable to the fighting forces. But, prodded by protests from Congress, the defence department has become extremely rigid on co-operating with film-makers. Twentieth Century-Fox was recently handed a whopping bill for use of Pearl Harbor for Tora! Tora! Tora!

Ulster Shunned

BELFAST (CP) — Tourist revenue in Northern Ireland fell by 13 per cent in 1969 compared with the previous year, the government announced here. The sharp decline is attributed to the province's continued political and religious unrest.

OFFICIALS WERE STARTLED Friday when William Brown, 82, walked into Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children with an old bag. He pulled out $5,000 and gave it to the hospital to be used for "comforts of the little children."

Las Vegas Union Bid Strikes Casino Gold

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The gamblers and the tourists were straggling back to the Strip today after settlement of a four-day strike that closed most of the casinos along the famed four-mile stretch of U.S Highway 91.

The walkout by some 14,000 members of the Culinary Workers and Bartenders unions ended late Saturday when union leaders and spokesmen for 16 Strip establishments announced agreement on a new three-year contract.

The maids, bus boys, cooks and bartenders won a 31.5-per-cent increase in their wages and fringe benefits. The unions had asked for a 35-per-cent wage increase and additional fringe benefits. Management's last offer before the strike was 25 per cent with no additional fringe benefits.

DELAY OPERATIONS

The Strip resorts opened Sunday, but it will be still another day before operations are back to normal.

Jerry Lewis, Dinah Shore, Duke Ellington and other stars will go back to work tonight, but most of the showrooms will offer only drinks. Food service will begin Tuesday.

Several of the hotels began registering guests Sunday, but reported little business.

The gambling tables were operating again after their first-ever shutdown. Business was light Sunday with dealers outnumbering players at Caesars Palace and no sign of the high rollers on which the Strip thrives. The strike cost the Casinos an estimated $3,000,000 daily.

The wages of Culinary union members under the old contract ranged from $11.40 an eight-hour shift for a waitress to $33.95 a shift for a night chef. Union bartenders made $28 to $31 a shift.

CZECH STAGE DESIGNER FEARED RUSSIAN JAIL

HALIFAX (CP) — Neptune Theatre's stage designer is Anthony Dimitrov, who arrived in Canada in November, 1968, from Czechoslovakia. He escaped from that country in a small car with a bundle of graphics he said he was going to show in Vienna.

He had already spent five years in a concentration camp and feared at least loss of his freedom again during the Russian invasion of 1968. As well as stage designing, he has held an exhibition of paintings and graphics in the city.

LUV THE BIG FAVORITE IN ONTARIO FESTIVAL

ESPANOLA, Ont. (CP) — The Sault Theatre Workshop's production of Luv took five awards Saturday in the Northern Ontario drama finals.

Ron Chudley was named best director and the play was judged best English-language production, best presentation of a full-length play and the regional champion.

Richard Farrell won the trophy for best performance of an actor for his characterization of Max Berlin, and Arla Jean Sillers who played Ellen Manville won the best actress trophy.

The Northern Ontario drama festival is part of the Quonta division of the Dominion Drama Festival.

'Earth Day' to Promote Clean Land, Water and Air

By GEORGE C. WILSON
The Washington Post

On April 22, if everything goes according to plan, a strange parade will move down New York's Fifth Avenue. Horses, bicycles, steam and electric cars — almost anything that can move with little sound and smoke — will lead a procession to Union Square.

There, and along 14th Street, the parade will turn into a new kind of carnival.

Margaret Mead, the anthropologist, will talk about mismanaging our planet; folk singers will decry filthy rivers; professors will lecture on the perils of phosphates and pesticides; lawyers will give free advice on how to sue polluters.

A robot will breathe in cigarette smoke and sooty city air so people can watch his glass-bottle lungs turn black.

All this will be part of a much larger happening on Earth Day — April 22 — the formal launching date for the United States latest protest movement.

Its goal is to force man to look at what he is doing to himself and his planet; to challenge the concept that a galloping Gross National Product (GNP) always represents progress, and to lay the foundation for social, political and economic change.

The new movement — successor to the civil rights drive of the early 1960s and the war on poverty of the mid-1960s — is not expected to stop at the end of Earth Day.

Already, organizations to reclaim the environment have been formed at 3,000 high schools and 2,000 clolleges.

Call Themselves Ecology Freaks

The result is a bizzare alliance — conservationists, labor leaders, houswives, teachers, civic clubs, and students of all ages and political persuasions.

Some of the young people preparing for Earth Day call themselves "ecology freaks." Webster defines ecology as "the branch of biology dealing with the relations between living organisms and their environment."

Ecology promises to be a new focal point for both individual and group action aimed at bringing about reform to save the land, water and air.

The activities already under way or planned show the breadth of concern. Originally, the umbrella term or the federation of activists was "environmental teach-in." That name has been changed to "environmental action," symbolizing the activist nature of the movement. And the action is being taken all across the United States.

Rats In Ghetto; Poisonous Paint

- In Washington, D.C., college students and other conservation-minded citizens will march from LaFayette Park across from the White House to the General Motors executive offices to conduct a mock trial. They will "charge" the corporation with making most of the cars that pollute the air.
- In St. Louis, blacks from the west end of the city will stage guerrilla skits to dramatize the environmental problems — rats in the ghetto, poisonous lead paint on the walls, treeless streets.
- In Los Angeles, over 100 protesters will complete a month-long, 400-mile "survival march" from Berkeley to Sacramento to Los Angeles — hopefully recruiting others along the way as they speak about the rape of the land.
- In Chicago, there is a drive to buy stock in the city's power company to gain influence on the inside.
- The girls at Regina Catholic School in Hyattsville, Md., have picketed a nearby Coca Cola plant to protest the litter from non-returnable bottles and cans.
- The college committee in air pollution at San Jacinto Junior College near Houston have been showing up in force at meetings of the Texas Air Control Board. Dolores Zann, 19, said her group has raised the issue of conflict-of-interest charges against two members of the board—one is connected with big industry; the other is owner of an asphalt plant.
- Dr. Marshall Brewer, 28-year-old resident surgeon at the University of Albama medical school, believes his envoronment group already has managed to shake big steel and other industrial establishments in the Alabama Industrial Association (AIA).

Brewer's group, GASP (Greater-Birmingham Alliance to Stop Pollution) is asking environmental questions of all the Alabama political candidates and publishing the results. Brewer's group is trying to counter industrial polluters' money with grass roots political action.

Perhaps emboldened by the campaign mounted by Alabama College students, Dr. A. H. Russakoss, chairman of the Jefferson County Medical Society, recently implored the Alabama legislature to stand fast on air pollution standards and not approve pending bills to ease them. Russakoss, Brewer said, earlier this month was quietly replaced in his medical post after making the plea.

- Portland, Ore., high school students are trying to collect $10,000—asking dollar contributions from fellow students—to finance law suits against polluters in the area.
- Juniors and seniors at Schenectady, N.Y., high schools have been named environmental ambassadors with the job of going into grammar school classes to discuss the problems of pollution.
- Commuters boarding the train at Rowayton, Conn., are being handed leaflets by high school students about the need to contain the population explosion.
- Citizens for environmental protection in Charleston, W. Va., is pushing for strict enforcement of air pollution laws and telling people that jobs and pollution do not have to go together.

Student Posse To Collect Cans, Bottles

- Fort Hunt, Va., high school students will organize a posse to collect cans, bottles and other trash along a strip of the Potomac the weekend after Earth Day.
- Big unions — including the United Auto Workers (UAW) and the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (OCAWU) — will demand that industry accept stiffer environmental clauses in future contracts such as cleaner air where they work.

Union leaders report a surge of interest by their members — especially the younger ones — in cleaning up the air and water. A member of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union sent his union headquarters a copy of Shell Chemical Company instructions not to discharge visible insecticide wastes while a television crew was Mountain arsenal. Workers told the same union that they had found dead ducks on the plant grounds and burned them in the furnace.

According to union leaders, workers did not report alleged incidents until the environment issue made employees conscious about the consequences of pollution.

Fixed Smiles, Frantic Phones Mark Income Tax Crush

By JACK SCOTT

This was a quiet morning at the local branch of an office that rings up $32 million in cash receipts, give or take a million, each working day of the year.

The crush of "counter-callers" that brings 10,000 questioners in the flesh to the Department of National Revenue's Pandora Ave. tax offices was thinning out.

The clangor of 15,000 telephone calls was coming to an end.

The fixed smiles on the faces of clerks trained to deal with varying degrees of public incomprehension and bewilderment were beginning to look more natural.

Once again the annual inevitability of taxes was passing from sympathetic local human hands into the impersonal innards of the Ottawa computers.

While midnight of April 30 is the closing moment of the preceding calendar year's tax returns, the middle week of March is the peak period of personal contact with the public. This year, says director-of-taxation C. E. Wesson, has been no exception.

Something in excess of 10 per cent of the 147,693 income earners and 4,588 corporation heads on Vancouver Island who file through the Victoria office will have put a personal query to the clerks on duty before the deadline.

The figure is higher per capita than in any other Canadian city because of Victoria's unusual number of retired people living on investment incomes, thus more likely to need expert advice than those on salary.

The rush comes early, too, because for most filers it will mean many happy returns. Increasingly, it is no longer a case of how much must be paid, but how much will be coming back. Recently released figures for the 1968 filing season showed that 5,377,000 of the nation's more than eight million taxpayers received refunds.

Getting something back has, in fact, become a part of the taxation game.

"Surprisingly," says one expert, "many taxpayers deliberately understate their exemptions to their employers and incur over-deductions so as to create refunds."

Equally surprising, perhaps, is the fact that when taxpayers make a mistake in filing their returns they are more often liable to overstatement than under-statement. The 1968 figures show that 1,368,000 taxpayers got back $49,800,000 that they'd thought was owing.

Such errors, one way or the other, account for the increasing use of public relations methods to educate the public. In 20 years, the experts say, the taxation department's staff has dropped from a high of more than 11,000 to fewer than 8,000 and the cost of collecting $100 in revenue has been reduced from $2.05 to 84 cents.

Public meetings, open-line radio shows, newspaper articles and public displays organized by P. J. Kelly, public relations director for the department, could mean a further cutting of collection costs by ensuring that forms are properly filled out. A stepped-up program in island high schools this year is aimed at reaching the future taxpayer.

Even with such an educational program, said director Wesson, the Ottawa computers will reject more than 5 per cent of T1 "Short" returns and nearly 11 per cent of T1 "General" returns because of errors. The cost of returning these to regional offices may run to an average of $5 for each rejected form.

Injured Fireman Robert Brown Grimaces

Fire in Former School Prompts Official Probe

An official from the provincial fire marshal's office in Vancouver was expected to arrive today to help investigate a blaze Saturday afternoon that heavily damaged the former Holy Angels school at Quadra and North Park.

A spokesman for the Victoria fire department said this morning the cause of the fire that started in the basement had not been determined.

The fire, reported at about 1:35 p.m., took firemen about 45 minutes to bring under control and one firefighter was injured slightly when a section of the plaster ceiling he was pulling down struck him on the shoulder.

Robert Brown, 31, of 3948 Margot Place, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, treated and released from the emergency ward.

The former school is a large C-shaped structure that faces on Quadra and North Park. It was vacant except for A Bon Marche, a hairdressing firm, located in the east wing.

The building was originally opened as a school in 1940 by the Sisters of Our Lady of the Angels who ran it as a Chinese mission school until 1964.

The Sisters of St. Ann then took over the structure and changed the name to St. Andrew's School.

St. Andrew's School was transferred to the former St. Louis College building in 1968 and the Glad Tidings bought the vacated school in 1969.

ONE DEFORMED

A Lot of Whale To Go Oak Bay

When the little white whale, destined to become the companion of Sealand's star killer whale Haida, moves into her new quarters some of the members of her family will be along to keep her company.

Sealand president Bob Wright said today that although he's had several bids on the other four members of the white whale's pod at Pedder Bay, he doesn't intend to accept any of them right away.

"When we move the white whale to Sealand we want to have some of her family with her so that she'll be able to adapt more naturally."

Wright said that Sealand would be releasing at least one of the whales.

"After working all day Saturday we were able to get them into individual pens and examine them more closely.

TRICKY TASK

"One of them, a big bull, is deformed, probably through some tussle at sea when he was young. We'll be releasing him for a start."

Sealand trainer Graeme Ellis started the tricky task of trying to feed the whales herrings Sunday.

"One of the small black ones has started to take an interest in the food. But the albino is the most curious of the lot. She spends a lot of time on the surface watching what's going on."

Wright figures that by the middle of the week the whales will be ready to accept food from humans.

MARINA CLOSED

Until that time, all other people are being kept at a reasonable distance.

"We're keeping the marina closed. We don't want motors running or any noise that will disturb them."

A three-man team of French cameramen is standing by waiting to begin shooting a special television feature on the whales.

Wright estimates it will be 10 days before the whales are moved to Sealand in Oak Bay.

They were caught off Race Rocks March 1 by a 16-man crew from Sealand.

BLOOD BANK GOAL 425 PINTS

A total of 425 units of blood is the goal set for a three-day Red Cross blood donor clinic to be held today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The clinics will be held at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street, from 2:30 to 4:30 and 6:30 to 9:30 today and on Tuesday from 1:30 to 4:30 and 6:30 to 9.

Wednesday the clinic will move to the Ewing Building at the Institute of Adult Studies and will be held there from 9 to noon and 1 to 4.

Hospital Plans Hung Up On Horns of Gov't Dilemma

'How Could I?' Asks Campbell

By JIM HUME

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell has refused to release department funds to permit Victoria to build a road around St. Joseph's Hospital.

"How could I?" he said this morning. "I don't have jurisdiction over things of that kind."

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark has already told Victoria that Belleville Street cannot disect the proposed new hospital site. He has stated categorically that the road must circle the hospital to the north.

●

Campbell told a delegation from the city and the Regional Hospital District late last week that his department's budget contained no funds for highway building programs.

The road circling the existing hospital site has an estimated cost of $2 million.

If funds could be made available the ring-around road, with an overpass and underpass where Blanshard-Quadra-Collinson join would eliminate the need for Belleville Street to be extended through the grounds of St. Ann's Academy.

Loffmark insists that the road links designed to siphon traffic from the James Bay-Government-Douglas Street areas must circle the hospital.

The city has asked for provincial funds to help foot the bill if the minister's stated policy is forced on Victoria.

●

City officials base their appeal for provincial funds on the claim that the proposed acute care-extended care hospital is a regional facility and that therefore the entire area should share extra road costs. It would not be fair, they say, to place the entire $2 million burden on city taxpayers.

They also claim that, with the purchase price for the St. Ann's Academy site set at $1.5 million, the addition of $2 millions for roads would shoot the site acquisition cost to $3.5 million before a single bed is provided.

Loffmark has stated that he would seek some financial support for Victoria if the roads goes around the hospital site. But he has also hinted that he would not push too hard.

The city wants the government to pick up 60 per cent of the cost with the other 40 per cent shared throughout the region.

It was with this in mind that Mayor Courtney Haddock decided last Thursday to try an appeal directly to the minister of municipal affairs.

Accompanying him to the meeting were city manager Dennis Young, Mayors Hugh Curtis and Jim Cummings, (chairman and vice-chairman of the hospital district) and William Long, executive director of the district.

None of them were surprised at Campbell's firm refusal to release funds for road building purposes.

Asked this morning if he had given them any ideas where the cash could be raised, Campbell answered "no, not really."

●

With road funds unavailable and Loffmark adamant in refusing the let Belleville cross the proposed site, plans for a new St. Joseph's on the old site are close to a standstill.

City officials say there is no way the city can raise the road funds on a go-it-alone basis. A $2 million road project, they point out, amounts to 14 per cent of the city's operating capital and 25 per cent of its proposed five year capital project budget.

It has already been suggested privately that St. Joseph's Hospital plans be dropped from the multi-million dollar acute care bed referendum planned for later this year.

●

So far the thought has not been voiced publicly, but elected officials are concerned that the confusion and debate on the Belleville Street versus loop-road issue could spell defeat for the entire hospital program.

Later this week regional officials are scheduled to meet again with Loffmark for one last round of talks on the road hang-up.

Alderman, Visitor Robbed by Armed Men

An Oak Bay alderman and a visitor to the city from Manitoba were victims of separate armed holdups Saturday night.

Oak Bay and city police forces are still investigating both incidents.

HELD TO HEAD

Ald. Douglas Watts, 2285 Woodlawn Crescent, was walking in the vicinity of Hampshire Road and Hampshire Terrace about 9:25 p.m. Saturday when he was confronted by two youths who pushed him around and took his wallet, containing about $5, before fleeing on foot.

Watts, who was not injured, told police he believed the two were armed with pistols which they pointed at him during the robbery.

Oliver Leslie Pirie, of Strathclair, Manitoba, was walking from the curling rink back to his hotel on Yates Street about midnight Saturday when he was accosted by two youths, one armed with a knife, near the 800-block Fisgard.

Police said the knife was held to Pirie's head just behind his ear while he surrendered his wallet with about $47 inside.

The two told Pirie to lie face down on the ground while they fled the scene.

"All I can say at this point is that it's not the sort of thing one likes to hear going on in Oak Bay," Watts said this morning.

WALLET FOUND

His wallet was found on Roslyn Road a short time after the robbery.

The youths were described as about 19 or 20 years old with dark complexions, dark hair and wearing dark clothing.

Watts, a hydraulics engineer with the provincial government, has served on Oak Bay council since 1959.

Pirie told police his assailants were about 17 and 18 years of age, wearing dark clothes, and had shoulder-length hair.

Police, C-FAX to Meet For Radio Ban Talks

Members of the Victoria police commission will meet representatives of C-FAX Radio at 2 p.m. Wednesday to discuss Police Chief Jack Gregory's 30-day ban on giving police information to the station.

The meeting was arranged today by Mayor Courtney Haddock at the request of C-FAX owner-manager Clare Copeland.

Copeland said today it is "unfortunate" the meeting could not be held until Wednesday because it meant the embargo on the station's access to police news would continue at least until then.

The meeting could have been held earlier, he added, except one member of the police commission is out of town.

The meeting will include Haddock, who is chairman of the police commission Gregory, Copeland and two other members of the police commission, Gordon Carter and D. H. Lawson.

Gregory in a letter to Copeland last week charged the station with errors in a broadcast concerning an official of the attorney-general's department.

SMOKESCREEN

The chief informed the station its staff was barred from access to police records for news-gathering purposes for 30 days.

A transcript of the broadcast made public by C-FAX Saturday says:

"Police refused to confirm whether a warrant charging assault has been sworn out for the official's arrest."

The transcript further says facts of the case were established by C-FAX news "despite what appears to be smokescreen laid down by city police officials."

Spokesmen for news organizations continued to deplore Gregory's action today.

Don Hamilton, president of the B.C. Association of Broadcasters and general manager and vice-president of CKLG, Vancouver, said broadcasters all over the province share the "shock" of the ban on C-FAX reporters.

'AMAZING ACTION

In a taped statement, Hamilton spoke of the "amazing action taken by the police chief upon second-hand information without first-hand knowledge . . ."

He said Gregory had "ample opportunity" for recourse through the courts, and cited provisions of the Criminal Code, Broadcasting Act and Slander and Libel Act under which violations could be prosecuted.

City Man Drowned Near Port Renfrew

One man drowned and another managed to swim to safety Sunday when their rubber dinghy capsized near the mouth of the Gordon River near Port Renfrew.

Dead is Warrant Officer Gerald S. Jenns, 41, of 197 Egarton, a member of the Shore Patrol at CFB Esquimalt. He is survived by his wife and two children.

CUT TRIP SHORT

Jenns and a companion, Cpt. K. G. Senft, 28, of 2780 Grainger, were hiking along the West Coast life-saving trail near Port Renfrew on a planned four-day expedition when worsening weather conditions forced them to cut their trip short.

They left Campers Cove about 10 a.m. Sunday morning on the return trip to Port Renfrew. Reaching the mouth of the Gordon River near dusk, they decided to use a rubber dinghy they had been carrying to cross the mouth of the river to a beach on the other side.

They misjudged the current and the raft was swept out into the churning tidewater, where it overturned, spilling both men into the water.

Senft managed to swim ashore and after a short, futile search for Jenns, made his way to Port Renfrew, he said today.

Victoria High, Norfolk House Top Drama Competition

Plays by Victoria High School and Norfolk House were selected by adjudicator John Krich to advance in competition to the provincial high school drama festival after an honor performance of Greater Victoria winners Saturday night.

* * *

Plays performed at the honor round were Land of Jesters by St. Margaret's School; The Light by Glenlyon School, and The House of Bernarda Alba by Norfolk House.

Following the program a number of awards and commendations were made by adjudicators Krich and Gloria Peyton.

Norfolk House's play was directed by Barbara Meiklejohn, and Victoria High's The Devil His Due was directed by H. C. Farr.

In the elementary division individual awards were made to Beverlee Sealey, Elspeth Futcher, Vanessa Steel, Charles Dodds, Gus Lakoumentas and Leslie Peterson.

Commended were Kim Willoughby, Andree Dufleit, Vicki Card, Elaine Chamberlain, Cathy Goodmanson, all the boys in Glenlyon's Our Play, Drew Denniston, Floyd Bohnet and all the girls and boys in the crowd in Keating's Silly Citizens of Happy Valley; Brian Casey, Andy Aylesworth, and Russell English.

Junior Secondary awards, placed 1, 2, 3, were awarded in the following order: Murray Price, John Courtney and Steve Ivings, and Sandy Galbraith, Janet McMillan and Laurie Rutherford.

* * *

Honorable mentions went to the Chorus in Lansdowne's Two Sides of Darkness, Shelley Harrop in S. J. Willis's Broken Sentence and the cast of St. Ann's Women at the Tomb, which was a non-competitive entry.

Senior secondary awards were made in the same order, to Kent Mundy, Allan Hudson and Casey Van Dolen; and to Bernice McGowan, Valerie Chatterton and Jeanne French.

Victoria Times book awards were presented to Kent Mundy, Victoria Senior Secondary and Bernice McGowan, St. Ann's Academy.

The PTA award is a picture which is a floating trophy and goes to the school whose entry is judged to have demonstrated the fines teamwork.

It was won by Glenlyon for the elementary entry, Our Play.

No Superstition For Bad Luck Jayne

By PENNY SAVER

"Nothing ever happens on Friday the 13th," said Jayne, neglecting to notice that she had turned the stove to high instead of simmer.

"Nothing, that is, that wouldn't happen on any other day," she added as a cup bit the dust.

"In fact superstition is nothing but a vicious circle. The superstitious expect things to happen, therefore they notice what does ... help, the milk is boiling over!"

"I'm glad to see," said Mathilda sweetly, "that you aren't taken in by such foolishness."

Jayne, who had just managed to touch a finger to the still-hot element, glared at her.

"After all, if we were all superstitious, instead of accepting the day's happenings as par for the course, Penny and I would never get a cup of coffee."

It looked for a moment as if Jayne was going to lose her temper, but the look of serious admiration Mathilda managed to maintain was too much for her and she began to laugh instead.

"I've had enough bad luck today to last a week," she said at last. "Thank heavens there won't be another Friday the 13th until November."

"Three in a year!" cried Mathilda aghast. "Are you sure?"

"Except in leap year, February, March and November begin on the same day," replied Jayne pulling out a little brass ornament. "See."

Jayne's brass ornament is actually a 20-year calendar. It cost $1.98 and is valid from 1969 to 1988.

A circular dial behind the face moves and when the correct month lines up with the correct year the correct calendar arrangement appears below.

All the letters and numbers are incised and picked out with colors as is a purely decorative pattern. There are two shapes to choose from, round and rectangular, and the whole unit, which is less than five inches tall, stands on its own.

Grandfather Clocks

"The shop where I found these also sells hand-made grandfather clocks. There was one in the store and while I was there it struck the half-hour. The chime is beautifully melodious.

"I asked and learned that the workings come from Germany, but the cases are made locally.

"The one in the shop is mahogany with the weight and pendulum hanging open. The sides are slatted rather than solid and there is a storage cupboard below them. The dial has brass Roman numerals set right onto the wood. The effect is elegantly plain.

"And the clock doesn't have to be set every day either. It marks the hours and half-hours.

"Of course the cabinet can be made to fit the customer's specifications so there is no hard and fast price, but the one in the shop is $350."

If you would like to know where Jayne found these items, please call 382-3131 between 9 a.m. and 12 noon.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

SEW SIMPLE

By EUNICE FARMER

Dear Mrs. Farmer,

Thank goodness for you, the courage and encouragement you give to your readers. No wonder statistics say the number of women who make their clothes has grown by leaps and bounds. The manufacturers have completely forgotten the woman over 30 years of age.

I found out first hand when I tried to buy a long dress for my daughter's wedding. Anything that was really lovely had to be ordered in my size and came with a price tag of several hundred dollars.

My question is this, if I put the money into nice material and beaded trimming, will it be a total loss after the wedding since I don't need a long dress for our social life? — Mrs. M. J. G.

Dear Mrs. M.J.G.:

I would suggest a gown with very simple lines, preferably with long sleeves, and not too elaborate. When you use beautiful fabric, trimming in good taste, and make a gown without any gimmicks, you will find that in almost every case this same gown will look just as lovely when it is shortened to street length.

If you can't find a long gown you would like to make, just visualize the way any street length dress would look if it were lengthened. In this way you will have many more choices than you ever dreamed of.

LOAF O'LEPRECHAUN FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY

DEAR ABBY . . .

Dogged Man

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 78, and my wife is 73. We've been married 56 years. I am now retired. My problem is widows who live on both ends of my street. On my way to the store I have to pass by the house of one widow who is 75 years old. She has tried to get me into her house by asking me to come in and fix her leaking radiator.

I was able to forestall her plans by walking around the block to get to the store. But recently the widow at the other end of the block (she is 69 years old) asked me to come in and have coffee and freshly baked coffee cake, but I am wise to such tactics, so I always make up some excuse like I am in a hurry.

To avoid such situations I now climb the back fence and take a shortcut to the store. Another problem arose. The neighbor's dog tore the seat out of my pants for trespassing onto his yard.

My wife accuses me of getting senile for climbing the back fence and I can't tell her why I do it because she is a very jealous woman. So what do I do?—Trapped in Bridgeport.

DEAR TRAPPED: Keep climbing that fence. It's the lesser of the evils. Better to be accused of "senility" than infidelity.

DEAR ABBY: I have written a lot of songs which my friends tell me are better than some of the big hits we have today. Mine aren't of the new far-out variety the kids go for. I write the old-fashioned love songs with words that rhyme and everybody can understand. And my tunes are easy to sing and easy to remember. Anyway, I must have about 300 songs in all.

I have never tried to get any of my songs published, and that's why I am writing to you, Abby. Could you please send me the names and addresses of some famous song writers? I would like to send them my songs and possibly they could help me get them published. Of course I would be willing to share the profits with anyone who could help me if I became a success. Thank you.—Song Writer.

DEAR SONG WRITER: The last person to whom I would advise you send unpublished songs would be a "famous song writer." His lawyers have undoubtedly instructed him to return all such material unopened in order to protect himself. Furthermore, no one is obligated to return unsolicited material, in which case you might never see your songs again. Your best bet (and cheapest investment) is the most reputable publishing agent you can find.

DEAR ABBY: The woman who asked your opinion on "wife swapping," then signed herself Loves Him, will soon be hating him, and herself, if she goes along with his crummy idea.

I went along with it for 10 months, and never have I met such a collection of dull, insipid creeps in my life! They were all little boys trying to show each other what big men they were. Most of the wives weren't attractive enough to get a second glance from another man, so they allowed their equally insecure husbands to trade them like toys.

But, guess what, Abby? When we swapped, I just sat and listened to these sad little boys pour their hearts out, after informing them that I was not a swinger. None of them was angry. They seemed to feel that sex was available everywhere, but good, intelligent, interested listeners were few.

I don't feel degraded. Just terribly disgusted with myself for not being able to judge my second husband better.

We're divorced now. I finally decided that I'd rather scrub floors than live with a swinger. They're sick.—Learns Slowly.

Confidential to Lonely in Phoenix: You take the initiative. Eleven months is a long, long time.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

Court Hears Ear-y Tale

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The Nevada supreme court was asked recently to rule whether malice and disfigurement were involved in a case where one woman bit the ear off another during a fight.

Shirley Meeker Cree of Searchlight was charged with mayhem after she chewed off the ear of Mary Ann McInnis March 9, 1969, during a disagreement over treatment of animals.

A district court in Las Vegas issued a writ of habeas corpus freeing Mrs. Cree on grounds there was no showing of malice or permanent disfigurement. But the Clark County district attorney's office asked the supreme court to reinstate the charge so the matter can go to trial.

Mrs. Cree's attorney, George Johnson, argued the women were fighting and there was no intent or malice on his client's part to sever the ear.

He also argued there was no showing of permanent disfigurement, because the Las Vegas court rejected his efforts to have bandages removed from the ear during the preliminary hearing.

Donald Wadsworth, a Clark County deputy district attorney, said the act of biting off a person's ear infers malice—and there was disfigurement since the victim had to take the piece of ear back to a hospital for treatment. He said the disfigurement issue should be left for a jury to decide.

Chief Justice Jon Collins observed during the oral arguments before the supreme court:

"It is pretty revolting when one person in the course of a fight bites off another person's ear and then spits it out."

Irish Meat Loaf 'Buried Treasure'

Legend has it that Ireland's mischievous little leprechauns will reveal buried treasure if they are caught by wily humans.

If you are one of those who believe in Irish folklore, why not reveal this "buried treasure" to your family tomorrow?

Loaf O'Leprechaun is a fitting meal for St. Patrick's Day.

A combination of ground beef chuck, chopped onions and ketchup, the loaf is nestled beneath fluffy mashed potatoes, then sprinkled with paprika and baked. Garnished with a green pepper shamrock, it will have the green, white and orange of the Irish flag.

To complete the menu, serve a tossed salad and your favorite lime dessert.

LOAF O'LEPRECHAUN

1½ lbs. ground beef chuck
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
⅓ cup chopped fresh onion
⅓ cup ketchup
1½ tsps. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
2½ cups mashed potatoes
Melted butter or margarine
Paprika

Heat oven to 350 deg. F. Combine first seven ingredients lightly but well. Shape into loaf in shallow baking pan.

Spread mashed potatoes evenly on top and sides of meat loaf. Brush top of potatoes with melted butter; sprinkle with paprika.

Bake 1 hour 10 minutes. Remove from oven; allow to stand 10 minutes before slicing. Makes 6-8 servings.

TODAY'S RECIPE

LEMON HERB TOPPING

½ cup soft margarine
2½ tsp. dill
2 tsp. sweet basil, crushed
1 tsp. salt
2 tsp. celery seed
⅛ tsp. pepper
2 tbsp. freshly squeezed lemon juice

Place margarine and seasonings in small bowl. Add lemon juice in 2 or 3 additions, stirring to blend thoroughly. Refrigerate overnight in covered container to allow flavors to blend. Excellent served on cooked carrots, broiled tomatoes and other vegetables (Makes about ½ cup; 35 calories per teaspoon).

Abortion Laws Mean Changes For Hospitals

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hospitals throughout Hawaii are working out guidelines for applying the state's new law allowing unrestricted abortions.

Only one hospital, St. Francis, which is run by the Roman Catholic Church, will not perform abortions.

"No, not now, or ever. Amen," said Sister Maureen, the hospital's administrator.

The Hawaii Catholic Herald, official newspaper for the diocese of Honolulu, criticized Gov. John A. Burns for permitting the bill to become law.

In a front-page open letter to Burns, a Roman Catholic, the newspaper criticized the governor for following "expediency instead of principle" and said a large number of Hawaiians were "gravely sad and disappointed."

OUT-PATIENT BASIS

Burns allowed the bill to become law without his signature.

Four hospitals indicated they would perform abortions on an out-patient basis—a woman will go in for surgery early in the morning and leave that afternoon.

The hospitals said they would permit abortions up to and including the 12th week of pregnancy without consultations.

From the 13th week through the 20th, consultations with another gynecologist will be necessary in order to determine the best method of terminating the pregnancy.

COMMITTEE APPROVAL

Abortions after the 20th week, the hospitals said, as well as surgery on certain high-risk patients, will require approval of the hospital's executive committee.

Other guidelines that have been proposed so far:

Abortions will be performed by surgeons with hospital privileges in obstetrics and gynecology.

Hospitals will require the patient to sign an affidavit stating she has resided in Hawaii for 90 days before the operation as required by the new law.

Hospitals will require consent of a woman's parents or husband if she is under 20, although some administrators felt such age restriction was legally complicated and might not insist on it.

Quints' Parents Hire Business Manager

NEW YORK (UPI) — The parents of the 2½-week-old Kienast quintuplets said they have hired a business manager to handle a mounting tide of commercial offers and requests for guest appearances.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kienast of Liberty Corners, N.J., whose three girls and two boys are still receiving special care at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Centre, said Complan Inc. will act as their business adviser.

Fergus Daley of Complan said the firm is working on "deals with the major pictorial magazines" for exclusive coverage of the quints, and arrangements for a possible "television special or an exclusive on film rights." He said no firm committments have been made.

"(The Kienasts) have been asked to appear on all the big television talk shows, but they've turned them down until the babies are home and okay," Daley said.

A hospital spokesman said the quintuplets are "just thriving."

"They're all gaining normally," the spokesman said. "We expect them, however, to be at the hospital for at least another month."

SWING INTO SPRING FASHIONS

Four-year-old Janice Heppell knows what every swinging young chick should know—the early bird gets the fashion first. Her brother, Robin, 2, would probably agree but he looks more concerned about when his turn might come on the backyard swing. Their mother, Mrs. Thomas Heppell, and members of the Cadboro Bay United Church Women will be showing the latest in Stretch and Sew fashions 10 a.m. Tuesday at a Shamrock Coffee Party, Arbutus Road Church Hall. Sewing students will model their stretch and sew outfits. A home-baking booth will also be featured. (Photo by Robin Clarke.)

Canadian Specialist Solves Problem for Space Program

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

Mrs. Phyllis Larson has big brown eyes, a soft voice and a soft look about her. She could be a middle-class houswife, and she does have an executive husband and four children.

But any resemblance to the average housewife ends right there.

Phyllis Larson is an elastic modulation specialist with engineering background from the University of Toronto and experience in such varied fields as invention, drafting, industrial design, foundation and hosiery design and management consultation.

In 1966 the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration was looking for the solution to a special problem. Mrs. Larson described it in a recent conversation:

"On the Apollo missions, the men were going to have to live in their space suits for five days, as the first space ships had no room for taking them off. What could be worn beneath the suits? It would have to be something that would keep dry, fit very well, and be so soft that no irritation would develop.

"When they contacted fabrics suppliers, they asked them who might design such inner garments and the suppliers were kind enough to mention me."

Phyllis Larson's modesty is such that she admitted panicking at the astronaut assignment, even though she had already been working on special garments for airmen flying the Phantom Jets. But she realized that perhaps there was no one else with quite her combination of engineering and fabric experience.

"I tried a lot of things, but what finally came up was a fabric which was just about off the market. Glen Raven had developed a polyurethane fibre which had been made up into fabric, but it hadn't taken in the retail market. It had certain problems, such as a low melting point, so that commercial dryers couldn't handle it. But it had all the other properties I was looking for."

Mrs. Larson had NASA buy back the original full run from the manufacturer, as this was all there was of the fabric. She then had to find a manufacturer who could make more fabric for her.

"It took me three years, but I finally came across some wonderful people, the Walter W. Moyer Company. They are a specialty firm which had pioneered in fine rayons, and they agreed to handle the new fabric. The firm is in the Pennsylvania Dutch area and many of the workers are Moravians or Mennonites. They're marvellous people, without whose interest we could never have developed this fabric into a practical state."

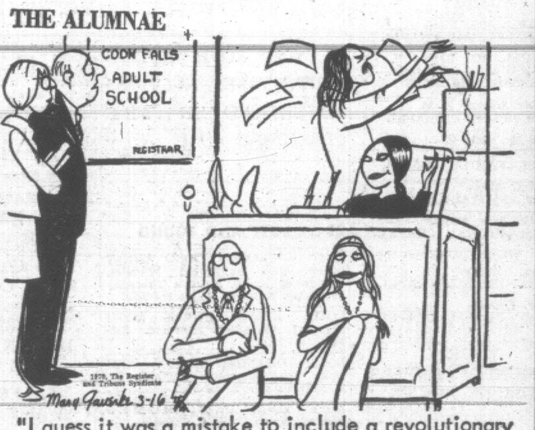
THE ALUMNAE



"I guess it was a mistake to include a revolutionary workshop in the adult school curriculum."

FASHIONS FOR PEACE

Century-Old Prince's Coat Part of Valuable Collection

HONOLULU (UPI) — Some choose to march to protest for peace, but Mrs. Lola Stone does it through fashion.

Mrs. Stone is the founder of Fashions for Peace and Fashions Pacifica, non-profit organizations dedicated to promoting international understanding through the presentation of ethnic costumes from all over the world.

The attractive blonde mother of two started Fashions for Peace in New York City in 1965 with "just a handful of outfits and a lot of determination."

When she stepped down as director last year, Fashions for Peace had three collections of costumes, each with about 30 outfits, some "priceless and irreplaceable."

Mrs. Stone's collections have highlighted the 1965 World's Fair in New York, the 1965 Pageant of Peace in Washington, D.C., and Expo '67 in Montreal.

"The whole thing was an outgrowth of my international interests," she said. "I hope that these exhibits of dress from different countries generate international enthusiasm and understanding.

"The clothes reach out to the heart."

While remaining on the board of directors of Fashions for Peace since her move to Honolulu last year with her author husband, Robert Stone, Mrs. Stone launched Fashions Pacifica, a Pacific-oriented version of Fashions for Peace.

The collection already includes more than 30 outfits from Hong Kong, Korea, Japan, the Philippines, Iran, Cambodia and South American countries.

Among the outfits are a Thai silk ensemble from the Thai government, a Cambodian gown in hand-woven silk and a traditional high-waisted Korean costume. Mrs. Stone also has a 100-year-old Indian Prince's coat, called a "Rajput."

She is also expecting a classic dress from Sakkim, donated by Queen Hopla, the former New York debutante Hope Cooke.

Mrs. Stone incorporates historical and cultural information in her fashion commentaries, much of which she learned while working as an assistant to the oriental curator at the American Museum of Natural History.

"Everything in a fabric has meaning," she explained while exhibiting an ancient Chinese bridal costume.

"Most people don't know the bridal costume was made by the bridegroom's family for the bride," she noted.

"Fashions for Peace began with clothes on loan from consulates, embassies and tourist boards," Mrs. Stone said, "but then the clothes were donated from foreign diplomats and officials who heard about the organization."

As a result of the original collection's successful appearances at world fairs and various benefits, Fashions for Peace Clubs are being organized across the country.

"It's a chance for women to do on a smaller scale the same things as Fashions for Peace and Fashions Pacifica, further international friendship and understanding."

Sweden Safest

GENEVA (UPI) — Sweden is the safest place to have a baby, the World Health Organization (WHO) said today in a report covering the years 1951-1966.

Reporting on maternal mortality, the term for deaths caused by pregnancy and childbirth, WHO said Sweden reported 11.3 deaths per 100,000 live births and Chile had the worst record with 271.9 deaths per 100,000 babies born.

The United States ranked 10th among 36 countries listed with 29.1 deaths.

Tonight's Top Television Shows

MOVIE TO WATCH this evening is at midnight on Channel 6. Dirk Bogarde stars in a 1955 English drama, Simba. Bogarde, as a white farmer in Kenya, becomes the victim of a series of attacks by the native terrorist organization, the Mau Mau.

NICE'N'EASY 8, Channels 2 and 6. A music special produced in Vancouver, this 30-minute show features singers Marty Gillan, Lynn Brooks, Gillian Russell and Michal Vincent. The Doug Parker orchestra backs them up on such numbers as Let It Be Me, That's All and Put a Little Love in Your Heart.

MY WORLD AND WELCOME TO IT. 7:30, Channel 5, "The Disenchanted." (Repeat). Very cute episode. TV family comedy shows have been using the child-running-away-from-home plot since the tube was invented, but it has never before been handled in better taste or, for that matter, with more genuine humor than it is here. Willaim Windom is excellent as our absent-minded creator of batty cartoons, John Monroe, whose reacion to his little daughter's (Lisa Gerritsen) running-away escapade is an offbeat gem.

LAUGH-IN 8, Channel 5. We're down to the last few minutes in the main event—the wedding between Gladys and the little old man. Carol Channing helps Gladys dress while Rowan and Martin rent a fancy tux for the bridegroom. Parson Henry Gibson ties the knot, Miss Channing and Tiny Tim sing "Wanting You," and the cast fills the church for TV's big spring society event. Miss Channing also manages a dance bit with Teresa Graves, and she turns up in the weekly Farkel sketch as a housekeeper.

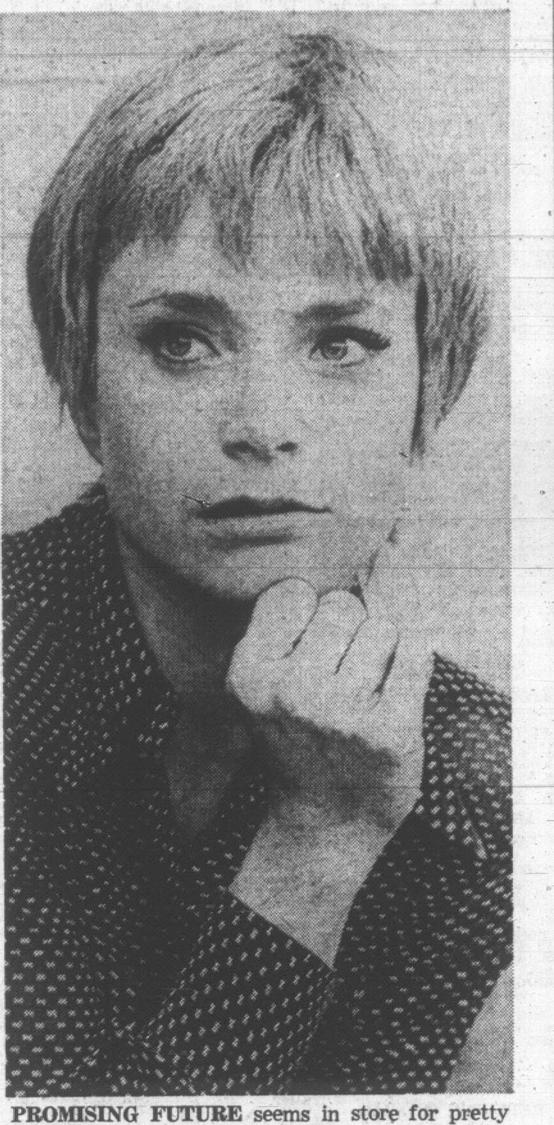
MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE. 8:30, Channel 4. "Alvarez Kelly." (1966). (Repeat). Two-fisted acting by Richard Widmark and William Holden, and the vivid setting of the Civil War, make this western yarn a must for devotees of the genre. All the basic ingredients of heroic horse operas are here, plus a well-staged stampede at the climax which puts the cap on all the excitement that comes before. Southern guerrilla officer Widmark decides to rustle some 2500 head of cattle for his side, and meets up with adventurer Alvarez (William Holden). The two are at each others' throats for the rest of the film and there's plenty of action to top things off.

MAYBERRY R.F.D. 9, Channel 7. Mayberry men are grousing tonight in a lodge brothers episode. The members have a new health fund and the first to use it is Howard Sprague for a nose operation. His recuperation takes time, causing "malingering" complaints from Goober and Emmett. The war between Goober and Sprague continues and helps to enliven the series.

CAROL BURNETT. 8:30, Channel 8; 10, Channels 7, 12. No big stars, but singer Nancy Wilson is back for the fourth time this season, plus brassy Ronnie Schell from the Jim Nabors Show. Miss Wilson and Carol have a workout in a revival number, singing "Follow the Lamb," and Nancy solos to "Waiting for Charlie to Come Home." Ronnie Schell never stops with his jokes as a nightclub comic boring wife Carol; as the Fireside Girl, Carol and sister Vicki Lawrence badger Harvey Korman suffering from a hangover; and Carol returns for a slapstock husband-wife routine, becoming locked in a ball and chain, an item she couldn't resist at a local rummage sale.

NAME OF THE GAME. 9, Channels 2 and 6. Echo of a Nightmare. A 25-year-old kidnapping case is blown wide open when the convicted kidnapper is killed soon after his release from prison. The mystery deepens and the plot chickens when Farrell encounters a police chief who was at the murder scene, the kidnap victim's millionaire father and his partner — who tries to buy Farrell off.

SPECIAL. 10, Channel 8. North With The Spring is the first of four films on the unfolding of the seasons in North America. The series is based on the books of Pulitzer Prize winner Edwin Way Teale.



PROMISING FUTURE seems in store for pretty Lane Bradbury (above), who has been seen once or twice a season in Gunsmoke. Her performance in a recent made-for-television movie, Dial Hot Line, makes her a key candidate for bigger and better things.

TONIGHT'S MOVIES

5:30: Channel 12: Ride the High Wind (1966 adventure), Darren McGavin, Maria Perschy.

8:30: Channel 4: Alvarez Kelly (1966 Adventure), William Holden, Richard Widmark, Janice Rule.

Channel 13: Japanese War Bride (1952 drama), Shirley Yamaguchi, Don Taylor.

9:00: Channel 5: Savage Pampas (1966 adventure), Robert Taylor, Ron Randell.

11:30: Channel 7: Best of the Badmen (1951 western), Robert Ryan, Claire Trevor, Robert Preston.

11:40: Channel 2: Revenge of the Creature (1955 science fiction), John Agar, Lori Nelson.

12:00: Channel 6: Simba (1955 English drama), Dirk Bogarde, Donald Sinden.

1:05: Channel 5: The Fury of Hercules (1961 Italian-French adventure), Brad Harris, Brigette Corey.

1:30: Channel 13: The Brain (1955 science fiction), Peter Van Eyck, Anne Heywood.

70s AT '69 PRICES!
Here are a couple of GMC Handi-Vans that must go. Both are long wheelbase models, with heavy-duty axles, springs and brakes. One is a 250 six, the other a 307 eight. The six has windows all around, the eight has them in rear and side doors, and both have three-speed automatics and six-ply truck tires.
We are prepared to make an attractive deal on these; why not come in and talk about it?

SECLUDED
COUNTRY ESTATE
This advertisement could well be the turning point in your life. It opens the door to so many possibilities! As a private estate it offers preview of heaven. Should you, however have more mundane ambitions, the nearly four acres of motel zoned land presents an interesting opportunity for development. Nestled among trees and shrubs and overlooking the distant woodland this 1500 sq. ft. residence is a dream to behold. The rooms are all of generous size and are in beautiful condition throughout. The living room features large picture window and glass-enclosed heatilator fireplace, full dining room, Large cabinet electric kitchen with eating area. Three large bedrooms. Full basement with den and 2-pc. plumbing. IN-LAW SUITE WITH 3-PC. BATH. Thousands of dollars worth of wood-working equipment including 14" Beaver band saw, Walter Turner bench saw, shop Smith unit, drill press, electric jig saw and a large assortment of small tools. Also included in sale price is full line of garden equipment — garden tractor with plow, cultivator and mowing attachments and a very complete line of smaller miscellaneous tools. The land offers a happy combination of pasture, rockery, fruit trees and garden. Need I say more? This little bit of the unspoiled country is NEAR THE CITY — only eight miles out. Better follow that impulse and ACT NOW. Tomorrow may be too late. You will be agreeably surprised to find that all of the above can be yours for only $55,000. The man to call is Don Bacon, 385-2458.

"Complete Real Estate Service Across Canada"

The Provincial Government has enacted, and is enacting, legislation which can be of material assistance in the purchase of homes where lack of ready cash for a down payment is a problem. Briefly stated, for new homes either a $5,000 second mortgage or a cash advance of $1,000 is available. Under new legislation renters of living accommodation would be able to receive half of these sums for the purchase of older homes. Entitlement to this assistance is affected by length of residence in B.C., home owner grants claimed in past years, etc.
Ask one of our salesmen, or call at our offive, for information as to how this program can help you.
Of course, if you need first mortgage funds, call on Montreal Trust — one of Canada's leading sources of residential financing.

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth has withdrawn the title Royal from the Royal Rhodesian Air Force and the Royal Rhodesian Regiment, the official London Gazette has reported. It says they can have the titles back if Rhodesia resumes allegiance to the Crown. The white-ruled African colony broke away from Britain at midnight March 1 and proclaimed itself a republic.

Adult Centre Opens In Church

An adult drop-in centre will open at St. John's Anglican Church, Quadra and Mason, Monday at 11 a.m.

To be held in the lounge and garden of the old rectory, adjacent to the church, the centre will receive visitors from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

"The garden will be used as the weather warms up," says Canon Grahame Baker, recotor of St. John's.

"You might call our centre a strike against loneliness. With the Silver Threads Centre becoming so crowded, many older people would like to come here.

"We have the facilities; it's warm and comfortable and they might like to meet friends here, have a chat or read.

"They can bring their lunch if they like"

Hostesses will include Mrs. Grahame Baker, Mrs. Robert Kendric and Mrs. R. Gray.

Heavy Fog In Calgary

Temperatures climbed close to the 50 mark Sunday in Calgary but cooler air is now on the way.

One person was killed and seven injured Sunday night when two cars collided head-on during heavy fog four miles east of the city. Visibility was about 75 yards at the time of the accident.

The thermometer dipped several points in Saskatchewan and Manitoba but there has since been some warming. Skies are generally sunny.

Bees Probed During Uvic Course

Somebody once called the bee "nature's confectioner."

But bees do much more than just make honey.

The department of agriculture along with the Vancouver Island Division of the B.C. Honey Producers' Association is presenting a short course on beekeeping next week at the University of Victoria.

Open to the public, the course will take place March 17 to 21 in the Elliot Building at Uvic.

Guest speakers will discuss practically all aspects of the bee, including honeymaking, anatomy, bee diseases, reproduction and honey marketing.

Vancouver Counts 1 Million

VANCOUVER (UPI) — The population of Vancouver, Canada's third largest city, has topped one million, according to a report from the Greater Vancouver Regional District planning department.

The study said the million mark was reached early in November, 1969.

The report predicted Greater Vancouver's population would double over the next 30 years.

Symphony At Its Peak

By AUDREY JOHNSON

This 1969-70 season of Victoria Symphony Orchestra, which has certainly carried it to a new height, both artistically and in public esteem, concludes on a crescendo crest with the current concert pair.

There is, foremost, the unparalleled delight, the perfect artistry of Jean Pierre Rampel and his golden flute.

But there was, on Sunday, also the orchestra performing at the peak of its much enhanced capacity.

First the small string ensemble with Winifred Scott at the harpsichord, providing a lovely baroque tapestry of sound for the rich embroidery of Rampal's fluting in the Bach Suite No. 2 in B minor.

Then the larger string section with the soloist, lilting and effervescent in Moxart's D Major Concerto.

The whole string body was featured again satisfactorily in the Mahler Adagietto, and then came a performance of the Raval orchestration of Moussorgsky's ictures at an Exhibition that brought the near-capacity audience to its feet in tribute to Laszlo Gati and his musicians.

VIVID TONE PICTURES

This series of vivid tone pictures, first written for piano and transcribed by Ravel search out the textural and infinite color resources of the orchestra with striking effect.

After an impressive opening with trumpets and a number of exceptionally well played passages by all sections, the culminating impredsion of The Great Gate at Kiev, provided a pulse-quickening climax.

There was no doubt that the afternoon belonged in a sense, to the orchestra and to the maestro, as they wrote their signature to the season.

But no solo artist could have provided a more brilliant and memorable decoration to the closing event than the great French flautist.

From an instrument notoriously limited in its dynamic scope, Rampal draws forth fantastic nuances that range from the most pastel delicacy to a gleaming brilliance that glows vividly against the string texture.

He is of course a virtuoso par excellence. His trills, cadenza passages and leaping intervals are marvels of coordination and agility.

But even more than this, even more than the lovely quality of his tone, the effect of absolute artistry, the exquisite shaping of every phrase and the emotional warmth with which he imbues them, would make this concert and this particular soloist most memorable.

The concert is repeated tonight at 8:30 at the Royal Theatre.

City Chamber Wins Award

PARKSVILLE— Victoria's Chamber of Commerce has been awarded the first annual challenge tray of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

The tray, put up for competition by out-going ACCVI president Joe Griner, is awarded to the chamber showing the most progress each year.

Clare Copeland accepted the tray, which was presented by B.C. chamber president E. G. Stroyan of Nanaimo, a former ACCVI president.

TREASON TRIAL FOR OJUKWU

LAGOS (AP) — Odumegwu Ojukwu will be tried for high treason for leading Eastern Nigeria into secession if he returns to the country, a federal Nigerian leader said Saturday.

Brig. Hassan Katsina, chief of staff of the army, told reporters:

"If Ojukwu comes back home, he will go to Kiri Kiri (prison near Lagos). We have a place for him there. He will be charged with high treason for his rebellion."

Supervisor of Mint Jailed Three Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Raymond Weldon Davidson, 36, former production supervisor in the coins section of the mint, was sentenced Monday to three years in Kingston penitentiary following his conviction on a charge of bribing a fellow employee.

Davidson was found guilty by a jury March 4 of having bribed Mrs. Darlene Ruddick during 1967 to expedite shipments of gold centennial coin sets to Ottawa coin dealer Rudolph Hoffman.

The mint had imposed limit of five of the coin sets to any one individual. Evidence was that the sets cost $40 each but were going for $80 in the coins market.

Mrs. Ruddick, fined $5,000 after pleading guilty last year to her part in the operation, had testified she and Davidson split $200 for each 200 set shipment.

Hoffman was originally charged with the two mint employees but the charge was dismissed a year ago at a preliminary hearing for lack of evidence.

Hoffman testified he had purchased about $652,000 worth of the sets during 1967 but denied that anything more than "friendship" had been involved in his access to the sets. Other clients waited for up to eight months for orders to be filled.

Baha'i Faith Shows Art At Uvic SUB

A display of art by young members of the Baha'i Faith will be held in the lounge of the Student Union Building, University of Victoria, at 7:30 p.m., March 30; at 12:30 and 7:30 p.m., March 31, and at 12:30 p.m. April 1.

The Baha'is are followers of Baha'u'llah, an exiled Persian nobleman who declared in April, 1863, that he was the bearer of a new revelation from God to the age. They claim he is the most recent in a line of inspired teachers, including Buddha, Moses, Muhammad, Krishna and Jesus Christ.

Gestalt Founder Dies in Chicago

Dr. Frederick Perls, author, psychiatrist and the founder of Gestalt Therapy and the international Gestalt Institute died at the weekend in Chicago. He was 76.

Fritz Perls. had established his newest branch, called the Gestalt Institute of Canada in a rambling resort at Lake Cowichan.

He was making a European tour when he was taken ill and flown to Chicago for treatment. His body is to be cremated and buried in New York.

Janet Lederman said today she will head the Cowichan Institute, one of seven on the continent.

"Dr. Perls' dream was that this institute would be, and we are already planning the next workshop.

The worshop will be held in July for professionals from social work, psychiatry and other related fields.

Gestalt therapy is an intellectual attempt to break emotions down into component parts so a person may better understand how he operates. Its prayer beings "I do my thing, you do your thing."

U.S.-Free Unions Urged

TORONTO (CP) — A conference on industrial democracy was told Saturday that a group within the Canadian Labor Congress will demand Canadian unions free of United States control.

Boris Mather, executive director of the Communications Workers of America, made the remark to a conference sponsored by the Woodsworth Foundation.

Mr. Mather said a reformers' brief to the CLC convention in Edmonton May 18-23 will call for contracts which cannot be vetoed in the United States by parent unions.

It also asks that more money from dues remain in Canada and includes sections on women's rights and transfer of membership from one union to another.

Mr. Mather identified Ed Finn of Ottawa, research director of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, and John Fryer, general secretary of the British Columbia Government Employees' Association, as two of the reform leaders.

Axe Murder Chief Caught

BLANTYRE, Malawi (Reuters) — President Kamuzu Banda announced Sunday night that the police have arrested the alleged leader and other alleged members of a gang responsible for a recent wave of ritual axe murders in Blantyre's African townships.

Banda previously said the murders were the work of sorcerers seeking human parts for their medicines. But he has accused Malawian rebels in Zambia and Tanzania of taking advantage of the killings to concot anti-government propaganda.

The murders, in which as many as 28 persons may have been killed during the last year, have caused widespread apprehension among Malawians. Most of the victims were hacked to death in their beds.

Buffalo Faculty Face Charges

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Forty-five faculty members of the troubled State University at Buffalo faced arraignment today on contempt charges resulting from a sit-in Sunday in the office of the university president.

The faculty members walked into the office, they said, to protest the presence of police on campus and in support of a student strike.

About 300 policemen have patrolled the campus since students clashed with officers Thursday night. The clashes resulted in 46 persons injured and five arrests.

The faculty members were accused of violating an injunction banning campus disturbances. All were released Sunday in their own recognizances.

Police said about 50 persons entered the administration building Sunday saying they were to have a meeting with acting president Peter F. Regan. Regan, who uses a different office, was not in the building.

A university official asked the group to leave, police said, and four or five walked out. Campus and city police arrested the others without encountering resistance.

In other weekend developments:

—Police began a gradual withdrawal Saturday after two days of quiet. About 150 police were called onto the campus last Sunday to end two weeks of sporadic vandalism, and the number jumped to 350 during Thursday night's violence. About 10 per cent of the 350 police left the campus Saturday.

—Acting president Regan began an investigation into charges that students used a university car to tour the state stirring up sympathy strikes. He said he would take disciplinary action against the faculty member who signed out the car.

—Erie County District Attorney Michael F. Dillon began a grand jury investigation into the disturbances. He said he would investigate the activities of both students and faculty.

The university has one week of classes before the spring break. Regan has ordered all classes to continue.

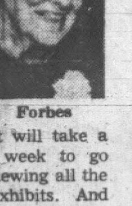
Student objections to the presence of a naval research project and Reserve Officers Training Corps on the campus erupted into violence Feb. 25. For two weeks afterward, students occupied buildings while vandals smashed windows and fire-bombed offices.

Travel Beyond Osaka To See Another Japan

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Flags of participating nations fly today in Japan's Senri Hills, site of Expo 70, northeast of Osaka.

After a weekend of ceremonies and festivities the exposition is officially open to the public and already shows signs of being judged the most magnificent extravaganza of the 70s.



Forbes

There are so many countries represented it is estimated it will take a visitor about a week to go around on foot, viewing all the pavilions and exhibits. And the exposition association predicts in the months the fair is open it will be visited by at least 50 million people.

There are men and women in the Greater Victoria area who will be included in those millions.

To them let me say that while Osaka and Expo 70 are the big drawing cards this year, there are many other things to see and places to explore if they would really know Japan.

These will not be found in mid-town Osaka, Tokyo or even in Kyoto, modernized, westernized and teaming with people.

* * *

Visitors will need to search in the older parishes and in the outlying districts of the big cities or in the villages and country places.

I urge Victorians therefore, if they are going to Japan this year, to earmark a day or so to do a bit of searching. They will be well rewarded.

Still bright in my memory is the first day I walked on a street in an outlying parish of Tokyo. It was early morning. The tiny shops were just coming to life. I was the only western person in sight.

All sorts of conveyances rattled along, filled with Japanese men and women going off to work in the downtown part of the city. Busses slipped in and out through the traffic. Three wheeled vans scurried along like small black beetles.

Bicycles were everywhere. Pedalled by old men with straight white beards and wearing black kimono, young men in white shirts and light cotton trousers, school boys in uniform and laborers in shorts and shirts.

* * *

These last had sweat bands around their heads and loose jackets of bright patterned cotton (happi coats they are called) that billowed out behind them as they whipped through the traffic, their brown legs pedalling like mad.

Horns of all kinds blared incessantly from the deep booms of busses and cars, through every accompanying groan and squeak to the shrill pipe of bicycle horns and the softer, more melodious trill of the tofu vendor.

Tofu is a bean curd that looks something like smooth cottage cheese. The Japanese love it and vendors sell it from small push carts on the street corners.

As I walked along the street, merchandise was being placed to best advantage in the little shops.

The fish vendor, tiny and bent and with a black line of beard around his jaw, was bringing out tubs of shrimp and snails, chunks of salmon and the very popular tia fish, with its white flesh and smudged black skin and huge head.

Persimmons and perfectly round Japanese pears were being arranged in a colorful pattern. Tailors sat crossed-legged on raised platforms in open-fronted shops, sewing for all they were worth. Cobblers worked on shoes and a little old man in a short kimono and with big horn-rimmed glasses on his wrinkled forehead was placing long bamboo poles in a pattern on either side of a door.

Looking in at one shop I saw a family seated on mats on the floor having their morning meal of rice, bean soup and pickle. In front of another door, small boys in blue and white kimono were playing a game with stones.

At the entrance to a narrow lane I found a trio of street cleaners and sweepers. All women. They were taking a short rest, squatted on their heels, smoking brown paper cigarettes and talking in harsh undertones.

These are scenes that bring visitors close to the people at work and at play.

* * *

At the same time it must be remembered that the Japan of 1970 is not only a country of old customs and traditions, it is also a world power.

Visitors who go searching will find not only ancient stone lanterns but also brilliant neon signs. They will hear with the boom of old temple bells the clangor of modern industry.

With the fragrance of the cherry blossoms there will be the smell of billowing smoke from factory chimneys. And they will see kimono clad girls learning the art of serving tea while western-dressed secretaries feed data into electronic computers.

These are all facets of an ever-changing country, yet faithful to the traditions that have served it for 2,000 years.

Amateur Flicks Shown Saturday

The Victoria Amateur Movie Club's sixth annual Spring Showing of amateur films will take place in the Strawberry Vale Community Centre on Saturday, March 21 at 8 p.m.

Featured film of the evening will be Morris Aldersmith's Forty-nine Days on a Freighter, depicting life at sea on a trip around the world.

HOME GARDEN

Healthier Soil Makes Comeback

By HILDA BEASTALL.

The home gardener can look forward once more to the pleasures of tasting his fruits and vegetables right there in the garden, with no more cleansing than a rubbing with his hands and a polishing on the seat of his pants.

Hilda

This ideal situation may take a few years to reach, but at least where blocks of gardeners get together and decide against the use of pesticides, herbicides, ovicides and soil sterilants, there will be a measure of safety within that area.

With more leisure time than ever before, the average home gardeners will be able to use some of it profitably by giving closer attention to the plants they grow.

The power mower may have to be made less noisy, but it and a couple of well-placed water sprinklers will normally take care of the two principal jobs once a week around the average garden, leaving five days for down to earth care of plants.

Two hours a day out of the 13 to 15 hours most men spend away from their jobs would see an enormous improvement in garden quality, and the sense of hurry would be eliminated; leisure time for actual pleasant loafing in the gaden would be spent doing just that — loafing, relaxing, playing with the youngsters or perhaps working on some other outdoor project.

For years we've been reluctant to sniff flowers in other gardens than our own, or to handle foliage or other plant parts knowing that the chances were high on the side they had been well and often sprayed with a variety of insecticides and fungicides.

When this was mentioned, we were considered cranks, but we maintained our own private integrity and never feared the results of having our flowers or pot plants in hospital rooms or in restaurants.

It was a funny situation at times, where a compost-making gardener would be accused of polluting the area by saving his weeds, old plants and kitchen waste. The clean gardener down the street was the one alwas out with his sprays to control the environment.

Now we shall, hopefully, have an increasing number learning that healthier plants will grow in a healthier soil. They will be more resistant to an initial insect attack, and by noticing the insects in the first day or two, the gardner will be able to control them by the old thumb and finger method.

We shall get back to using ground covers between shrubs, and annual cover crops on temporarily vacant ground.

Bare soil soon becomes a dead soil, losing its humus and its nutrients, and its whole life population deteriorates every day it lies empty.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED L. KARPIN

The deal diagramed today is presented as "bridge mystery." You are told that our South declarer overlooked something in his play, and as a result he lost a contract that a more perceptive player would have fulfilled. It is your job, as a bridge detective, to discover what South either overlooked or failed to see.

Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of ♡.

On West's deuce of hearts opening, dummy's jack was put up," and it was covered by East's king. Employing the holdup play, South allowed East's king to win.

East now shifted to the king of diamonds — and South became a most unhappy fellow. He permitted the diamond king to capture the trick, and also allowed East's continuation of the diamond queen to win the next trick. A third diamond lead was taken by dummy's ace.

South then entered his own hand via the spade queen, and led the jack of clubs, hoping that West possessed the club king. As is evident, East won this trick with the king of clubs. When play had ended, South had lost one heart, three diamonds and a club. Where did he slip in the play?

If one asumes that West was an "honest" player, declarer should have believed his opening lead of the deuce of hearts. Since it is accepted procedure that one's normal opening lead against no-trump contracts in the fourth from the highest in one's longest suit, West's opening lead on the deuce of hearts showed that he had exactly four hearts (three higher and none lower). Hence declarer should have concluded that the eight adversely held hearts were dived 4-4

Had he come to this conclusion, he would have won the opening lead with his heart ace. He would then have taken the club finesse, losing to East's king. From here in, all the defenders could make would be three heart tricks. Thus, declarer would have fulfilled his contract.

The danger of allowing East's king of hearts to win the opening lead was that East might shift to a diamond (as he did). West should have been trusted.

FLASHBACK ON CANADA

Statement Recalled Historic Precedent

By BOB BOWMAN

When Prince Philip was in Ottawa last October he was asked how he felt about the possibility of Canada breaking away from the monarchy. He replied that the monarchy exists for the people, and not for the monarchy, and it was up to the people to change it, if they wanted to do so. In that case, he added, "For goodness sake let's end it on amicable terms and not with a row."

His statement was reminiscent of an incident that took place between Britian and Canada almost 100 years previously. On March 16, 1872, the British government announced that it was making a loan to Canada of £2,500,000 for railway building. Some cabinet ministers and members of the House of Commons were opposed to the loan and suggested that Canada should be given complete independence. Lord Kimberley wrote to Sir John A. Macdonald "Let separation come if it must, but I will be no party to a step which tends to bring about separation in anger."

The British loan was the aftermath of the Washington conference of 1871. There were a number of severe problems among Britain, the U.S. and Canada. Sir John A. Macdonald was asked to be a member of the British delegation that went to Washington. The U.S. wanted fishing rights of Canadian coasts and free navigation of the St. Lawrence River. Canada wanted reparations for damage caused by the Fenian raids that had been financed and launched from the U.S. The U.S. wanted reparations from Britain for damage caused by the raider "Alabama" during the American Civil War.

Britain was in trouble in Europe and the Middle East and did not want to risk a conflict with the U.S. Canada's claim for reparations for the Fenian raids was not discussed, but the Americans were given the fishing rights they wanted and also free navigation of the St. Lawrence "in perpetuity." Macdonald was furious but his claims were shunted aside by the British while they agreed to pay the U.S. $15,500,000 for the damage caused by the "Alabama."

The British loan the following year was a gesture to placate Canada for getting the shabby end of the deal.

Other events on March 16:

1649 — Fathers Brebeuf and Lalemant were tortured to death by Iroquois.

1843 — James Douglas began building settlement at Victoria.

1898 — Yukon Railway bill passed House of Commons but was later defeated in the Senate.

1900 — Strathcona Horse, financed by Lord Strathcona, sailed from Canada to fight in Boer War.

YOUR HEALTH

Ill-Won Success Brought Tragedy

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Half a century ago, when I was practising medicine in San Francisco, I saw as a patient an unforgettable man, about 40, who was one of the saddest I ever knew. He was so lonely and miserable that he craved death.

His tragedy was that he had learned too well and practised too well a certain utterly selfish and heartless technic, designed to enable a man to climb rapidly to the top in a large company. He came to me, hoping that I, as a physician, might help him and show him some way to rebuild his shattered life and perhaps to get back some self-respect, some companionship, and some happiness.

He told me that his self-destruction had started when, in an unlucky hour, he had read an article in which a man told how one could rise rapidly in this world by "playing up" skilfully to the right persons; by studying their likes and dislikes, and then making great efforts to serve them and please them; also by "soft-soaping" them, sharing their prejudices and dislikes, and accepting all of their most strongly-held opinions.

* * *

For years he kept playing this game — so successfully, that a while before he came to see me, he had been made a vice-president of the corporation. But then he began to feel very unhappy. Because he knew that his promotions had come to him mainly through influence and less through merit, he could not feel much joy in achievement.

Also, he began to feel lonely because he did not have a real friend on earth. He knew his associates were despising him and saying that he had only ice-water in his veins. Curiously, he rather despised the men who had helped him up the ladder, because he felt that if they had had more sense they would not have fallen for his game.

If he threw a party, it was only to enable him to get acquainted with someone whom he could use for business purposes. Unfortunately for him, when he invited Mr. A, he was likely to say to him, "Bring B, and we may get some business out of him." Hence, A knew why he had been invited.

When my patient found that his father-in-law had used him for business purposes, just as he had used the half-dozen men whose help he had wanted, the world "fell in on him." His wife left him, and he realized as never before, that he hadn't a real friend in all the world. With this, he became suicidal. As he said, he had been "too smart for his own good," and had ruined himself.

By J A H HUNTER

Betty stopped typing. "Isn't it nearly five yet?" she asked. "I'm half asleep."

"Last night's party, eh?" Old Sam chuckled, glancing at his watch. "It's eleven times as many minutes since noon as it is minutes before five."

What was the time?

ONE-DAY BLITZ on heavy bush and brambles edging 200 feet of Colquitz Creek is tackled by a 175-strong work party, organized by the Greater Victoria Jaycees Sunday. The volunteer work force, which included students from five senior secondary schools, cleared the area in preparation for future grading and reseeding. (William E. John Photo.)

'Ottawa Ready To Fight Back'

Union Nationale Gets Warning

Times News Services

RIMOUSKI, Que. — If Quebec's Union Nationale government is spoiling for a fight the federal government is set to fight back, Regional Economic Expansion Minister Jean Marchand warned Sunday.

The Ottawa policy of turning the other cheek when attacked by Quebec is a thing of the past, he said. And if any Quebec government not elected by a popular majority ever attempts to create an independent state, he said, Ottawa will take immediate action.

"If they simply want battles for their own sake they'll get them," he told a meeting of 100 Liberals from eastern Quebec federal ridings Sunday.

"There are real quarrels and . . . there are those that are artifically provoked and really useless battles."

Ottawa poured more than $1 billion into Quebec each year through shared-cost programs "but the people don't know about it" because the provincial government claimed all the political credit.

Earlier, Marchand, who represents the Quebec City riding of Langelier, said in a television session recorded for future airing that if a Quebec government elected on less than a 50 per cent popular vote moved towards independence, the federal government would intervene to protect the rights of the majority.

If Quebec independence came about following a majority vote, "there would be no problems."

"However, in my opinion, the independence option presents many dangers, but perhaps that is not the feeling of the whole population," he said.

'Same Old Campaign Tricks'

The Union Nationale, Marchand said during the Liberal meeting, was again resorting to its favorite campaign trick, dating back to the Duplessis era, of "fighting an election by blaming the federal government." A provincial general election has been called for April 29.

Despite Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand's pledge not to wage the current campaign on this basis, the next day his ministers began to attack Ottawa, Marchand said.

"If they want to play that game, we'll play it too. For too long, the federal government hasn't fought back.

"Things are going to change, and they're going to change radically."

The first step would be to "tell Quebecers what we are doing with their money in Quebec."

Any province refusing to accept clauses stating exactly how Ottawa's contribution to any future share-cost program would be recognized and publicized "won't get a damned cent," Marchand said.

He said many provincial regimes were acting "childishly." They had inaugurated vocational technical high schools, for which Ottawa had paid 75 per cent of the cost,

Cambodian Talks Open As New Protests Flare

PHOM PENH (CP) — Demonstrators staged a big anti-Viet Cong protest outside the Cambodian legislature today as the neutralist government announced the opening of talks with the Viet Cong and North Vietnam.

An estimated 30,000 youths paraded in front of the National Assemnly waving anti-Viet Cong banners and shouting slogans calling for the departure of Viet Cong forces from Cambodia.

A government communique today announcing the start of the three-way talks came after a North Vietnamese news agency reported, monitored in Hong Kong, said Cambodia, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong had agreed to hold a meeting in the Cambodian capital to discuss their problems.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodian head of state, is in Moscow seeking Soviet help in persuading the Viet Cong to leave his country.

After a final round of talks with Kremlin officials, he is expected to leave for Peking to make the same plea.

On Friday, after demonstrators here had sacked the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong embassies, Cambodia asked both parties to withdraw their forces by Sunday.

The deadline passed without any sign of compliance, and North Vietnamese and Cambodian troops were reported to have exchanged fire for

77 Indians Held After New Invasion

SEATTLE (CP) — Seventy-seven Indians, including 22 from Canada, were detained by military police Sunday following a second invasion of Fort Lawton, a U.S. army post they claim under an 1865 treaty.

Sixteen of them, including one Canadian, were ordered to appear before a U.S. Commissioner today at 1:30 p.m. and Indian leaders vowed the U.S. Court House in this city would be the target of a major demonstration.

The 16, with the exception of the lone Canadian, took part in a similar invasion of Fort Lawton and nearby Fort Lewis, March 8, that led to the arrest of 85 persons.

Those ordered to appear today are charged with entering a U.S. military installation illegally, based on violation of letters of expulsion given those arrested a week ago.

All 77 persons arrested Sunday were released after spending 8½ hours in custody. A spokesman for the Canadians, Fred Favel of Vancouver, said those picked up were herded into two 12-man cells in the Fort Lawton army brig. They ranged in age from eight to 46.

The "invasion" of Fort Lawton began shortly before dawn Sunday when 77 Indian men, women and children scaled a steep bluff. They were discovered shortly thereafter clustered on the top of the bluff on army property by a military police patrol.

Visit Begins

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko arrived here today on an official six-day visit for talks with Czechoslovak leaders about a new friendship pact.

Spy Plane Crashes

DA NANG (CP) — Twenty-two Americans were killed when a huge U.S. Navy electronic spy plane capable of jamming missile radar crashed at Da Nang Air Base today. Nine men survived, a U.S. military spokesman said in Saigon.

Hippie Patrol

JEMEZ, N.M. (UPI) — The U.S. Forest Service said today its rangers have started "hippie patrols" to cut down on nude bathing in New Mexico national forests. Fred R. Swetnam, district ranger for the Santa Fe National Forest, said the idea behind the patrols was to avoid contronations with hippies violating forest regulations by bathing nude in streams.

Problem Worsens

MONTREAL (CP) — Montrea's troubled mail delivery ran into another snag today when key mail truck drivers walked off the job at the main post office after filling their trucks with mail and then locking them. A post office spokesman said the only mail that probably would be delivered today would be that left over in sub-stations from Friday and Saturday.

Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Nixon today signed a bill creating a commission on population growth to deal with what he described as one of the most highly explosive problems of the next 30 years.

'Battle Shapes Over Natural Resources'

VANCOUVER (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national New Democratic Party leader, said Saturday that one of the greatest international battles ever over natural resources, will be shaping up in the next few months between Canada and the United States.

Speaking at Vancouver City College, Mr. Douglas said President Nixon recently restricted imports of oil from Canada so that the U.S. would be in a better position to deal with Canadians on other resources.

The NDP leader said the U.S. wants water from Canada, as well as uranium, gas and ready access to the Northwest Passage "and the only way they could dicker with us with a better hand was to restrict our oil exports across the line."

Dogfight Over Egypt

From Reuters-AP

Israeli and Egyptian jets engaged in a dogfight over Egypt today and each side said it shot down one plane.

The Israeli military command said its planes, while on a reconnaissance mission over Egypt, shot down a Russian-built MiG-21, bringing to 76 the number of Egyptian warplanes claimed by Israel since the 1967 war.

This action followed announcement of deep military penetration of Syrian territory Sunday by Israeli airborne troops, who shelled an army camp and blew up a power line 21 miles beyond Damascus.

Planned Power Line Labelled 'Tragedy'

By ROGER STONEBANKS

The planned high-voltage transmission line in Saanich and Victoria was called "an environmental tragedy" this morning by city Ald. Peter Pollen.

He made the comment during a meeting of Saanich and Victoria officials with four representatives of B.C. Hydro at Saanich municipal hall.

Pollen said he recognized Hydro's financial problems but standards had to be set in urban areas.

'Costs or no costs we have got to be extremely firm," he said. "This is commercial exploitation of our environment."

Hydro plans to put the 132,000-volt line on 75-foot-high steel poles along just over four miles, from Interubran Road at Alan to Burnside at Douglas.

The line is needed to put extra power into the area to meet growing demands.

Saanich Ald. William Noel said an overhead line is a retrograde step and "a monstrous thing" and people would prefer to pay a little extra in their rates not to have such lines overhead.

DEAD LOSS

"The opinion of local government is that it is no longer acceptable to inflict this over head transmission line on the environment," said Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis.

When the economics of underground versus overhead were considered, he pointed out, that the effect of over-

TOT SURVIVES MISHAP BUT DIES IN HOSPITAL

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — A week-old baby died in hospital today, bringing the death toll to four following the sinking Sunday night of a 34-foot fishing boat off the northern British Columbia coast.

RCMP said the baby was the child of Harold and Kathy Barton, who were among the five survivors, all from Port Simpson, 15 miles northwest of here.

The baby was picked up alive from the debris of the vessel, identified as the PE-50, after a rescue boat responded to a distress signal reporting the boat's engines were stalled and that it was taking on water.

New Bible Said 'Deadly'

LONDON (AP) — The New English Bible went on sale today amid debate on its style and publishers' predictions of sales in the millions.

The new Bible is not a revision of previous versions but a new translation from Greek and Hebrew texts. Its publishers, the University Presses of Oxford and Cambridge claim it is "as truthful as human skill could make it and carried out by the best scholars and translators that the churches possessed.

The translation was sponsored by all the major Christian churches in Britain except the Roman Catholic. The work took 12 years.

Dr. Cecil Northcott, churches correspondent of The Naily Telegraph, said:

"It will rank among the great biblical achievements. Never was the English-speaking world better provided for in contemporary translations of the Bible than today, and the New English Bible is the crowning venture."

'IT COMMUNICATES'

John Redfern, churches correspondent of The Daily Express, predicted "many arguments about the translation, but I believe that it fulfils its task — which was to communicate — at all points."

However, Jesuit scholar Peter Levi commented in The Sunday Observer:

"The new Bible is written in a deadly and churchy mandarin . . ."

A Sunday Times critic said: "Too often its English lacks both dignity and authority. The substantial changes in sense are notable, and more than enough to have had men burnt at the stake for."

Crux Loses Last Appeal

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP) — The Bahamas Court of Appeal dismissed today an appeal by lawyer-financier A. G. Duncan Crux of Vancouver against the refusal by the Supreme Court to issue him a writ of habeas corpus.

Crux, 63, former head of the Commonwealth group of companies in British Columbia, was ordered by a magistrate's court last December to be extradited to Canada to face 11 charges of fraud and theft. The charges arose from the collapse of the Commonwealth group in November, 1968.

Crux has been in Fox Hill Prison near here since Dec. 7, apart from three weeks in hospital for a series of medical tests.

Teachers Threaten Strike

Mass resignations or a teachers' strike are possibilities in the wake of the provincial government's refusal to increase teachers' pensions, a member of the B.C. Teachers Federation pensions committee said today.

Don Jorgenson of Vancouver, said pensions are first on the agenda for the Federation's annual meeting opening March 30 in Vancouver.

A member of a BCTF delegation — one of about 19 teachers who will be lobbying MLAs today and Tuesday — was officially told today by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black that pensions increases are not planned this year, Jorgenson said.

DRASTIC ACTION

There was a very good chance that drastic action might result. "Teachers feel they have nothing to lose and possibly something to gain by action that will make the government and the public aware of their feelings."

Jorgenson said that next fall or winter would be "logical" times to undertake drastic action.

But he stressed that the Federation's pension committee is not empowered to make such decisions. They would have to come from the Federation membership as a whole.

He said the first indication that no pension increases were planned came indirectly some weeks ago in a letter from a Social Credit MLA to a constituent who was a Federation member.

Jorgenson said Black, in speaking to a delegation member from his own con-

'PILL-POPPING POT PUFFERS DID IT . . .'

Mutineers Hijack U.S. Arms Ship

Times News Services

SATTAHIP, Thailand — The crew of the hijacked merchant ship Columbia Eagle told rescuers the 10,636-ton freighter loaded with bombs for Thailand was taken over by two "pill popping and marijuana blowing" hippies, seamen aboard the rescue ship Rappahannock said Today.

The Columbia Eagle was seized this weekend through a ruse that caused 24 crewmen to abandon ship in belief there was a time bomb aboard. The 24 men were picked up by the Rappahannock while the mutineers sailed the vessel to the Cambodian port of Sihanoukville.

The U.S. defence department said it has received fragmentary information indicating the Cambodian government has removed two mutineers from the Columbian Eagle anchored in Cambodian waters.

The department said it understands that 13 other crew members including the skipper remained aboard the vessel.

The ship may be moved into port — perhaps Sihanoukville — and the crew may possibly be taken ashore in Cambodia, the announcement said.

Defence department spokesman Jerry Friedheim said: "We don't know if the civilian skipper of the Columbia Eagle is now in charge of the vessel."

Richard Joyce of San Francisco, a merchant seaman aboard the Rappahannock, talked with the 24 Columbia Eagle crewmen.

"They said they believed that the hijacking was done by a couple of hippies who had signed on in the United States," Joyce said. "They said these guys were popping pills and blowing marijuana all the way over and talking about how they were anti-Vietnam."

Joyce said the Columbia Eagle men were picked up from two lifeboats Saturday night about 7 hours after they were ordered to abandon ship. They were in good condition.

The survivors told their rescuers that an order to abandon ship was announced over the Columbia Eagle public address system by the third mate. He said he was acting on orders from the ship captain.

"They were under the impression that the reason they were abandoning the ship was because a bomb had been put on board to detonate with a timing device," said James Debay of San Francisco, a seaman from the Rappahannock.

"But after the 24 crewmen took to the life boats and cleared the ship, Columbia Eagle got underway. The ship with 15 members remaining aboard circled around the lifeboat and steamed off apparently at full speed."

Debay said the men in the lifeboat soon realized that the report of a live bomb being aboard the ship was a ruse. They realized that no radio message had been sent to other ships in the area, and also became suspicious because the captain himself did not appear above decks when the ship was being abandoned.

"They finally got to thinking that probably the two hippie guys may have put a gun to the captain's head," Joyce said.

THOSE GREY lumps of rock may be worth a small fortune, but geology students will get the benefit, not the company that mined them. Part of 1,000 pounds of high grade silver ore given by Boundary Exploration Ltd. to University of B.C. geology department, the sample came from Boundary's Hauser property, near Duncan Lake and assays up to 480 ounces per ton. A complete mineralogical study will be done by the department and laboratory samples will be divided among students. Boundary president John Carson, right, is shown with department chief technician Ed Montgomery.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Trading Tapers Off

Stocks were generally off—more than 5 points at New York—in mid-day trading on the major North American exchanges today.

The front at New York covered a broad range of issues, while at Vancouver and Montreal trading was light. Toronto fell sharply, apparently in response to the budget speech last week, which seeks credit restrictions.

AT NEW YORK prices were sharply and broadly lower in unusually light trading.

Steels, motors, rubber issues, aircrafts, electronics, oils and drugs were generally lower.

Big Board prices included American Telephone, off ½ at 52; Eastman Kodak, off 1 at 76¼; Transamerica, off ⅛ at 20⅜, and General Motors, off ¼ at 70¼.

On the American Stock Exchange, Ecological Science was off 1⅛ at 17.

AT TORONTO losses outnumbered gains by more than two to one as the market fell sharply in light mid-afternoon trading.

Trust and loan issues which paced Friday's losses led Monday's industrial decline.

Investors Group A lost ½ to 8, Royal Trust ⅛ to 27¼, Canadian Imperial ⅜ to 22¼ and Royal Bank ⅜ to 23⅛.

McIntyre lost 2 to 180 and Falconbridge, in which McIntyre has a 37 per cent interest, 4 to 175. The stocks rose 17 and 4, respectively, last week.

The companies said they knew of no corporate developments that would cause the stock movement.

AT MONTREAL prices were mixed in light trading.

Bank of Montreal was up ⅛ to 16¼ while the Royal was off ⅛ to 23¼.

Canadian Pacific Railway gained ⅜ to 64, Rio Algom to 23, Cominco ⅛ to 28¼ and Power Corp. ¼ to 9⅜.

Abitibi Copper, on the Canadian Stock Exchange, fell 32 cents to 1.18.

AT LONDON, the market moved lower, but losses were small.

Among leaders, Rank eased while Dunlp, Unilever, ICI, Glaxo and Courtaulds moved lowers.

Elsewhere, Hudson's Bay continued to ease ahead of results. Dome fell 10 points to 89. Canadian Pacific, Cominco, Hiram Walker, Consolidated Bathurst, Inco, Noranda and Pacific Petroleum eased sharply.

Banks were weak under the lead of Montreal, 9s down at 157s.

AT VANCOUVER prices were generally down in light pre-noon trading.

Captain International traded 8,825 shares and put on .87½ to $6.12½. Key Indsutries slipped .10 to .60. Driver Development slid .20 to .95.

In oils, Giant Reef traded 14,700 and eased .03 to .49. Plains Petroleum was unchanged at .38. United Bata was down .05 at $2.95.

Kopan Developments moved 81,500 and put on .02 to .24. Brenmac added .09 to .73 and Sileurian Chieftain slipped .02 at .52.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Heavy liquidation pressure throughout the day left all rapeseed futures except November down at the close of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Liquidation pressures came from local and commission houses following the Canadian Wheat Board announcement that delivery quotas on rapeseed and flax would open immediately at all delivery points.

Flax rallied slightly on interested exporter buying near mid-session.

California Suing Auto Makers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Major U.S. auto-makers are the target of a civil suit filed by California which Deputy State Attorney-General Charles A. O'Brien says may cost them billions of dollars in damages. At issue: air pollution.

The complaint filed in U.S. District Court Friday accuses the industry of having conspired in 1961, 1962 and 1964 to delay installation of smog devices on cars.

O'Brien said smog damage to California's citrus crops runs between $25,000,000 and $100,000,000 annually. He added that residents spend untold more millions of dollars when they are in hospital for smog-related ailments and must repaint their homes or cars because of air pollution damage.

In Madison, the state of Wisconsin filed a federal court suit which would compel auto manufacturers to install anti-pollution control equipment on all motor vehicles sold in Wisconsin since 1953.

Wisconsin Attorney-General Robert Warren also asked in the complaint that the auto-makers be assessed triple damages, the amount to be determined by the court.

SEEKS COMPENSATION

O'Brien said one portion of the California suit asks automobile manufacturers to reimburse Californians for smog control devices soon to be required on all pre-1966 model vehicles. Such "kits" now are being developed, he said.

Defendants were listed as Chrysler, Ford, General Motors, American Motors, the Automobile Manufacturers Association, Checker Motor Corp., Studebaker Corp., White Motor Corp., Diamond T. Motor Car Co., International Harvester Co., Kaiser Jeep and Mack Trucks, Inc.

The Wisconsin suit lists the same defendants and also alleges conspiracy to delay installation of the auto emission control devices.

O'Brien said 13 eastern cities that have filed other anti-smog actions have asked to join in the California suit. O'Brien's complaint was on behalf of California, 30 of its 58 counties and 156 cities.

In Madison, Warren said: "The people of the state of Wisconsin have the legal, moral and constitutional right to live in an environment uncontaminated by pollutants, and the discharge into the atmosphere of air contamination so as to cause air pollution, is contrary to the laws and public policy of the state of Wisconsin."

Fixed Smiles, Frantic Phones Mark Income Tax Crush

By JACK SCOTT

This was a quiet morning at the local branch of an office that rings up $32 million in cash receipts, give or take a million, each working day of the year.

The crush of "counter-callers" that brings 10,000 questioners in the flesh to the Department of National Revenue's Pandora Ave. tax offices was thinning out.

The dangour of 15,000 telephone calls was coming to an end.

The fixed smiles on the faces of clerks trained to deal with varying degrees of public incomprehension and bewilderment were beginning to look more natural.

Once again the annual inevitability of taxes was passing from sympathetic local human hands into the impersonal innards of the Ottawa computers.

While midnight of April 30 is the closing moment of the preceding calendar year's tax returns, the middle week of March is the peak period of personal contact with the public. This year, says director-of-taxation C. E. Wesson, has been no exception.

Something in excess of 10 per cent of the 147,693 income earners and 4,588 corporation heads on Vancouver Island who file through the Victoria office will have put a personal query to the clerks on duty before the deadline.

The figure is higher per capita than in any other Canadian city because of Victoria's unsusual number of retired people living on investment incomes, thus more likely to need expert advice than those on salary.

The rush comes early, too, because for most filers it will mean many happy returns. Increasingly, it is no longer a case of how much must be paid, but how much will be coming back. Recently released figures for the 1968 filing season showed that 5,377,000 of the nation's more than eight million taxpayers received refunds.

Getting something back has, in fact, become a part of the taxation game,

"Surprisingly," says one expert, "many taxpayers deliberately understate their exemptions to their employers and incur over-deductions so as to create refunds."

Equally surprising, perhaps, is the fact that when taxpayers make a mistake in filing their returns they are more often liable to overstatement than under-statement. The 1968 figures show that 1,368,000 taxpayers got back $49,800,000 that they'd thought was owing.

Such errors, one way or the other, account for the increasing use of public relations methods to educate the public. In 20 years, the experts say, the taxation department's staff has dropped from a high of more than 11,000 to fewer than 8,000 and the cost of collecting $100 in revenue has been reduced from $2.05 to 84 cents.

Public meetings, open-line radio shows, newspaper articles and public displays organized by P. J. Kelly, public relations director for the department, could mean a further cutting of collection costs by ensuring that forms are properly filled out. A stepped-up program in island high schools this year is aimed at reaching the future taxpayer.

Even with such an educational program, said director Wesson, the Ottawa computers will reject more than 5 per cent of T1 "Short" returns and nearly 11 per cent of T1 "General" returns because of errors. The cost of returning these to regional offices may run to an average of $5 for each rejected form.

Hospital Plans Hung Up On Horns of Gov't Dilemma

'How Can I?' Asks Campbell

By JIM HUME

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell has refused to release department funds to permit Victoria to build a road around St. Joseph's Hospital.

"How could I?" he said this morning. "I don't have jurisdiction over things of that kind."

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark has already told Victoria that Belleville Street cannot disect the proposed new hospital site. He has stated categorically that the road must circle the hospital to the north.

●

Campbell told a delegation from the city and the Regional Hospital District late last week that his department's budget contained no funds for highway building programs.

The road circling the existing hospital site has an estimated cost of $2 million.

If funds could be made available the ring-around road, with an overpass and underpass where Blanshard-Quadra-Collinson join would eliminate the need for Belleville Street to be extended through the grounds of St. Ann's Academy.

Loffmark insists that the road links designed to siphon traffic from the James Bay-Government-Douglas Street areas must circle the hospital.

The city has asked for provincial funds to help foot the bill if the minister's stated policy is forced on Victoria.

City officials base their appeal for provincial funds on the claim that the proposed acute care-extended care hospital is a regional facility and that therefore the entire area should share extra road costs. It would not be fair, they say, to place the entire $2 million burden on city taxpayers.

They also claim that, with the purchase price for the St. Ann's Academy site set at $1.5 million, the addition of $2 millions for roads would shoot the site acquisition cost to $3.5 million before the first bed is built.

Loffmark has stated that he would seek some financial support for Victoria if the roads goes around the hospital site. But he has also hinted that he would not push too hard.

The city wants the government to pick up 60 percent of the cost with the other 40 per cent shared throughout the region.

It was with this in mind that Mayor Courtney Haddock decided last Thursday to try an appeal directly to the minister of municipal affairs.

Accompanying him to the meeting were city manager Dennis Young, Mayors Hugh Curtis and Jim Cummings, (chairman and vice-chairman of the hospital district) and William Long, executive director of the district.

None of them were surprised at Campbell's firm refusal to release funds for road building purposes.

Asked this morning if he had given them any ideas where the cash could be raised, Campbell answered "no, not really."

●

With road funds unavailable and Loffmark adamant in refusing the let Belleville cross the proposed site, plans for a new St. Joseph's on the old site are close to a standstill.

City officials say there is no way the city can raise the road funds on a go-it-alone basis. A $2 million road project, they point out, amounts to 14 per cent of the city's operating capital and 25 per cent of its proposed five year capital project budget.

It has already been suggested privately that St. Joseph's Hospital plans be dropped from the multi-million dollar acute care bed referendum planned for later this year.

●

So far the thought has not been voiced publicly, but elected officials are concerned that the confusion and debate on the Belleville Street versus loop-road issue could spell defeat for the entire hospital program.

Later this week regional officials are scheduled to meet again with Loffmark for one last round of talks on the road hang-up.

Alderman, Visitor Robbed by Armed Men

An Oak Bay alderman and a visitor to the city from Manitoba were victims of separate armed holdups Saturday night.

Oak Bay and city police forces are still investigating both incidents.

HELD TO HEAD

Ald. Douglas Watts, 2285 Woodlawn Crescent, was walking in the vicinity of Hampshire Road and Hampshire Terrace about 9:25 p.m. Saturday when he was confronted by two youths who pushed him around and took his wallet, containing about $5, before fleeing on foot.

Watts, who was not injured, told police he believed the two were armed with pistols which they pointed at him during the robbery.

Oliver Leslie Pirie, of Strathclair, Manitoba, was walking from the curling rink back to his hotel on Yates Street about midnight Saturday when he was accosted by two youths, one armed with a knife, near the 800-block Fisgard.

Police said the knife was held to Pirie's head just behind his ear while he surrendered his wallet with about $47 inside.

The two told Pirie to lie face down on the ground while they fled the scene.

"All I can say at this point is that it's not the sort of thing one likes to hear going on in Oak Bay," Watts said this morning.

WALLET FOUND

His wallet was found on Roslyn Road a short time after the robbery.

The youths were described as about 19 or 20 years old with dark complexions, dark hair and wearing dark clothing.

Watts, a hydraulics engineer with the provincial government, has served on Oak Bay council since 1959.

Pirie told police his assailants were about 17 and 18 years of age, wearing dark clothes, and had shoulder-length hair.

Police, C-FAX to Meet For Radio Ban Talks

Members of the Victoria police commission will meet with representatives of C-FAX Radio at 2 p.m. Wednesday to discuss Police Chief Jack Gregory's 30-day ban on giving police information to the station.

The meeting was arranged today by Mayor Courtney Haddock at the request of C-FAX owner-manager Clare Copeland.

Copeland said today it is "unfortunate" the meeting could not be held until Wednesday because it meant the embargo on the station's access to police news would continue at least until then.

The meeting could have been held earlier, he added, except one member of the police commission is out of town.

The meeting would include Haddock, who is chairman of the police commission Gregory, Copeland and two other members of the police commission, Gordon Carter and D. H. Lawson.

Gregory in a letter to Copeland last week charged the station with errors in a broadcast concerning an official of the attorney-general's department.

SMOKESCREEN

The chief informed the station its staff was barred from access to police records for news-gathering purposes for 30 days.

A transcript of the broadcast made public by C-FAX Saturday says:

"Police refused to confirm whether a warrant charging assault has been sworn out for the official's arrest."

The transcript further says facts of the case were established by C-FAX news "despite what appears to be smokescreen laid down by city police officials."

Spokesmen for news organizations continued to deplore Gregory's action today.

Don Hamilton, president of the B.C. Association of Broadcasters and general manager and vice-president of CKLG, Vancouver, said broadcasters all over the province share the "shock" of the ban on C-FAX reporters.

'AMAZING ACTION

In a taped statement, Hamilton spoke of the "amazing action taken by the police chief upon second-hand information without first-hand knowledge . . ."

He said Gregory had "ample opportunity" for recourse through the courts, and cited provisions of the Criminal Code, Broadcasting Act and Slander and Libel Act under which violations could be prosecuted.

Fire in Former School Prompts Official Probe

An official from the provincial fire marshal's office in Vancouver was expected to arrive today to help investigate a blaze Saturday afternoon that heavily damaged the former Holy Angels school at Quadra and North Park.

A spokesman for the Victoria fire department said this morning the cause of the fire that started in the basement had not been determined.

The fire, reported at about 1:35 p.m., took firemen about 45 minutes to bring under control and one firefighter was injured slightly when a section of the plaster ceiling he was pulling down struck him on the shoulder.

Robert Brown, 31, of 3948 Margot Place, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, treated and released from the emergency ward.

The former school is a large C-shaped structure that faces on Quadra and North Park. It was vacant except for A Bon Marche, a hairdressing firm, located in the east wing.

The building was originally opened as a school in 1940 by the Sisters of Our Lady of the Angels who ran it as a Chinese mission school until 1964.

The Sisters of St. Ann then took over the structure and changed the name to St. Andrew's School.

St. Andrew's School was transferred to the former St. Louis College building in 1968 and the Glad Tidings bought the vacated school in 1969.

City Man Drowned Near Port Renfrew

One man drowned and another managed to swim to safety Sunday when their rubber dinghy capsized near the mouth of the Gordon River near Port Renfrew.

Dead is Warrant Officer Gerald S. Jenns, 41, of 197 Egarton, a member of the Shore Patrol at CFB Esquimalt. He is survived by his wife and two children.

CUT TRIP SHORT

Jenns and a companion, Clp. K. G. Senft, 28, of 2780 Grainger, were hiking along the West Coast life-saving trail near Port Renfrew on a planned four-day expedition when worsening weather conditions forced them to cut their trip short.

They left Campers Cove about 10 a.m. Sunday morning on the return trip to Port Renfrew. Reaching the mouth of the Gordon River near dusk, they decided to use a rubber dinghy they had been carrying to cross the mouth of the river to a beach on the other side.

They misjudged the current and the raft was swept out into the churning tidewater, where it overturned, spilling both men into the water.

Senft managed to swim ashore and after a short, futile search for Jenns, made his way to Port Renfrew, he said today.

ONE DEFORMED

A Lot of Whale To Go Oak Bay

When the little white whale, destined to become the companion of Sealand's star killer whale Haida, moves into her new quarters some of the members of her family will be along to keep her company.

Sealand president Bob Wright said today that although he's had several bids on the other four members of the white whale's pod at Pedder Bay, he doesn't intend to accept any of them right away.

"When we move the white whale to Sealand we want to have some of her family with her so that she'll be able to adapt more naturally."

Wright said that Sealand would be releasing at least one of the whales.

"After working all day Saturday we were able to get them into individual pens and examine them more closely.

TRICKY TASK

"One of them, a big bull, is deformed, probably through some tussle at sea when he was young. We'll be releasing him for a start."

Sealand trainer Graeme Ellis started the tricky task of trying to feed the whales herrings Sunday.

"One of the small black ones has started to take an interest in the food. But the albino is the most curious of the lot. She spends a lot of time on the surface watching what's going on."

Wright figures that by the middle of the week the whales will be ready to accept food from humans.

MARINA CLOSED

Until that time, all other people are being kept at a reasonable distance.

"We're keeping the marina closed. We don't want motors running or any noise that will disturb them."

A three-man team of French cameramen is standing by waiting to begin shooting a special television feature on the whales.

Wright estimates it will be 10 days before the whales are moved to Sealand in Oak Bay.

They were caught off Race Rocks March 1 by a 16-man crew from Sealand.

BLOOD BANK GOAL 425 PINTS

A total of 425 units of blood is the goal set for a three-day Red Cross blood donor clinic to be held today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The clinics will be held at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street, from 2:30 to 4:30 and 6:30 to 9:30 today and on Tuesday from 1:30 to 4:30 and 6:30 to 9.

Wednesday the clinic will move to the Ewing Building at the Institute of Adult Studies and will be held there from 9 to noon and 1 to 4.

Victoria High, Norfolk House Top Drama Competition

Plays by Victoria High School and Norfolk House were selected by adjudicator John Krich to advance in competition to the provincial high school drama festival after an honor performance of Greater Victoria winners Saturday night.

* * *

Plays performed at the honor round were Land of Jesters by St. Margaret's School; The Light by Glenlyon School, and The House of Bernarda Alba by Norfolk House.

Following the program a number of awards and commendations were made by adjudicators Krich and Gloria Peyton.

Norfolk House's play was directed by Barbara Meiklejohn, and Victoria High's The Devil His Due was directed by H. C. Farr.

In the elementary division individual awards were made to Beverlee Sealey, Elspeth Futcher, Vanessa Steel, Charles Dodds, Gus Lakoumentas and Leslie Peterson.

Commended were Kim Willoughby, Andree Dufleit, Vicki Card, Elaine Chamberlain, Cathy Goodmanson, all the boys in Glenlyon's Our Play, Drew Denniston, Floyd Bohnet and all the girls and boys in the crowd in Keating's Silly Citizens of Happy Valley; Brian Casey, Andy Aylesworth, and Russell English.

Junior Secondary awards, placed 1, 2, 3, were awarded in the following order: Murray Price, John Courtney and Steve Ivings, and Sandy Galbraith, Janet McMillan and Laurie Rutherford.

* * *

Honorable mentions went to the Chorus in Lansdowne's Two Sides of Darkness, Shelley Harrop in S. J. Willis's Broken Sentence and the cast of St. Ann's Women at the Tomb, which was a non-competitive entry.

Senior secondary awards were made in the same order, to Kent Mundy, Allan Hudson and Casey Van Dolen; and to Bernice McGowan, Valerie Chatterton and Jeanne French.

Victoria Times book awards were presented to Kent Mundy, Victoria Senior Secondary and Bernice McGowan, St. Ann's Academy.

The PTA award is a picture which is a floating trophy and goes to the school whose entry is judged to have demonstrated the fines teamwork.

It was won by Glenlyon for the elementary entry, Our Play.

Bow Valley

Agreement to acquire all issued and outstanding shares of Western Research and Development Ltd. of Calgary has been reached by Bow Valley Industries Ltd., which plans to operate it as a full subsidiary.

Bow Valley already owns 41.75 per cent of Western Research indirectly, and under the agreement will acquire the remaining 58.25 per cent by cash payment of $285,000, plus 20,000 of its own shares, commencing in 1975.

Western Research is in air and water pollution control, offering technical services. Another firm, Dominion Instruments Ltd., Edmonton, has been bought for $75,000 cash by Bow Valley, to work with Western in design and manufacture of equipment.

Abitibi

A 10 per cent boost in net earnings is reported by Abitibi Paper Co. Ltd. for the year just ended, amounting to 64 cents (60 cents in 1968) on a share basis.

The new net totalled $12.14 million; expenditures were up $8.5 million to $24.7 million, and working capital rose from $61.68 million at the start of 1969 to $64.5 million at year end.

The company expects new sources of revenue from its Thunder Bay mineral property, but president T. J. Bell said he is less optimistic of the future generally than he was a year ago, due to possible cost increases and inflation.

Lornex

Lornex Mining Corp. Ltd. is in negotiation with railways and Vancouver harbor terminal operators for the handling of copper concentrates in a 12-year sales agreement for 162,000 tons a year from its Highland Valley mine.

Shareholders are being asked to approve at the end of this month an agreement with a consortium of Japanese companies which will buy the entire copper output. The mine also will produce 2.5 million pounds of molybdenum concentrate a year and will be Canada's largest non-ferrous producer.

Other agreements and resolutions for which approval is sought include financing, construction, management and control.

Sussman

Toronto-based Sussman Properties Ltd. has taken control by transfer of all outstanding shares in Moroto Investment Co. Ltd., whose principal asset is a coastal parcel of 2,200 acres of land in California.

The Wilder Ranch property is near Santa Cruz, and is a possible large scale housing development area of 17,000 potential population, a development research survey indicates. It adjoins University of California Santa Cruz campus.

Moroto is a wholly owned subsidiary of Sussman Properties.

CREDIT RESTRAINTS put on last year by the federal government to fight inflation have resulted in virtually no increase since 1969 in outstanding loans by chartered banks to business and individuals, according to figures released by the Bank of Canada. Latest figures show general loans at the end of June, 1969, at $14,771,000,000, while total outstanding on March 4, 1970, was $14,885,000,000. (CP Wirephoto.)

SEVERANCE PAY OFFERED TO KEEP RUBBER FIRM OPEN

TORONTO (CP) — Members of Local 132 of the United Rubber Workers of America offered Sunday to invest their severance pay in the ailing Dunlop Canada Ltd. plant here in an effort to keep it alive.

Dunlop, which employs 597 union workers here, announced March 6 it would close its Toronto plant "in four to eight weeks" because of "a combination of factors of small market, high material and labor costs and foreign competition."

Local president Philip Japp told a union meeting:

"Several hundred of our members have offered to put their severance pay—which constitutes the bulk of the plant.

"We are asking the federal and provincial governments to assist us in keeping this plant alive until they can prove it is a dead duck."

He Guts Ship of Engines Turning It Into an Eatery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One day Jerry Sutton is in Acapulco, the next maybe San Francisco, walking along the docks, eyeing ships and places to berth them.

Engine capacity of the ships doesn't concern him—if he likes what he sees he'll gut the ship of its engines, boilers and propellers anyway.

Restaurants are his game—floating restaurants—the kind people seem to flock to in southern California.

Sutton, 44, is president of the Princess Louise Corp., which runs the Princess Louise restaurant here and recently purchased two more ships for conversion into eateries.

ENLARGE FLEET

"Our thinking now," he says, "is that the fleet will be enlarged even further as adaptable ships become available and proper port facilities can be developed."

The Princess Louise, docked at Terminal Island in Los Angeles, was stripped in 1966 of her navigational equipment and for $1,500,000 refurbished into a large floating restaurant with a main dining area and six banquet rooms.

Since then an average of 360,000 dinners a year have been served aboard the old 330-foot liner, with estimated gross income over $2,000,000 annually.

IN VANCOUVER

Last January, the company purchased two smaller ships, renaming them the Princess Louise 88 and the Princese III. One will be berthed in Vancouver, the other at a site not yet determined.

Princess Louise I was famed in the 1920s as a passenger liner that plied the Inside Passage between Vancouver and Skagway, Alaska.

Princess Louise II, 225 feet long and five decks high, once carried as many as 1,200 passengers on excursions from Vancouver for the Union Steamship Co. Number three, 301 feet in length, was operated by the Canadian Pacific Steamship Line for 37 years until 1964. It is being remodelled in Seattle, Wash.

Like their older sister, the ships will accommodate not only restaurants but shops, lounges and museum areas.

Broker Firm Closing Down

NEW YORK (AP) — McDonnell and Co., a 65-year-old brokerage house, has announced it is going out of business and will close down all its branch offices in the next few months.

At the same time, the New York Stock Exchange said it had entered into an agreement with the firm for its gradual liquidation. The exchange said after the agreement becomes effective, up to $6,000,000 from a special trust fund could be used to help McDonnell close out its accounts.

Firms Must Pay Heavy Damages

MONTREAL (UPI) — Two companies have been ordered to pay over $1½ million in damages following the collapse in June, 1960, of a newly-built grain elevator at Baie Comeau, Que., 273 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Foundation Company of Canada Ltd., and Davie Shipbuilding Ltd., were ordered to pay $1,537,017 to Cargill Grain Company Ltd., in a decision handed down by Superior Court Justice Paul Lesage.

Wages, Salaries Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Wages and salaries paid in manufacturing averaged $128.47 a week in January, compared with $122.46 in December and $119.47 in January last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Wages and salaries in durable goods manufacturing rose to $138.23 a week in January from $129.81 in December and $128.17 in January last yeqr.

In a broad cross-section of all non-farm industry, the average rose to $122.37 from $117.09 in December and $114.04 in January last year.

The increases mainly represented a return to normal industrial activity in January after shorter hours during the Christmas season in December. The bureau previously reported that manufacturing wages alone averaged $115.35 in January, up from $108.67 in December.

AUSTRALIA

Stock Market Action Booms

CANBERRA (CP) — "Australia 1970 is the greatest floating casino in the seven seas, its lights blazing night and day, offering around-the-clock service for the players of several nations."

These words appeared in the Sydney Morning Herald—but not in the entertainment section. They were signed by Australia's leading financial commentator.

If, as a successful American investor said in the 1920s, it is time to get out of the stock market when the office boy starts buying, those who are wise would steer clear of Australian stocks these days.

But the advice would be ignored by Australians. Avid gamblers, whether on horses, soccer teams or any games, Australians have found in the stock market a new outlet for their chance-taking instincts.

POSEIDON IS SPUR

During a frantic, massive hunt for mineral riches, dozens of new companies are springing up with claims to bits of land. They are finding thousands of people ready to lend their money in the hope of striking it rich.

They all dream of another Poseidon—the company whose shares leaped to $280 from 20 cents after nickel deposits were found in Western Australia.

But for every Poseidon, scores of companies will find nothing but dried-up earth and useless rock.

Expert geologists insist mineral discoveries in Australia are only beginning. There are natural riches galore in this continent, they say. It is just a question of finding them.

But there have been serious allegations of malpractice on the stock exchanges. The Senate Opposition leader, Senator Lionel Murphy, has called for a federal control commission over the stock markets after receiving what he claims is clear evidence of attempts to mislead the investing public.

EXAMPLE CITED

One case quoted by Murphy concerned a group of directors who bought a few shares in their company on the London Stock Exchange. On the strength of this London buying, the price of the shares on the Australian stock exchanges shot up the next day. The directors sold out at a substantial profit.

Sir Cecil Looker, president of the Australian Federation of Stock Exchanges, alarmed at the possibility of government intervention to protect the investing public, flew to London for talks with the chairman of the London Stock Exchange. In two Australian states, Victoria and New South Wales, moves are being made to set up some form of stock exchange watchdog.

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth has withdrawn the title Royal from the Royal Rhodesian Air Force and the Royal Rhodesian Regiment, the official London Gazette has reported. It says they can have the titles back if Rhodesia resumes allegiance to the Crown. The white-ruled African colony broke away from Britain at midnight March 1 and proclaimed itself a republic.

Symphony At Its Peak

By AUDREY JOHNSON

This 1969-70 season of Victoria Symphony Orchestra, which has certainly carried it to a new height, both artistically and in public esteem, concludes on a crescendo crest with the current concert pair.

There is, foremost, the unparalleled delight, the perfect artistry of Jean Pierre Rampel and his golden flute.

But there was, on Sunday, also the orchestra performing at the peak of its much enhanced capacity.

First the small string ensemble with Winifred Scott at the harpsichord, providing a lovely baroque tapestry of sound for the rich embroidery of Rampal's fluting in the Bach Suite No. 2 in B minor.

Then the larger string section with the soloist, lilting and effervescent in Moxart's D Major Concerto.

The whole string body was featured again satisfactorily in the Mahler Adagietto, and then came a performance of the Raval orchestration of Moussorgsky's ictures at an Exhibition that brought the near-capacity audience to its feet in tribute to Laszlo Gati and his musicians.

VIVID TONE PICTURES

This series of vivid tone pictures, first written for piano and transcribed by Ravel search out the textural and infinite color resources of the orchestra with striking effect.

After an impressive opening with trumpets and a number of exceptionally well played passages by all sections, the culminating impredsion of The Great Gate at Kiev, provided a pulse-quickening climax.

There was no doubt that the afternoon belonged in a sense, to the orchestra and to the maestro, as they wrote their signature to the season.

But no solo artist could have provided a more brilliant and memorable decoration to the closing event than the great French flautist.

From an instrument notoriously limited in its dynamic scope, Rampal draws forth fantastic nuances that range from the most pastel delicacy to a gleaming brilliance that glows vividly against the string texture.

He is of course a virtuoso par excellence, His trills, cadenza passages and leaping intervals are marvels of coordination and agility.

But even more than this, even more than the lovely quality of his tone, the effect of absolute artistry, the exquisite shaping of every phrase and the emotional warmth with which he imbues them, would make this concert and this particular soloist most memorable.

The concert is repeated tonight at 8:30 at the Royal Theatre.

City Chamber Wins Award

PARKSVILLE— Victoria's Chamber of Commerce has been awarded the first annual challenge tray of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

The tray, put up for competition by out-going ACCVI president Joe Griner, is awarded to the chamber showing the most progress each year.

Clare Copeland accepted the tray, which was presented by B.C. chamber president E. G. Stroyan of Nanaimo, a former ACCVI president.

TREASON TRIAL FOR OJUKWU

LAGOS (AP) — Odumegwu Ojukwu will be tried for high treason for leading Eastern Nigeria into secession if he returns to the country, a federal Nigerian leader said Saturday.

Brig. Hassan Katsina, chief of staff of the army, told reporters:

"If Ojukwu comes back home, he will go to Kiri Kiri (prison near Lagos). We have a place for him there. He will be charged with high treason for his rebellion."

Supervisor of Mint Jailed Three Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Raymond Weldon Davidson, 36, former production supervisor in the coins section of the mint, was sentenced Monday to three years in Kingston penitentiary following his conviction on a charge of bribing a fellow employee.

Davidson was found guilty by a jury March 4 of having bribed Mrs. Darlene Ruddick during 1967 to expedite shipments of gold centennial coin sets to Ottawa coin dealer Rudolph Hoffman.

The mint had imposed limit of five of the coin sets to any one individual. Evidence was that the sets cost $40 each but were going for $80 in the coins market.

Mrs. Ruddick, fined $5,000 after pleading guilty last year to her part in the operation, had testified she and Davidson split $200 for each 200 set shipment.

Hoffman was originally charged with the two mint employees but the charge was dismissed a year ago at a preliminary hearing for lack of evidence.

Hoffman testified he had purchased about $652,000 worth of the sets during 1967 but denied that anything more than "friendship" had been involved in his access to the sets. Other clients waited for up to eight months for orders to be filled.

Baha'i Faith Shows Art At Uvic SUB

A display of art by young members of the Baha'i Faith will be held in the lounge of the Student Union Building, University of Victoria, at 7:30 p.m., March 30; at 12:30 and 7:30 p.m., March 31, and at 12:30 p.m. April 1.

The Baha'is are followers of Baha'u'llah, an exiled Persian nobleman who declared in April, 1863, that he was the bearer of a new revelation from God to the age. They claim he is the most recent in a line of inspired teachers, including Buddha, Moses, Muhammad, Krishna and Jesus Christ.

Gestalt Founder Dies in Chicago

Dr. Frederick Perls, author, psychiatrist and the founder of Gestalt Therapy and the international Gestalt Institute died at the weekend in Chicago. He was 76.

Fritz Perls. had established his newest branch, called the Gestalt Institute of Canada in a rambling resort at Lake Cowichan.

He was making a European tour when he was taken ill and flown to Chicago for treatment. His body is to be cremated and buried in New York.

Janet Lederman said today she will head the Cowichan Institute, one of seven on the continent.

"Dr. Perls' dream was that this institute would be, and we are already planning the next workshop.

The worshop will be held in July for professionals from social work, psychiatry and other related fields.

Gestalt therapy is an intellectual attempt to break emotions down into component parts so a person may better understand how he operates. Its prayer beings "I do my thing, you do your thing."

U.S.-Free Unions Urged

TORONTO (CP) — A conference on industrial democracy was told Saturday that a group within the Canadian Labor Congress will demand Canadian unions free of United States control.

Boris Mather, executive director of the Communications Workers of America, made the remark to a conference sponsored by the Woodsworth Foundation.

Mr. Mather said a reformers' brief to the CLC convention in Edmonton May 18-23 will call for contracts which cannot be vetoed in the United States by parent unions.

It also asks that more money from dues remain in Canada and includes sections on women's rights and transfer of membership from one union to another.

Mr. Mather identified Ed Finn of Ottawa, research director of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, and John Fryer, general secretary of the British Columbia Government Employees' Association, as two of the reform leaders.

Axe Murder Chief Caught

BLANTYRE, Malawi (Reuters) — President Kamuzu Banda announced Sunday night that the police have arrested the alleged leader and other alleged members of a gang responsible for a recent wave of ritual axe murders in Blantyre's African townships.

Banda previously said the murders were the work of sorcerers seeking human parts for their medicines. But he has accused Malawian rebels in Zambia and Tanzania of taking advantage of the killings to concot anti-government propaganda.

The murders, in which as many as 28 persons may have been killed during the last year, have caused widespread apprehension among Malawians. Most of the victims were hacked to death in their beds.

Buffalo Faculty Face Charges

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Forty-five faculty members of the troubled State University at Buffalo faced arraignment today on contempt charges resulting from a sit-in Sunday in the office of the university president.

The faculty members walked into the office, they said, to protest the presence of police on campus and in support of a student strike.

About 300 policemen have patrolled the campus since students clashed with officers Thursday night. The clashes resulted in 46 persons injured and five arrests.

The faculty members were accused of violating an injunction banning campus disturbances. All were released Sunday in their own recognizances.

Police said about 50 persons entered the administration building Sunday saying they were to have a meeting with acting president Peter F. Regan. Regan, who uses a different office, was not in the building.

A university official asked the group to leave, police said, and four or five walked out. Campus and city police arrested the others without encountering resistance.

In other weekend developments:

—Police began a gradual withdrawal Saturday after two days of quiet. About 150 police were called onto the campus last Sunday to end two weeks of sporadic vandalism, and the number jumped to 350 during Thursday night's violence. About 10 per cent of the 350 police left the campus Saturday.

—Acting president Regan began an investigation into charges that students used a university car to tour the state stirring up sympathy strikes. He said he would take disciplinary action against the faculty member who signed out the car.

—Erie County District Attorney Michael F. Dillon began a grand jury investigation into the disturbances. He said he would investigate the activities of both students and faculty.

The university has one week of classes before the spring break. Regan has ordered all classes to continue.

Student objections to the presence of a naval research project and Reserve Officers Training Corps on the campus erupted into violence Feb. 25. For two weeks afterward, students occupied buildings while vandals smashed windows and firebombed offices.

Travel Beyond Osaka To See Another Japan

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Flags of participating nations fly today in Japan's Senri Hills, site of Expo 70, northeast of Osaka.

After a weekend of ceremonies and festivities the exposition is officially open to the public and already shows signs of being judged the most magnificent extravaganza of the 70s.

Forbes

There are so many countries represented it is estimated it will take a visitor about a week to go around on foot, viewing all the pavilions and exhibits. And the exposition association predicts in the months the fair is open it will be visited by at least 50 million people.

There are men and women in the Greater Victoria area who will be included in those millions.

To them let me say that while Osaka and Expo 70 are the big drawing cards this year, there are many other things to see and places to explore if they would really know Japan.

These will not be found in mid-town Osaka, Tokyo or even in Kyoto, modernized, westernized and teaming with people.

* * *

Visitors will need to search in the older parishes and in the outlying districts of the big cities or in the villages and country places.

I urge Victorians therefore, if they are going to Japan this year, to earmark a day or so to do a bit of searching. They will be well rewarded.

Still bright in my memory is the first day I walked on a street in an outlying parish of Tokyo. It was early morning. The tiny shops were just coming to life. I was the only western person in sight.

All sorts of conveyances rattled along, filled with Japanese men and women going off to work in the downtown part of the city. Busses slipped in and out through the traffic. Three wheeled vans scurried along like small black beetles.

Bicycles were everywhere. Pedalled by old men with straight white beards and wearing black kimono, young men in white shirts and light cotton trousers, school boys in uniform and laborers in shorts and shirts.

* * *

These last had sweat bands around their heads and loose jackets of bright patterned cotton (happi coats they are called) that billowed out behind them as they whipped through the traffic, their brown legs pedalling like mad.

Horns of all kinds blared incessantly from the deep booms of busses and cars, through every accompanying groan and squeak to the shrill pipe of bicycle horns and the softer, more melodious trill of the tofu vendor.

Tofu is a bean curd that looks something like smooth cottage cheese. The Japanese love it and vendors sell it from small push carts on the street corners.

As I walked along the street, merchandise was being placed to best advantage in the little shops.

The fish vendor, tiny and bent and with a black line of beard around his jaw, was bringing out tubs of shrimp and snails, chunks of salmon and the very popular tia fish, with its white flesh and smudged black skin and huge head.

Persimmons and perfectly round Japanese pears were being arranged in a colorful pattern. Tailors sat crossed-legged on raised platforms in open-fronted shops, sewing for all they were worth. Cobblers worked on shoes and a little old man in a short kimono and with big horn-rimmed glasses on his wrinkled forehead was placing long bamboo poles in a pattern on either side of a door.

Looking in at one shop I saw a family seated on mats on the floor having their morning meal of rice, bean soup and pickle. In front of another door, small boys in blue and white kimono were playing a game with stones.

At the entrance to a narrow lane I found a trio of street cleaners and sweepers. All women. They were taking a short rest, squatted on their heels, smoking brown paper cigarettes and talking in harsh undertones.

These are scenes that bring visitors close to the people at work and at play.

* * *

At the same time it must be remembered that the Japan of 1970 is not only a country of old customs and traditions, it is also a world power.

Visitors who go searching will find not only ancient stone lanterns but also brilliant neon signs. They will hear with the boom of old temple bells the clangor of modern industry.

With the fragrance of the cherry blossoms there will be the smell of billowing smoke from factory chimneys. And they will see kimono clad girls learning the art of serving tea while western-dressed secretaries feed data into electronic computers.

These are all facets of an ever-changing country, yet faithful to the traditions that have served it for 2,000 years.

Amateur Flicks Shown Saturday

The Victoria Amateur Movie Club's sixth annual Spring Showing of amateur films will take place in the Strawberry Vale Community Centre on Saturday, March 21 at 8 p.m.

Featured film of the evening will be Morris Aldersmith's Forty-nine Days on a Freighter, depicting life at sea on a trip around the world.

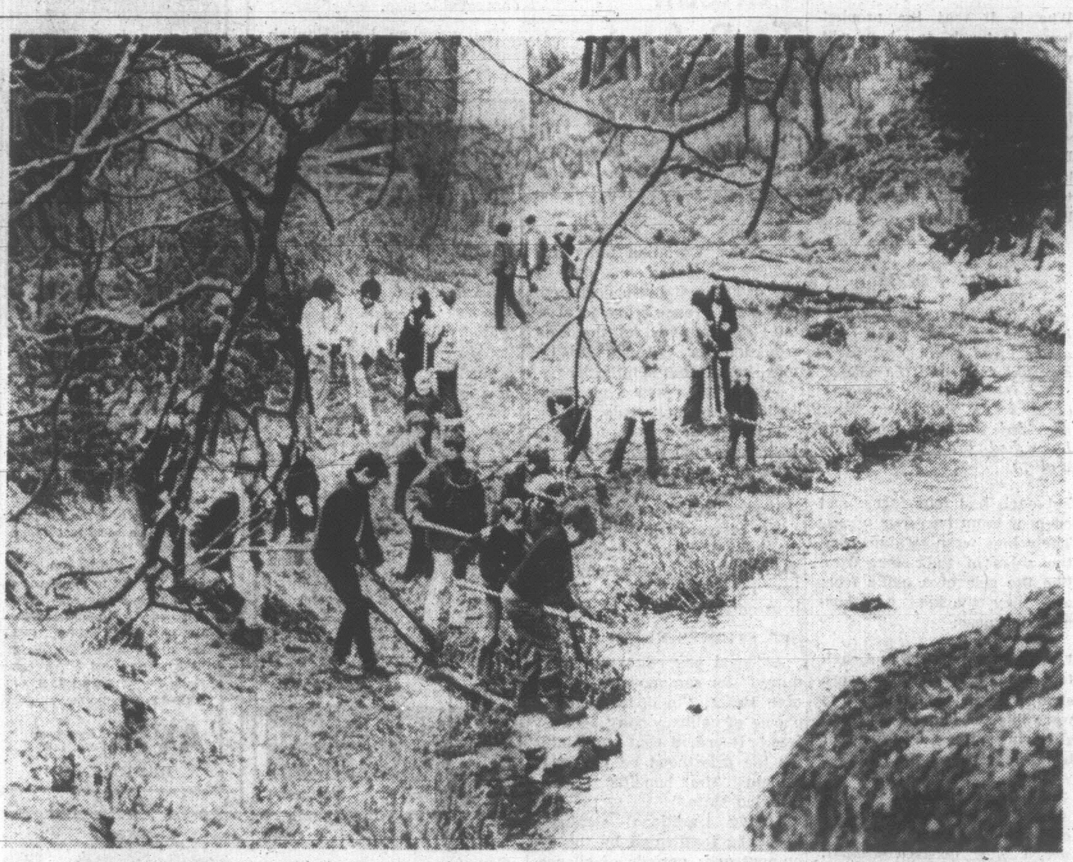
Ottawa Vows Quebec Fight



ONE-DAY CLEANUP on heavy bush and brambles edging 200 feet of Colquitz Creek is tackled by a 175-strong work party, organized by the Greater Victoria Jaycees Sunday. The volunteer work force, which included students from five senior secondary schools, cleared the area in preparation for future grading and reseeding. (William E. John Photo.)

Cambodian Talks Open As New Protests Flare

PHOM PENH (CP) — Demonstrators staged a big anti-Viet Cong protest outside the Cambodian legislature today as the neutralist government announced the opening of talks with the Viet Cong and North Vietnam.

An estimated 30,000 youths paraded in front of the National Assembly waving anti-Viet Cong banners and shouting slogans calling for the departure of Viet Cong forces from Cambodia.

A government communique today announcing the start of the three-way talks came after a North Vietnamese news agency report, monitored in Hong Kong, said Cambodia, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong had agreed to hold a meeting in the Cambodian capital to discuss their problems.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodian head of state, is in Moscow seeking Soviet help in persuading the Viet Cong to leave his country.

After a final round of talks with Kremlin officials, he is expected to leave for Peking to make the same plea.

On Friday, after demonstrators here had sacked the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong embassies, Cambodia asked both parties to withdraw their forces by Sunday.

The deadline passed without any sign of compliance, and North Vietnamese and Cambodian troops were reported to have exchanged fire for

Postal Problem Grows Worse

MONTREAL (CP) — Montrea's troubled mail delivery ran into another snag today when key mail truck drivers walked off the job at the main post office after filling their trucks with mail and then locking them. A post office spokesman said the only mail that probably would be delivered today would be that left over in sub-stations from Friday and Saturday.

77 Indians Held After New Invasion

SEATTLE (CP) — Seventy-seven Indians, including 22 from Canada, were detained by military police Sunday following a second invasion of Fort Lawton, a U.S. army post they claim under an 1865 treaty.

Sixteen of them, including one Canadian, were ordered to appear before a U.S. Commissioner today at 1:30 p.m. and Indian leaders vowed the U.S. Court House in this city would be the target of a major demonstration.

The 16, with the exception of the lone Canadian, took part in a similar invasion of Fort Lawton and nearby Fort Lewis, March 8, that led to the arrest of 85 persons.

Those ordered to appear today are charged with entering a U.S. military installation illegally, based on violation of letters of expulsion given those arrested a week ago.

All 77 persons arrested Sunday were released after spending 8½ hours in custody. A spokesman for the Canadians, Fred Favel of Vancouver, said those picked up were herded into two 12-man cells in the Fort Lawton army brig. They ranged in age from eight to 46.

The "invasion" of Fort Lawton began shortly before dawn Sunday when 77 Indian men, women and children scaled a steep bluff. They were discovered shortly thereafter clustered on the top of the bluff on army property by a military police patrol.

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko arrived here today on an official six-day visit for talks with Czechoslovak leaders about a new friendship pact.

Spy Plane Crashes

DA NANG (CP) — Twenty-two Americans were killed when a huge U.S. Navy electronic spy plane capable of jamming missile radar crashed at Da Nang Air Base today. Nine men survived, a U.S. military spokesman said in Saigon.

Hippie Patrol

JEMEZ, N.M. (UPI) — The U.S. Forest Service said today its rangers have started "hippie patrols" to cut down on nude bathing in New Mexico national forests. Fred R. Swetnam, district ranger for the Santa Fe National Forest, said the idea behind the patrols was to avoid confrontations with hippies violating forest regulations by bathing nude in streams.

Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Nixon today signed a bill creating a commission on population growth to deal with what he described as one of the most highly explosive problems of the next 30 years.

Marchand Warns Bertrand Party

Times News Services

RIMOUSKI, Que. — If Quebec's Union Nationale government is spoiling for a fight the federal government is set to fight back, Regional Economic Expansion Minister Jean Marchand warned Sunday.

The Ottawa policy of turning the other cheek when attacked by Quebec is a thing of the past, he said. And if any Quebec government not elected by a popular majority ever attempts to create an independent state, he said, Ottawa will take immediate action.

"If they simply want battles for their own sake they'll get them," he told a meeting of 100 Liberals from eastern Quebec federal ridings Sunday.

"There are real quarrels and . . . there are those that are artifically provoked and really useless battles."

Ottawa poured more than $1 billion into Quebec each year through shared-cost programs "but the people don't know about it" because the provincial government claimed all the political credit.

Earlier, Marchand, who represents the Quebec City riding of Langelier, said in a television session recorded for future airing that if a Quebec government elected on less than a 50 per cent popular vote moved towards independence, the federal government would intervene to protect the rights of the majority.

If Quebec independence came about following a majority vote, "there would be no problems."

"However, in my opinion, the independence option presents many dangers, but perhaps that is not the feeling of the whole population," he said.

'Same Old Campaign Tricks'

The Union Nationale, Marchand said during the Liberal meeting, was again resorting to its favorite campaign trick, dating back to the Duplessis era, of "fighting an election by blaming the federal government." A provincial general election has been called for April 29.

Despite Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand's pledge not to wage the current campaign on this basis, the next day his ministers began to attack Ottawa, Marchand said.

"If they want to play that game, we'll play it too. For too long, the federal government hasn't fought back.

"Things are going to change, and they're going to change radically."

The first step would be to "tell Quebecers what we are doing with their money in Quebec."

Any province refusing to accept clauses stating exactly how Ottawa's contribution to any future share-cost program would be recognized and publicized "won't get a damned cent," Marchand said.

He said many provincial regimes were acting "childishly." They had inaugurated vocational technical high schools, for which Ottawa had paid 75 per cent of the cost,

Planned Power Line Labelled 'Tragedy'

By ROGER STONEBANKS

The planned high-voltage transmission line in Saanich and Victoria was called "an environmental tragedy" this morning by city Ald. Peter Pollen.

He made the comment during a meeting of Saanich and Victoria officials with four representatives of B.C. Hydro at Saanich municipal hall.

Pollen said he recognized Hydro's financial problems but standards had to be set in urban areas.

"Costs or no costs we have got to be extremely firm," he said. "This is commercial exploitation of our environment."

Hydro plans to put the 132,000-volt line on 75-foot-high steel poles along just over four miles, from Interubran Road at Alan to Burnside at Douglas.

The line is needed to put extra power into the area to meet growing demands.

Saanich Ald. William Noel said an overhead line is a retrograde step and "a monstrous thing" and people would prefer to pay a little extra in their rates not to have such lines overhead.

DEAD LOSS

"The opinion of local government is that it is no longer acceptable to inflict this overhead transmission line on the environment," said Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis.

When the economics of underground versus overhead were considered, he pointed out, that the effect of over-

TOT SURVIVES MISHAP BUT DIES IN HOSPITAL

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — A week-old baby died in hospital today, bringing the death toll to four following the sinking Sunday night of a 34-foot fishing boat off the northern British Columbia coast.

RCMP said the baby was the child of Harold and Kathy Barton, who were among the five survivors, all from Port Simpson, 15 miles northwest of here.

The baby was picked up alive from the debris of the vessel, identified as the PE-50, after a rescue boat responded to a distress signal reporting the boat's engines were stalled and that it was taking on water.

Bible Translation Draws Wide Praise

LONDON (AP) — The New English Bible went on sale today amid debate on its style and publishers' predictions of sales in the millions.

The new Bible is not a revision of previous versions but a new translation from Greek and Hebrew texts. Its publishers, the University Presses of Oxford and Cambridge claim it is "as truthful as human skill could make it and carried out by the best scholars and translators that the churches possessed.

The translation was sponsored by all the major Christian churches in Britain except the Roman Catholic. The work took 12 years.

Dr. Cecil Northcott, churches correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, said:

"It will rank among the great biblical achievements. Never was the English-speaking world better provided for in contemporary translations of the Bible than today, and the New English Bible is the crowning venture."

'IT COMMUNICATES'

John Redfern, churches correspondent of The Daily Express, predicted "many arguments about the translation, but I believe that it fulfils its task — which was to communicate — at all points."

However, Jesuit scholar Peter Levi commented in The Sunday Observer:

"The new Bible is written in a deadly and churchy mandarin . . ."

A Sunday Times critic said: "Too often its English lacks both dignity and authority. The substantial changes in sense are notable, and more than enough to have had men burnt at the stake for."

Crux Loses Last Appeal

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP) — The Bahamas Court of Appeal dismissed today an appeal by lawyer-financier A. G. Duncan Crux of Vancouver against the refusal by the Supreme Court to issue him a writ of habeas corpus.

Crux, 63, former head of the Commonwealth group of companies in British Columbia, was ordered by a magistrate's court last December to be extradited to Canada to face 11 charges of fraud and theft. The charges arose from the collapse of the Commonwealth group in November, 1968.

Crux has been in Fox Hill Prison near here since Dec. 7, apart from three weeks in hospital for a series of medical tests.

Teachers Threaten Strike

Mass resignations or a teachers' strike are possibilities in the wake of the provincial government's refusal to increase teachers' pensions, a member of the B.C. Teachers Federation pensions committee said today.

Don Jorgenson of Vancouver, said pensions are first on the agenda for the Federation's annual meeting opening March 30 in Vancouver.

A member of a BCTF delegation — one of about 19 teachers who will be lobbying MLAs today and Tuesday— was officially told today by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black that pensions increases are not planned this year, Jorgenson. said.

DRASTIC ACTION

There was a very good chance that drastic action might result. "Teachers feel they have nothing to lose and possibly something to gain by action that will make the government and the public aware of their feelings."

Jorgenson said that next fall or winter would be "logical" times to undertake drastic action.

But he stressed that the Federation's pension committee is not empowered to make such decisions. They would have to come from the Federation membership as a whole.

He said the first indication that no pension increases were planned came indirectly some weeks ago in a letter from a Social Credit MLA to a constituent who was a Federation member.

Jorgenson said Black, in speaking to a delegation member from his own con-

'PILL-POPPING POT PUFFERS DID IT . . .'

Mutineers Hijack U.S. Arms Ship

Times News Services

SATTAHIP, Thailand — The crew of the hijacked merchant ship Columbia Eagle told rescuers the 10,636-ton freighter loaded with bombs for Thailand was taken over by two "pill popping and marijuana blowing" hippies, seamen aboard the rescue ship Rappahannock said Today.

The Columbia Eagle was seized this weekend through a ruse that caused 24 crewmen to abandon ship in belief there was a time bomb aboard. The 24 men were picked up by the Rappahannock while the mutineers sailed the vessel to the Cambodian port of Sihanoukville.

The U.S. defence department said it has received fragmentary information indicating the Cambodian government has removed two mutineers from the Columbian Eagle anchored in Cambodian waters.

The department said it understands that 13 other crew members including the skipper remained aboard the vessel.

The ship may be moved into port — perhaps Sihanoukville — and the crew may possibly be taken ashore in Cambodia, the announcement said.

Defence department spokesman Jerry Friedheim said: "We don't know if the civilian skipper of the Columbia Eagle is now in charge of the vessel."

Richard Joyce of San Francisco, a merchant seaman aboard the Rappahannock, talked with the 24 Columbia Eagle crewmen.

"They said they believed that the hijacking was done by a couple of hippies who had signed on in the United States," Joyce said. "They said these guys were popping pills and blowing marijuana all the way over and talking about how they were anti-Vietnam."

Joyce said the Columbia Eagle men were picked up from two lifeboats Saturday night about 7 hours after they were ordered to abandon ship. They were in good condition.

The survivors told their rescuers that an order to abandon ship was announced over the Columbia Eagle public address system by the third mate. He said he was acting on orders from the ship captain.

"They were under the impression that the reason they were abandoning the ship was because a bomb had been put on board to detonate with a timing device," said James Debay of San Francisco, a seaman from the Rappahannock.

"But after the 24 crewmen took to the life boats and cleared the ship, Columbia Eagle got underway. The ship with 15 members remaining aboard circled around the lifeboat and steamed off apparently at full speed."

Debay said the men in the lifeboat soon realized that the report of a live bomb being aboard the ship was a ruse. They realized that no radio message had been sent to other ships in the area, and also became suspicious because the captain himself did not appear above decks when the ship was being abandoned.

"They finally got to thinking that probably the two hippie guys may have put a gun to the captain's head," Joyce said.
